Queer Accident

There must be something the matter with the mule business. J. W. Miller, one of our big mule dealers is sick and his partner, Wm. VanWinkle is crippled. He met with a very unusual accident last week. During the cold snap he got up to build a fire and a hot coal flew out and landed between two toes. He can't be hopped, danced and kicked but the coal stuck till he picked it out with his fingers. As a result he's not paying as much for mules as formerly!

Card of Thanks

We extend thanks to our many friends here in Marshall who have so kindly and lovingly ministered to our needs during the illness of Mrs. Griffiths. Especial mention is due some of the members of the Methodist church, South and of the Baptist and Christian churches for their deed of loving kindness and sacrifice in furnishing a trained nurse to care for Mrs. Griffiths during her illness. Also special mention is due the following members of the Presbyterian church at Norton for their interest and loving gifts so freely offered. Mr. and Mrs. Wm Hyland, Mr. and Mrs.

L. C. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Ansell, Mr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, Miss Bessie Steele, Miss Lizzie Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkle, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plourd, Mrs. Stella Griffiths, Miss Carrie E. Caswell.

Helped Them All Out

Our combination offer came just in time to keep peace in the Sandy Hook vicinity near Little Rock, as shown by the following letter from J. L. Kessler:

Napton, Mo. Nov. 29, 1911

Mr. J. J. Witt—
Dear Sir:—Seeing your proposition in the Republican, and as we have a few pounds of sugar, and no spoons to handle it with, my wife said for me to renew and pay up for goodness sake, for she did need the spoons so badly. So here I come. Please find inclosed an order for renewal.

"As I was in Sandy Hook yesterday looking around I met T. H. Welp. He said for me to send in his renewal for the two papers and spoons. I think his wife is about to leave him if he does not get her some spoons for I believe she hasn't any or else they have wooden ones like we have been using."

Say, by the way, Frank Kiao living in Sandy Hook has a new born girl about three weeks old, feels so proud of his little daughter that he promised his wife a present for Christmas and not being able to get her one, he got after me to renew for him, so that he can keep his promise to his wife or he fears a divorce otherwise.

J. L. Kessler.

Bring "Her" With You.

Most men's stores hate to see a man bring his wife, mother or sister to help select his clothes; but this store welcomes "her." In fact we prefer to have you bring all your lady friends with you.

The store that does not like to see you accompanied by a lady is afraid of her verdict—they know that a woman can't be deceived and that she won't allow you to be talked into something you'll later regret buying.

We invite you to bring "her" with you because we know she is a better judge of the materials than you—she will make you take your time and help you select the style and color most becoming to you. We are not afraid of her verdict for we know our celebrated
