FRANK SPELLBRINK SHOT IN ST. LOUIS

Former Secretary of Cape Light and Water Company Badly Wounded.

Frank Spellbrink, for several years secretary of the Missouri Public Utilities Company of this city, was shot and seriously wounded in St. Louis by W. A. Schmeckebier, a brother-in-law, Monday afternoon. He was at first reported to have been fatally wounded but the physicians at the city hospital, where Spellbrink is confined, say he will recover.

Francis Greable, a friend of Spellbrink, was also shot and seriously wounded by Schmeckebier. They were fired upon as they attempted to enter the Schmeckebier Candy Company, of which Spellbrink's brother-in-law is the proprietor.

Schmeckebier told the St. Louis police that he shot his brother-in-law and his companion after receiving a threatening communication from Spellbrink over the telephone. Spellbrink's wife, Louise, is in delicate health and has not been told of the shooting. She is Schmeckebier's sister.

Schmeckebier opened fire with an automatic pistol when Spellbrink and Greable entered his office. He told the police he had received a telephone message from Spellbrink that "I am coming down there to get you."

After the telephone message was received, a policeman was sent to guard Schmeckebier. The policeman had gone to a patrol box a block away to make his hourly report when the shooting occurred. When he heard the shots he ran back to the office and Schmeckebier surrendered to him.

Greable told the police he met Spellbrink downtown and was invited to take a walk with him. He said he was not told an attack was to be made on Schmeckebier.

All of the six bullets in Schmeckebier's pistol took effect. Spellbrink was shot in the left side, abdomen, right arm and right leg. Greable was wounded in the right side and right leg. Schmeckebier's mother, Mrs. Louise Schmeckebier, a widow, with whom he lives, said Spellbrink and her son had not been on good terms for some time. Spellbrink, she said, wanted Schmeckebier to give him and his wife employment with his candy company. Schmeckebier said his business would not warrant this, she said, and this caused estrangement. Mrs. Schmeckebier said she recently heard that Spellbrink had made threats to "get even" with her son.

At the hospital Spellbrink denied that he had told Schmeckebier over the telephone that he was going to "get" him. He said he called up Schmeckebier to talk over a business matter and that Schmeckebier became angry. Spellbrink said he then told his brother-in-law he would "come down and see him."

Spellbrink lived in Cape Girardeau for about five years and was quite popular. He was succeeded by John P. Meyers as secretary of the Utilities Company.

BIG PARADE FOR THE FAIR WEEK

Merchants to Give Burlesque on Circus Men—Night Program Arranged.

A parade, such as never has wended the streets of Cape Girardeau before, will be a night feature of the entertainment during fair week.

It will be a burlesque on a genuine circus parade and if the success similar pageants have met with in other cities is any criterion, it will be better than a genuine circus parade.

The parade feature was definitely decided upon Sunday morning at a joint meeting of the Entertainment Committee of the Commercial Club and a committee of the Board of Directors of the Fair and Park Association, which met at the Commercial Club.

Those who were present were: Charles Blattner, president of the fair association; A. M. Tinsley, J. T. Nunn Sr., C. W. Stehr, J. T. Nunn Jr., secretary of the fair; W. H. Bohnsack Jr., David Glenn, President J. H. McPherson, of the Commercial Club; Clyde Vandivort, of Jackson, and John Miller.

The Commercial Club at its meeting had authorized the Entertainment Committee to prepare some night features for entertaining the crowds in town. The proposition of obtaining carnival companies and placing them on Spanish street, Broadway and Good Hope street first came up.

The fair directors pointed out that such features would draw crowds away from the fair at night when it is planned to have the midway going full blast and a free show put on.

The business men thereupon began planning for a different entertainment stunt, and the parade was selected as being the best for working up in a short time.

Costumes will be brought from St. Louis and it is probable that an expert will be imported from St. Louis to train the Cape Girardeauans in presenting the parade.

The costumes of papier mache will represent elephants, tigers, horses, giraffes, serpents and animals of various descriptions found in a real circus parade. These will be accompanied by many clowns and floats interspersed that will carry out the idea of the burlesque. There will be a lady caged in with a den of man-eating lions. In all probability, the lions will be poodle dogs rigged up to represent the king of beasts.

The snake charmer will be on deck and A. H. Tinsley, who is at the head of the Commercial Club Committee which is staging the parade, is planning to have a "phony" callopie to wind up the affair.

Tinsley last night declared that there will have to be several capable young men who are willing to make heroes of themselves offer their services to become beasts for the night of the parade.

A feature of the parade will be a float with a large, smoot platform. A troupe of acrobats will be engaged to put on a series of stunts on this platform at various stops the parade will make enroute.

A parade similar to the one planned for the Cape was given on July 3 in Anna, Ill., where it met with great success. The Cape plans to have a pageant about four or five times the size of the Anna affair.

The parade will "make-up" in a rock quarry out on Broadway west of Pacific street. It will march east on Broadway to oMain, stopping for a period at Broadway and Fountain for the acrobatic stunt, and also at Main and Broadway.

