

Edm Bunker

THE STATE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME XIX.

JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1890.

NUMBER 8.

EVERYBODY TAKE NOTICE
OF...
★FRIDAY'S★
GREAT
SLAUGHTER SALE!

Of Over Coats and Clothing of all kinds. Men's overcoats from $1.75 up. Men's suits from $3.00 up. I am determined to reduce my stock regardless of cost. Persons wishing to buy any goods in my line will save money by calling at my store before purchasing elsewhere. Don't forget the place.

Friday's Missouri Clothing House.

★JOHN A. LINHARDT★
DEALER IN—
Staple and Fancy Groceries

SPECIALTIES

Glassware, Queensware, Tea and Dinner Sets, Chamber Sets, Library Lamps, Toilet Articles, Tobacco, Cigars, Woodenware, Ice Chests, Refrigerators, Grass and Garden Seed, Oysters, Fish and Game in Season.

Cash Paid for all Kinds of Country Produce.
230 EAST HIGH STREET.

DANIEL GUNDELINGER,

Hardware
Stoves
Etc.
Tinware
Cutlery
Etc.

The Most Complete Stock in Central Missouri of the Best and Cheapest Hardware, Tinware, Stoves, Cutlery, Etc. Exclusive agent for the celebrated Wire-Gauze Charter Oak Stoves and Quick Meal Gasoline Stove.

Door Frames, Window Frames, Wire Screen, Weather Strips, Spring Hinges, Bird Cages, Water Coolers, Etc., a Specialty. Tin Roofing Spouting and Jobbing of all kinds given prompt attention.
No. 123 HIGH STREET.

HENRY J. DULLE, President.
BERNARD DULLE, Vice-President.
J. W. SCHULTE, Secretary & Treasurer.

CAPITAL STAR AND VICTORIA ROLLER MILLS.

FLOUR MEAL AND MILL FEED
G. H. DULLE MILLING CO.
WEST MAIN STREET.

C. A. WARE'S NEW LIVERY STABLES

LARGE QUANTITIES OF
Carriages, Surreys, Buggies, Road Carts
FOR SALE AT MANUFACTURERS' PRICES.
Second-Hand Rigs Bought and Sold.
Mules and Horses Bought and Sold.
The best and finest Livery Rigs in the State.
EAST MAIN STREET.

Epitome of the Week.

INTERESTING NEWS COMPILATION.

CONGRESSIONAL.

A bill was introduced in the Senate on the 23rd for the erection of a monument to Abraham Lincoln on the Gettysburg battle-field. Mr. Mitchell spoke in favor of the bill for the free coinage of silver. The House bill granting honorable discharge to the sailors and marines who have lost their certificates of discharge was passed. In the House the election case of Smith versus Jackson from the Fourth West Virginia district was taken up. The Democrats generally refused to vote and made the point of no return. The Speaker, however, counted the members refusing to vote and declared a quorum present. This ruling caused a long debate.

The bill instructing the superintendent of census to gather information regarding mortgages on homes and farms was passed in the Senate on the 20th ult. Mr. Vance (N. C.) spoke on the negro emigration bill in answer to Mr. Ingalls. In the House the election case of Smith versus Jackson was taken up. The Democrats refused to vote and made the point of no return. The Speaker, however, counted the members refusing to vote and declared a quorum present. This ruling caused a long debate.

The Senate in executive session on the 31st ult. confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

There was no session of the Senate on the 1st. In the House the Senate confirmed the nomination of John B. Clark as collector of the port of Chicago. In the House another wrangle took place over the ruling of Speaker Reed, but he was sustained at all points, and finally quiet was restored as the committee report of the Smith-Jackson contest case was listened to.

A PACKING-HOUSE at Kansas City, Mo., owned by Boston capitalists, was burned on the 31st ult. Loss, $200,000.

The Mississippi Legislature on the 31st ult. passed a bill doing away with the convict lease system.

The statement of the public debt issued on the 1st showed the total debt to be $1,011,231,183; cash in the Treasury, $31,894,200; debt less cash in Treasury, $1,040,707,016. Decrease during January, $12,245,896. Decrease since June 30, 1889, $55,099,600.

Five blocks of buildings at Danbury, Conn., were burned on the 2d. Loss, $300,000.

Three sons of James Bright of Kirkland township, Ind., were found dead in their beds on the 2d. They had been ill with influenza, but when they retired the previous night their condition was not thought to be dangerous.

At Kenosha, Wis., two large buildings, the water cure and the German church were burned on the 2d. Total loss, $125,000.

Near Alligator bay, in Arkansas, a man named Kelly shot and killed his wife and a young man on the 1st in a fit of jealousy.

Hiram McCormick, of New Brunswick, defeated Alton Paulsen in a ten-mile race at Eau Claire, Wis., on the 2d, and took the title of the champion skater of the world, which Paulsen had held for eight years. Time, 46 1/2 minutes.

The Sears building, one of the finest in Boston, was burned on the 2d. Loss, $250,000.

Six men were killed, two fatally injured and several others hurt on the 1st by an explosion of gas in a coal shaft at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

A train on the Chicago & Alton railroad left the track at Alma, Mo., on the 1st, ditching sixteen cars, and five of the trains were fatally injured.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Reeves, living in a basement in Kansas City, Mo., died on the 1st from wounds inflicted upon it by rats some time during the night.

At Louisiana, Mo., on the 1st Joseph Bacon, a negro boy 12 years old, killed his sister, 6 years old, and his brother, 3 years old.

