Many Things Worth Reading, Condensed for Busy Readers

Wants to Annex Hayti.

"It might be a good thing to annex Hayti were it not for including some of Bill York's delinquent subscribers."—Twice-a-Week Democrat.

Don't let that bother you, Bill. Go ahead with your annexing; we have only one delinquent subscriber, and he is dead. We always mark their names off when they die and boost them just as far into eternity as possible.

But by the way, Bill, judging from your list out here, you must take Postmaster Guffy for a sexton.

He wants his little daughter to see his old home, its mountains, springs and rivers, and the beautiful scenery of the southland.

Now is the time of the year when merchants should use some specials in advertising. The reason some people think it does not pay to advertise is because they do not give it a fair test. It takes some life and energy to advertise, but it pays if kept up.

I have employed Jack Warful of Little Rock, an experienced watchmaker and jeweler. We carry a full stock of every factory's make of genuine material, with Western Union wire in our store. We are prepared to give you good work. Chas. Goodrich, Caruthersville. 30

We have had a harder time this week to get a little news than any week since we have been here. We always do our part. We ask every one we see for news, and of course if you do not tell us, it is your fault. We are not mind readers, and if you expect to see what you know in print you must tell it.

Last Friday night the Modern Woodmen held a most pleasant and profitable meeting, besides work in the degrees. A nice lunch was served at 10 o'clock, which all enjoyed to the limit. C. M. Shell certainly demonstrated the fact that he knew how to cook and serve lunches. The camp here have a gold bound ivory gavel that cost $35, that was won in a contest last year for the largest gain in membership in this district, their gain being 216%.

A story is going the rounds of a couple of young people who attended church at Caruthersville. When the collection was taken up, the young man commenced fishing for his pocketbook. His face expressed his embarrassment as he hoarsely whispered: "Guess I haven't a cent. I changed my pants." The young lady, who had been examining the unknown region of a woman's dress for a purse, turned pink color and said: "I'm in the same fix."

We are informed that after this month the telephone company will remove their local manager from this place, and will attempt to keep up this work from Kennett. This means that Hayti is going to get poor service and that the lines will be poorly kept up. It is said that some of the other towns will be given the same dose, and that Chaffee and Oran will be placed under one management. It occurs to us that now would be a good time for a few of the Southeast towns to get together and organize a home company.

City Marshal Lefler is collecting the dog tax this week. No one should complain about paying this tax. There are entirely too many dogs in town, and this will be the means of thinning out the more worthless, many of which are even dangerous. We have in mind one dog, in a block of the square, that has bitten several people and is very annoying. Dogs of this kind should be killed without delay, and unless something is done with this dog there is liable to be trouble. No man has a right to keep a dog of this kind and the city should not permit it.

PRICES NOT CUT

You certainly owe it to yourself to save all the money you can, and it is my purpose in business to help you save money. I do not cut the price or sell below cost, but I MAKE my own prices, and make them just as LOW as possible, quality considered. If you will come to my store you will see that this is true.

It would be poor policy for me to tell you one thing and undertake to do another. The people cannot be fooled. The only sure way to success is to "make good." This is the point I want to get you to understand, and I cannot get you to understand it unless you will visit my store, inspect the quality of my goods, get my prices and test my weights and measures. Try it.
