JACKSON, MO., MARCH 1, 1908

A MEXICAN who rescued a St. Louis woman, who afterward refused to marry him, has just left her $150,000. He no doubt recognized the great service she did him in declining his offer.

Now that "Bluebeard" Hoch is hanged and safely out of the way the morbid women of Chicago will have to hunt up another idol. If St. Louis would ship them "Jack the Stabber" it would be doing an act of charity.

The people of St. Louis are still waiting to hear the city councilmen explain why they trampled on their wishes by defeating the free bridge bill. At present the belief is that the monopoly forgot to prepare an explanation when it arranged for the slaughter.

At the Democratic State Committee's meeting to select the place of the nominating convention, Insurance Superintendent W. D. Vandiver proposed Cape Girardeau and got only six votes. Whether the showing was due to the town or its proposer has not been revealed.

J. H. Rodes, state game warden, has sent to the press of Missouri his views on the game and fish law of the state, and asks their assistance to help pass better laws. No one will deny but that we need to improve the present game and fish law, and with the proper amendments it may serve the desired end—the protection of the game and fish.

The Cash-Book man says Gov. Folk will not appoint a thief to fill the vacancy of county clerk. We hope not. We have not been in the habit of having thieves to fill that office, have we? The Cash-Book man evidently wishes us to infer that there are thieves in the Democratic party, but that he expects Folk to not recognize them. If he did not mean this what did he mean?

You will find in the HERALD all the home news available and worthy of publication, and all the news from abroad. We do not air extensively sensationalism, not because we do not know it, but because we see no need of creating an appetite for such kind of reading in the minds of the young, and we expect the HERALD to be a paper worthy of a place in any home. We think the shortest and most laconic way a murder or any sensational happening can be put in the best, especially when a woman is connected with it. At least this is the line on which we will bow.

The Laclede hotel, St. Louis, may come to be the rendezvous of the Democrats of the State. Judge Evans, chairman of the State Committee says that the Laclede does not want the State headquarters there; the country Democrats are kicking because they do not like the bribe-a-brac and draperies that line the path to the present location, on the sky floor of the Planters', and now comes the Madison, adjoining the Laclede, and proffers free rooms to the committee. The Madison is a "dollar a day" house. It is the meeting place for all railway grievance committees and is well supplied with spittoons. Bet on the Madison.

ACTIVITY spells victory in everything and this is no less true in our Popular Girl Contest. It is work that will win.

JACK the stabber confessed to the stabbing out of court, but now, when in the court room, he pleads not guilty.

THE Republican congressional convention for the 14th district meets at Caruthersville June 5th to name a nominee.

WE notice that our old friend E. S. Portis is now owner and editor of the Whitewater Times. Jack is a good worker, a hustler and a good fellow. We want him to succeed.

FREE EYE EXAMINATIONS

Will Cease After March 6th.
 On account of the birth of a son at my residence in Jackson, I will be at my office here until March 6th. During this time I will do work at my usual low prices; also continue my free eye examinations and consultation. I will positively discontinue my free eye examinations and consultation after March 6th. After this date I will charge a fee for all eye examinations, but this fee will be deducted from the price of glasses when ordered. After March 6th I will be at my residence in Jackson as previously, on Sunday and Monday of each week only.
 DR. GRIM, Oculist-Optician.

Two In One Winter.

C. E. Emerson of Fitzwilliam, N. H., had two attacks of pneumonia in one winter. He writes that two physicians said he could not recover from the last attack. After they had given up hope he began taking Foley's Honey and Tar, which brought him out all right. He writes that he surely thinks Foley's Honey and Tar is the grandest remedy for throat and lung troubles. For sale by W. A. Trickey.

From Fruitland.

Aunt Sally Short is improving very slowly.
 Uncle Davy Caldwell is very much under the weather. He is the oldest man near here; he is about 84 years old.

Billy Carroll, often called "Irish Billy," a few months older than Uncle Davy Caldwell, visited here last week.

Glen McNeely and Orto Burns went to Oriole, Sunday, to see their best girls.

Amos McLain went to the Cape Saturday on business.

Fruitland is again on the boom. Mr. McLain is going to build a new store building with a hall on top, and there is strong talk of two more buildings of the same kind being built.

Mr. Houck's engine No. 1 was repaired here at the machine shops one day last week. I wonder if Mr. Houck has ever thought of this being a good place to have his repair work done.

SCRIBBLER.

From Millerville.

MR. EDITOR:—In looking over the columns of your paper, I notice that your correspondents, in writing articles for publication, are few and very brief, and many of them are not interesting to the public. I am satisfied that many of them have the brains and the ability to write articles of deep interest to your paper. And I would suggest that they branch out on various subjects and develop their knowledge and experience to the end that the people may be profited thereby and the circulation of your paper may be greatly enlarged. There are great moral issues upon which hinge our elevation and prosperity as a Christian nation or our down fall.

We all have talents that must be improved, or out of our own mouth we will be condemned. So if we have a good idea or a good thought that we think will be a help to our brother, let us say it. If our knowledge is never developed or known to our neighbor we are a drone in any community and our education is a failure to a great extent. I have been thinking of a great moral question, of which one is very prominent, I might say, throughout the world. The other is not so prominent, and but little said about it, yet it is the most prevalent and the most deceptive, yet they are the greatest enemies to our moral and religious prosperity of anything else. And now comes the question: Which is the greatest hindrance to good morals and religion, intoxicating drink or covetousness?

I would like very much to hear from some of our moral and religious heads on this question, which I think would interest the readers of your valuable paper. Now, Mr. Editor, it is left to you to grant or reject this proposition.
 Yours truly,
 F. E. P. CRAIN.

A proposition under discussion by members of the commercial club is to buy a tract of land on the outskirts of Charleston, lay it off in lots of convenient size and offer it to home builders at just the cost to the promoters. Those who buy will be required to build upon it homes for their own use. Several business men have signified willingness to invest in an enterprise of the kind, realizing that the demand for homes is much beyond the present supply. —Charleston Enterprise.

Such an arrangement would be good for Jackson. We will start the movement with four lots; $60 a lot will buy them now.
