THE BRITISH GRAIN TRADE.

The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade the past week, says: A week's wet weather and snow storm has made the land very wet and much colder, and, consequently, young wheat made very little noticeable progress. The grain trade is quiet, and prices are not quotably altered. Old native oats were inquired for at hardening prices.

Foreign breadstuffs present no fresh feature. The values of wheat in London, ex ship, are unchanged, excepting in very exceptional cases. Trade in Liverpool quiet, and prices unaltered. There was a more liberal supply of flour in London, but values are unchanged, Maize is held for an advance, but in Liverpool the prices declined 1-2d. New foreign oats in London have partially or wholly recovered from Monday's decline. Barley, beans, and peas not quotably altered.

The off-coast wheat market is well supported, with but very little business reported. Seventeen cargoes arrived, of which only three were sold. Red winter qoted at 54s 7d, which represents an advance of 6d. This advance is due to the preponderance of stocks of white wheat.

The sales of English wheat during the week were 46,308 quarters at 44s 9d per quarter, against 41,768 quarters at 45s 1d per quarter the corresponding week last year.

THE best legal authorities are not entirely agreed as to where the burden of proof should be placed in a plea of insanity—whether on the State or on the defendant. A majority of them, however, as appears from a pamphlet on the subject recently published, take what seems to us the logical view that the plea of insanity is an affirmative proposition laid down by the defendant, and must be proved by the defendant. The instructions of Judge Cox on this subject will be read with interest. Of course, it will be necessary for the jury to believe Guiteau to have been sane on the 2nd of July, in order to justify a verdict of guilty. But a nice question comes up as to the doubts of jurymen, and how they are to resolve them. If Judge Cox believes it to be the duty of the defendant to prove insanity, the prosecution should get the benefit of doubts which the defendant's failure may create; but if Judge Cox holds it to be the duty of the prosecution to prove sanity, then the defendant will get the benefit of doubts which the failure of the prosecution may create.

The great difference among men, of all callings, is energy of character or the want of it. Given the same amount of learning and integrity, and the same opportunities, and energy will make one man a conqueror. The want of it will see the other a failure. Dead-beats are all men without force. They had as good a chance as any of their companions. Others went
