A large Republican Club, known as the Roosevelt Republican League, has been organized in St. Louis.

In 1902 Montgomery City will hold an immense Street Fair that will fitly commemorate the big crop our farmers are going to raise next year.

You may take the tier of States stretching across the continent from East to West on a parallel with Missouri, and you will find that Missouri is the only state in the list that is solidly Democratic. We do not believe that grand old Missouri will long remain an exception.

We have on our subscription list many of the very best citizens in the county who are delinquent. We feel that it should only be necessary to call attention to this fact to induce such subscribers to promptly send us the amount due, which is always shown on the margin of the paper. We realize that times are a little hard this fall, but these are small matters that should be attended to, and we will appreciate favors of this kind very much at this time.

One of the brightest and most ably edited newspapers now published in the State is the Missouri State Republican, published in St. Louis by Mr. E. C. Brockmeyer. We predict that Mr. Brockmeyer's intelligence and energy will make for the Republican a great future. Missouri is the fifth State in the Union, and practically half of its voting population is Republican. We have ample room for ever Republican paper now published in the State, and by a united and harmonious effort we expect to land Grand Old Missouri in the Republican column next year.

How becomingly the persuasive air of innocence hovers o'er the sanctum of the Republic!

With what an air of holy horror it performs the double cross act of holding up its hands at the awful spectacle of Chairman Akins and the boys of the Republican party who had offices stolen from them in Missouri, making a trip to Washington for the blood-curdling purpose of helping in a quiet way a few friends to get a stray appointment now and then; and at the same time holding down its ancient skirts to hide the skeleton of Cronin, Butler and Wells picking the filthy skeletons of Nesbit law victims and Supreme Court holdups!

Of course Kerens and Akins are engaged in a deadly feud, otherwise, how could the Republic distract attention from the ravelings into which the Globe-Democrat has picked the Auditor's reports?

Of course the Republican "outfits," as the Republic calls them, are the only people in wide Missouri who want pie. Dockery is a saint, dispensing blessings; Wells is a political philanthropist distributing charity to the needy multitude! Bad Jack Williams is poor, but worthy mendicant, whose pious works have an example of Christian fortitude, and the Solar Walkers have aureoles of righteousness growing like Balam's ears right out of the tops of their heads.

In the name of ordinary horse sense let the Republic quit throwing stones when the lass houses of Democracy expose the most effidious crimes known to political warfare and the price paid for supremacy in St. Louis.

Akins and Kerens are no saints, but tone and Dockery and Cook and Francis and Wells can give them cards and spades the Devil's game and easily rake in the it.—Political Review.

The Globe-Democrat has driven the Democratic administration into a Santiago Bay, and is watching the narrow channel of escape so closely that the enemy will have a harder task in eluding the guns than Cervera had on his fatal July morning. The accounts of the State are in a bad shape. Auditor Allen can't fix them.—Political Review.

Next year the following County officers are to be elected: Representative, Collector, Probate Judge, Prosecuting Attorney, Sheriff, County Clerk, Circuit Clerk Recorder, Treasurer, Coroner, and three members of the County Court.

The Republicans will nominate a ticket composed of honest capable and active men for these offices, and it will win.

THE ELECTION NEXT YEAR.

LON V. STEVENS TALKS

"The republicans were never better organized in Missouri than at the present time. Appreciating the demoralized condition of the democratic party, and amused and delighted at our heretofore trusted leaders repudiating the silver plank in the Kansas City platform, they are more than ever hopeful of success, and are working valiantly, night and day, to this end. A call for a conference of the republican editors has been recently issued, and meetings in every congressional district, for every month, from now on to the end of the campaigns in 1902 and 1904, have been arranged. Yet, with our own inactivity and indifference, and with the enemy defiant and determined, Dockery, Seibert and Cook think it "unwise unsafe, and fraught with grave possibilities" for democrats to meet in peaceful assemblage and confer and discuss the ways and means of holding Missouri in the democratic column and electing a successor Senator Vest."

—Lon V Stevens, in Booneville Advertiser.

The delay in the appearance of the official statement of the state's finances is certainly inexplicable. If this were not true, some explanation of it would certainly have been made. Such a long withholding of information which the public has been led to believe could be furnished without trouble or delay is arousing suspicion even among the most prejudiced of the partisans of the party in power. There is general fear among men of all parties that there have been discreditable transactions which the delay is to cover up rather than expose. The bringing of an expert accountant from the east to verify the findings of Auditor Allen is in itself alarming, indicating, as it certainly does, that the auditor's office has got beyond its lepth and is not capable of dealing with the situation disclosed in the books.

—Missouri State Republican.

Several months ago the Globe-Democrat openly charged that discrepancies in the State book keeping aggregating millions of dollars were shown by the State Auditor's reports of the past thirty years. Shortly after these charges were first made it was announced from Jefferson City that Auditor Allen was preparing a statement of the financial condition of the State covering the past thirty years, which it was announced would soon be given to the public. Days passed into weeks, and weeks into months, and yet Auditor Allen's report was not forthcoming. In the meantime the Globe-Democrat has reiterated its charge from day to day. It has made its charges more specific and has referred to the book and page where the discrepancies may be found. The news now comes from Jefferson City that the State Auditor has a firm of New York experts going over the books to verify their accuracy. When the books get in such a condition that it is necessary to call in experts from New York to prove their accuracy, we submit that the thing needed is a change of administration. It is not in the best interest of the State that one set of men should have a life time lease on the State officers. Thousands of Democrats as well as Republicans are of this opinion, and their views will find expression at the polls next year.