At Winochka, La., Allen Buys and Duncan Thompson, boys of 15, quarreled on the 1st, and young Buys stabbed and killed Thompson and then killed himself.

A train with one thousand negro emigrants en route from South Carolina to Arkansas and Texas passed through Birmingham, Ala., on the 2d.

Early on the morning of the 2d a fire in a tenement house in Boston caused the loss of ten lives, and seven other persons were badly injured.

An incendiary fire on the 1st at Elwood, Ind., destroyed eight stores.

A schooner Annie M. Scribner, of the Gloucester (Mass.) fishing fleet, was on the 2d given up as lost with her crew of fourteen men.

The visible supply of grain in this country on the 3d was: Wheat, 3,489,192 bushels; a decrease of 454,411 bushels; corn, 11,918,447 bushels, an increase of 288,855 bushels.

The bridge across the Illinois river near Peoria, Ill., gave way on the 2d beneath the weight of a freight train, and Engineer Neville, Fireman O'Brien and brakeman Lewis were killed.

In the Metropolitan Opera-House at New York on the 3d, Seth Low was installed as the eleventh president of Columbia College in the presence of a vast audience.

The convention of Knights of Labor of New York State, held in Troy on the 2d, adopted resolutions in favor of the Australian ballot system.

On the 3d Director of the Mint Leoph estimated that on February 1 there was $1,123,188,174 worth of gold and silver coin and bullion in the United States divided as follows: Gold coin, $634,900,433; gold bullion, $96,090,987; silver coin, $429,646,645; silver bullion, $11,557,750.

The residence of Secretary of the Navy Tracy in Washington was burned early on the morning of the 3d. The Secretary's youngest daughter and Mrs. Tracy's French maid, Josephine Morris, were burned to death, and Mrs. Tracy received injuries from which she died shortly after being removed to a place of safety. The Secretary was rescued in a partially-asphyxiated condition, while his youngest daughter, Mrs. Wilmesding, and her little daughter Alice saved themselves by jumping from the second-story window.

MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

After Twenty Years.

Dr. W. C. Hatler, a prominent physician of Cole County, was recently arrested at his home by a deputy United States marshal on a warrant charging him with a murder committed twenty years ago in McDonald County. The arrested a great sensation, as Dr. Hatler was prominent in business, professional and political circles, and had an unblemished reputation all his life. In the early part of 1870 Dr. Hatler went with his family from Cole to McDonald County, located just on the line of the Indian Territory and proceeded to erect a house. While it was in course of construction he occupied rooms in a house in a village half a mile from the line in the Indian Territory, owned by a half breed Cherokee Indian, William Sloan. The Indian became abusive to the doctor's family and finally threatened to kill him, supplementing his threats with a shotgun. The doctor in defending himself killed Sloan with a hatchet. Every one recognized the fact that the killing was in self-defense and nothing was done until fifteen years after (in 1885) when the federal grand jury at Fort Smith, Ark., indicted him, and now, five years for involvement, he has been arrested although his identity and residence have all the time been known.

Miscellaneous.

A late match at Chicago between Kansas City and Chicago sportsmen Kansas City bore off all the honors as well as prizes.

The other night at asylum No. 2, in St. Joseph, Adolphus Mueser, who attempted to kill himself in Kansas City four months ago by throwing himself under a cable, tried to sever his jugular vein with a piece of steel spring but did not succeed. He is sixty-four years of age, and a brother of the late Colonel Mueser, of the Confederate army. For some time past he has been addicted to the use of morphine and this is the cause of his presence in the asylum.

The other morning a Government detective went to the post-office at Barlow and arrested Mrs. Henry Boganz, postmistress, and her son Charles upon the charge of rifling the mails.

C. E. Gimson has filed in the Supreme Court a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel Secretary of State Leasure to incorporate the "Lafayette Park Club" of St. Louis. The suit is of a friendly character to determine the powers and duties of the circuit courts and the rights of the Secretary of State in relation to the incorporation of benevolent, religious, scientific, educational and miscellaneous associations.

Dr. J. O. Day, one of the most prominent physicians of Kansas City, died recently after suffering several months from stomach disorder. He was fifty-two years old.

The flouring mill at Centralia, owned by C. W. Pelsue & Co., was burned the other morning. Loss, $10,000; insurance, $1,000. It was the only mill in the place.

Governor Francis, acting upon the advice of Attorney-General Wood, has commenced suit against the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad for the recovery of $300,000 with interest from 1878.

Miss Phoebe Cousins, of St. Louis, has been appointed special agent for the collection of statistics of recorded indebtedness for the city of St. Louis for the census report.

A solemn wedding occurred at Kansas City the other evening. Joseph H. Acklen, ex-Congressman of Tennessee, being married to Miss Jeannette Tillotson, a young lady of wealth.

C. W. F. Heaton, the young confidence man and forger who recently pleaded guilty to passing two forged checks upon the Midland National Bank at Kansas City, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

MISSOURI PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Annual Report of Superintendent Coleman.

—Temperance and Religion in the Schools—Education of Colored Children—The Effort to Secure Mixed Schools—State Superintendent of Schools Coleman has completed the fourth report of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of the public schools of the State, and the manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and will be ready for distribution shortly. The report is for the school year commencing July 1, 1889, and ending June 30, 1890. Under the head of "General Suggestions" Mr. Coleman says: A careful comparison of the statistics and general condition of the schools of the State for the school year herein reported with what previous years will show decided improvement. More teachers were employed, and at better salaries; more lines were collected and placed to the credit of the permanent school fund; more good institutions were held, and more systematic and thorough work done than in any previous year; more of