

HIS TROUBLE NOT OF HEART

Real Facts In Regard To F. R. Huffman's Illness. Relief Obtained By Curing His Stomach Ailments.

Waynesville, N. C.—Mr. F. R. Huffman, of this city, says: "I suffered dreadfully with what I thought was heart trouble, and tried various medicines in vain.

After other remedies had failed, Theford's Black-Draught restored me to health. I would not feel safe without Black-Draught in the house. I consider it worth its weight in gold.

It cured my indigestion, and by this means I was restored to health. I can not express my gratitude for its benefits."

Good health depends on the condition of your digestion. Poor digestion and good health do not go together.

Theford's Black-Draught will thoroughly cleanse and set in order your digestive system.

It has done this for others, during the past 70 years, and is today the most popular vegetable liver remedy on the market. Try it.

After the Fair.

Yes, the 1913 Monroe City Fair is over. The weather was against the fair, but pleased the farmers. The fair this year had but little racing, but there was a lot of good horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry on exhibition and the Floral hall was a bower of beautiful things. While the fair did not pay out it was one of the kind which draws the people.

CITIZENS BANK

Sixty Days

The capital stock for the third bank in Monroe City has been subscribed. The stockholders are some of the best and most prosperous citizens of Monroe and vicinity. A strong board of directors has been elected. The board is composed of the following gentlemen: J. P. Patton, Roy McFarland, C. W. Hoar, Daniel Boone, W. L. Bond, E. S. Hampton, A. Lee Ely, E. M. Schweer and R. L. Wilson. The bank is to be a state bank and has been christened Citizens Bank of Monroe City. It will be ready for business in about sixty days and will be located in the north room of the Monroe Hotel block. The capital stock will be $30,000 with a surplus of $3,000. With its strong board of directors and the splendid gentlemen who are stockholders this bank will certainly be a strong institution and will do a big business.

It is generally hoped that the Democratic administration at Washington will find some way to re-establish the time-honored Jeffersonian principle of rotation in office. The Republicans, through the monarchical institution of "civil service" have managed to place about 250,000 men in office for life. That principle is wrong. The people have the right to change the personnel of their government at every election if they want to, and that is good Democratic doctrine. When a man gets into office for life he is no longer a public servant but simply becomes a member of an office-holding aristocracy and a ruler of the people instead of their servant. One of the last things that Taft did in office was to place 30,000 more postmasters on the civil service list. That order should be countermanded without unnecessary delay. When the people vote for a change of government their wishes should be respected.—Democratic Bulletin.

Health and Happiness.

"Health and happiness" are terms that are so often closely liked in our speech and in our literature. One is almost a synonym for the other. Perhaps the true significance existing between the two would be more correctly stated were we to reverse the form in which they are usually set forth and say "happiness and health" instead. All observers of human nature and its many complex attributes are convinced that happiness is the fountain spring of health.

One of our keenest students of life tells us that "small annoyances are the seeds of disease. We cannot afford to entertain them. They are the bacteria—the germs that make serious disturbance in the the system and prepare the way for all derangements. They furnish the mental conditions which are manifested later in the blood, the tissue and the organs, under various pathological names.

"Good thoughts are the only germicide. We must kill our resentment and regret, impatience and anxiety. Health will inevitably follow. Every thought holds us in even the slightest degree to either anticipation or regret hinders to some extent, the realization of our present good. It limits freedom. Life is in the present tense. Its significant name is Being."—Farm and Home.

Poultry.

Don't forget that poultry has always gotten cheaper in October, so any poultry that is about ready for market had better be disposed of not later than next week to be safe.

Worth While.

We need, each and all, to be needed To feel we have something to give Toward soothing the moan of earth's hunger:

And we know that then only we live

When we feed one another, as we have been fed.

From the hand that gives body and spirit their bread.

Our lives they are well worth the living

When we lose our small selves in the whole.

And feel the strong surge of being Throb through us, one heart and one soul

Eternity bears up each honest endeavor;

The life lost for love is life saved and forever.

Lucy Larcom.

The Little Things.

The every day virtues include very many fine little traits that serve unconsciously to make our paths smoother, our skies bluer and all of life more glad and golden. They constitute a habit of doing the right thing at all times and so quietly and unostentatiously that no one is made to feel any sense of obligation. One who possesses these virtues does not wait for stated times and occasions to bestow evidences of love and good will upon others, but like a flower in bloom spreads the fine perfume of friendship upon all come within he charmed presence.—Ex.

New Violins and Old.

A contest took place in Paris which seems to vindicate the contention that modern violins are as good in tone as those of ancient make. A number of violins were played in a dark room, and at the end a vote was taken from the musical audience present, with the result, says a Paris correspondent, that the finest violin was judged to be a Belgian instrument dated 1912; the second was a French 1911 violin, and not until the third came a Stradivarius, valued at more than $3,000.