It will go south on Main to Independence, west on Independence to Spanish, South on Spanish to Good Hope, west on Good Hope to Frederick where another acrobatic show will be staged, then west on Good Hope to Pacific, north on Pacific to Broadway where the last acrobatic show will be staged and from that point the parade will continue on out to the Fairgrounds.

It is planned to give the parade on Wednesday evening, September 29, and Friday evening, Oct. 1.

A canvass of business men in all parts of the town will be made to raise funds for the parade, and it is understood that many of the business men have indicated their intention of giving liberally toward the stunt.

A. R. Ponder of San Antonio, Tex., and J. A. Harrell, of Pasadena, Cal., yesterday were in the Cape attending to business interests here before departing for St. Louis. Both men formerly were Cape Girardeauans. Ponder was in charge of the construction of the Cape street railway system and was manager of the telephone system and superintended the installation of the service as well. Harrell, about 12 years ago, was in business in Jackson and had numerous business interests in the Cape. He went from Cape County to California.

BAD STREET MAY CLOSE FACTORY, SAYS D. B. SMITH

Superintendent Declares Shoe Plant Isn't Appreciated By Cape People.

RUTS IN HIGHWAY RUIN PLANT'S RIGS

Efforts Made to Get Oil for Street Meet With No Success.

D. B. Smith, superintendent of the International Shoe Company's plant, yesterday said that if the city of Cape Girardeau did not repair North Main street, the factory would be closed.

"Cape Girardeau is always willing to do something for an institution which is worth nothing to the city, but it always opposes a request from the shoe factory. We pay salaries of $7,000 a week or approximately $360,000 a year, but the city compels us to haul over a street that would not be tolerated in a country town.

"The street is as bad as any road in the county. It has reached a stage where it is almost impossible to haul freight over it. It has been in this condition for more than a year. The situation has become aggravated during the past month because of the dry weather. The city refuses to sprinkle the street, and the dust is now more than six inches deep in places. Six hundred employees of the shoe plant wade through this dust night and morning. We are compelled to employ men to wipe the dust from the leather in order for the men and women to work with it.

"The Waters Pierce Oil Company offered to donate 40,000 gallons of oil to be used on the street from Broadway to a point north of the shoe factory, provided the people would pay the freight of the oil from Pennsylvania and the cost of spreading the oil. The total sum would not exceed $150. I sent two men out today with petitions, asking for contributions. The shoe factory headed the list with $25. The two men were able to get only $17.

"It seems to me that the business people do not appreciate the shoe factory. The members of the City Council think of the factory only when they are running for office. During the campaigns they always call at the plant and ask permission to go through and meet the voters.

"There is no other city in Missouri where the International Shoe Company has a plant that refuses to cooperate with the factory. We have tolerated conditions in the hope that eventually the city would do something for us, but I don't believe that time will come.

"By steady hauling over Main street, a new wagon would be almost wrecked within a month. Two thirds of the freight that comes to the Cape and goes is hauled over North Main street, but in spite of this fact, we are compelled to tolerate the worst street in town.

"We are entitled to a decent street and it should be kept in first class condition all the time. If Cape Girardeau is unwilling to give the shoe factory some consideration, the shoe factory will close and remain closed. The shoe factory always contributes to the Commercial Club, but the Commercial Club seems to have forgotten that the shoe factory is a Cape Girardeau institution."

WOMAN SHOTS AT NEGRO FOUND WITH CHICKENS

frained from shooting again up the alley after the fleeing man because she was afraid her bullet might strike some innocent person further up the alley. There are several negro huts in the alley a short distance from where she was standing.

Casey Ransom arrived at the scene of the shooting a few moments afterward and too late to pursue the man. Mrs. Ransom in describing the man's actions said she was not sure that she had hit him, the only indication being his exclamations.

A close inspection of the alley failed to show a trace of blood, and last night physicians and surgeons failed to report that they had been called to attend anyone suffering with a gunshot wound.

J. W. Wenger came up to the Cape from Cairo yesterday on business.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE GREATER THAN 1914

Normal and Public Institutions Show Gain Over Last Year's Opening.

At the close of the first day's enrollment at the Normal School yesterday, 326 students had completed their class assignments, 29 more than upon the first day a year ago. Similarly in the city schools, the enrollment for the first day this year exceeded the figure for 1914 by 158.

The enrollment at the Normal School will continue to be heavy for three days, when it is expected that the vast majority of the students will be in the school. The enrollment at the Normal this winter is expected to be more than 700.

Classes at the Normal will meet today for assignments and preliminary organization. Tomorrow the actual work of the year will commence.

In the public schools the total enrollment at all buildings is 1561 as against 1403 last year.

The enrollment at the High School is 221, 51 greater than a year ago. There has been a large increase in the enrollment in the Lincoln (colored) school.

The enrollment by buildings this year as compared with that of last year is as follows:

Building	1914	1915
Washington	274	225
Jefferson	314	304
Broadway	354	273
Lorimer (grades)	120	332
Lorimer (High School)	170	221
Totals	1229	1355
Lincoln (colored)	174	206

Grand totals 1403 1561
 Superintendent Crocker last night declared that the increase in the first day's enrollment was normal and simply bears out the natural growth of the schools recorded in former years.

He declared that normally there ought to be several more pupils enrolled in the schools in the course of the week and at the close of a month, the enrollment will reach about its maximum. He expects at least 50 to 75 more pupils to be enrolled in the schools this week.

Little confusion attended the opening of the public schools yesterday. For the most part the grade pupils when assigned to their rooms commenced the daily "grind" that will be theirs from now until they get a respite on Thanksgiving holiday.

At the Normal School the process of enrollment is considerably slower, because each student must hold an individual conference with a member of the faculty assigned to become his advisor throughout that student's course in the school. The question of subjects to be studied and arrangement of courses is thoroughly gone into at this interview.

LUTHERAN WOMEN SHY AT ALT HOME

Society of Grandmas Hesitates to Depart from Custom in Use Half Century.

The members of the Old Ladies' Aid Society of the Trinity German Lutheran Church still are divided over the question as to whether they shall join with the members of the younger peoples' organizations in the occupation of the old Alt mansion, which recently has been acquired by the church and is being converted into a club house.

At their meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. Wilder, the women of the aid society passed up a decision in the matter till their next meeting.

Since the Alt home has been obtained by the church, the younger women have been trying to get the members of the Old Ladies' Aid Society to move into the fine old mansion.

The Old Ladies' Aid Society is one of the oldest institutions of that church. It soon will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary and the members of the congregation have been anxious to get the society to enter the new club house.

They want to devote a special room for the society's use and they will regard it as a distinct mark of approval when the older women take part of the occupancy of the home.

On the other hand, the members of the aid society have, since the organization was formed, been accustomed to holding their meetings fortnightly at the home of the various members. It is a sort of sewing society as well as church gossip exchange.

Each of the members has taken a vast deal of pride in the entertainment of the society at their individual homes and the fact that the members

L. R. JOHNSON IN PLEA FOR DOVES

Normal Expert Think Law That Approves Hunting Birds Is a Crime.

For some reason, hard to guess, the State Game Law includes the dove among game birds and hunters are invited to shoot this beautiful bird as lawful game. To some people this will seem little less than a crime.

The dove has been known from the earliest times as the symbol of peace and innocence. Its song is the expression for love and tranquility. It is absolutely inoffensive and harmless. It occasions no loss to the farmer as do many other varieties that are protected, and yet it is singled out to be shot at as a game bird. Last evening guns were booming until dark just outside my fence and I could see the poor distressed birds flying wildly away from the scene of slaughter. It was the first time they had found man as an enemy and it was hard for them to realize that they must so regard him. Teach the boys to love the innocent dove and to be its protector instead of slayer.

The County Fair opens on the 29th. Let us all try to find something to exhibit and thus help to make it a success. Some complaints have come from breeders of fine stock that the premiums are not large enough to justify the preparation of their stock for show and it is certainly a fact that Sikeston, for example, offers much more generous rewards at her fair. I notice that in the fruit department there is a great deal more money offered for the various classes as well as a greater variety of classes in which to enter but we should not let this alone prevent us from attending and exhibiting whatever we have of superior excellence. We must remember that our rewards are not all in cash.

Although the peach crop is large, much of it was lost through the brown rot. Last summer was too dry for fungus diseases like the rot to develop but the rainy August of this year provided the best conditions for the spread and rapid growth of it. Much depends on the character of the spring spraying. If it were thorough, the rot would be less prevalent for the rot spores must find their way into the fruit through some break in the skin. Such breaks are usually the work of insects whose number depend on the efficiency of the spray. Let us consult with you about when to spray and what to spray with.

The last of the month of September is generally late enough to pick the latest of the apples. The common rule is that they are ready to be picked as soon as the seeds are brown and the apples well colored. The Winesap is one of the last to require picking. Pick on a dry, sunny day and store in a dry, cool cellar. Grade the fruit carefully. Bruised, wormy or specked fruit will not keep long and such should be separated from the perfectly sound. Late in the fall they may be taken from the cellar and buried in the ground where they will retain their crispness and juiciness better than anywhere else. —L. R. Johnson, Cape Girardeau Normal School.

have for so many years gone from home for their meetings, accounts for a firm bond of union among all the members. It has led to probably a closer union in the society. The members have become far more intimately acquainted.

At each meeting of the society a collection of ten cents each has been taken up to defray expenses of entertaining the society with a light luncheon. This feature has made the work of the organization thoroughly democratic in spirit.

With the acquisition of the Alt home the younger women's aid society has taken up its quarters there and has made plans for furnishing a room as their quarters. They have invited some of the members of the Old Ladies' Aid Society in to their meetings to show them what there is at the Alt Mansion and present their arguments forcefully as to why the older society should change its method of meeting.

At the older women's meeting yesterday those who attended the young women's meeting reported on what they had observed. The result of the discussion was that the members were divided.

It is anticipated that further efforts will be made in the next week to win over those who still want to hold the home meetings by having them attend the younger women's meeting next Wednesday at the Alt mansion.

Should the older women decide to take a part of the house, they expect to go to some expense in furnishing it with their society equipment.
