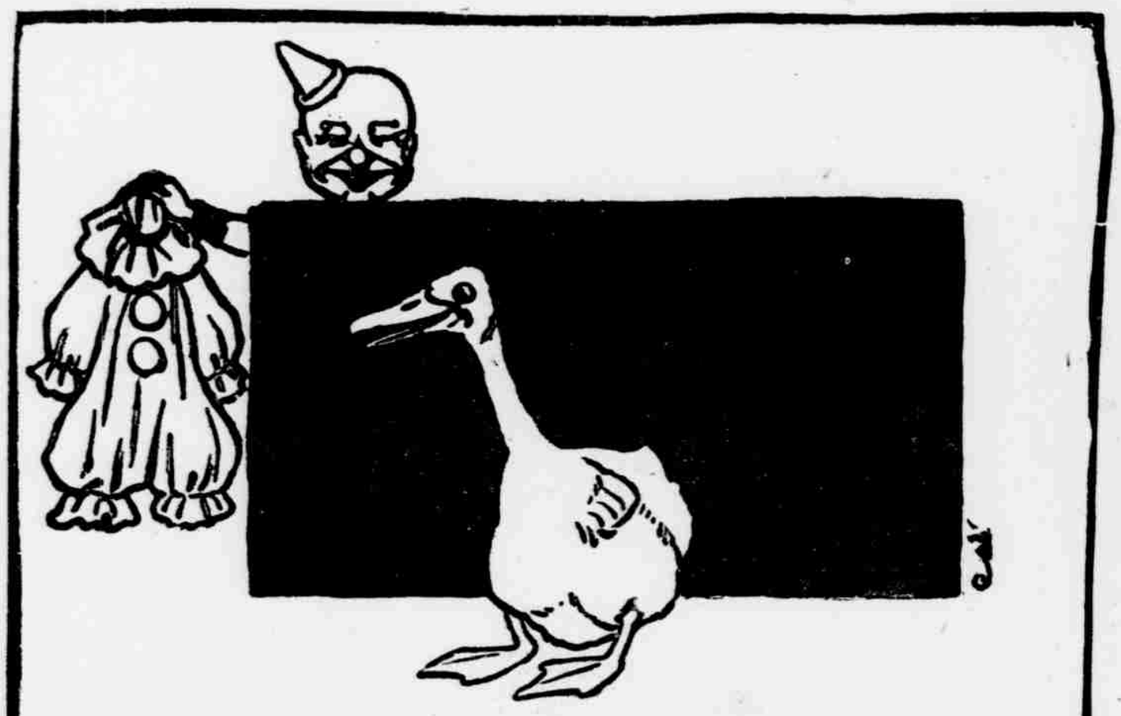
THERE WAS A GOOSE.



There was a Goose in Syracuse
And full of fun was he;
He met a Clown and bought his gown
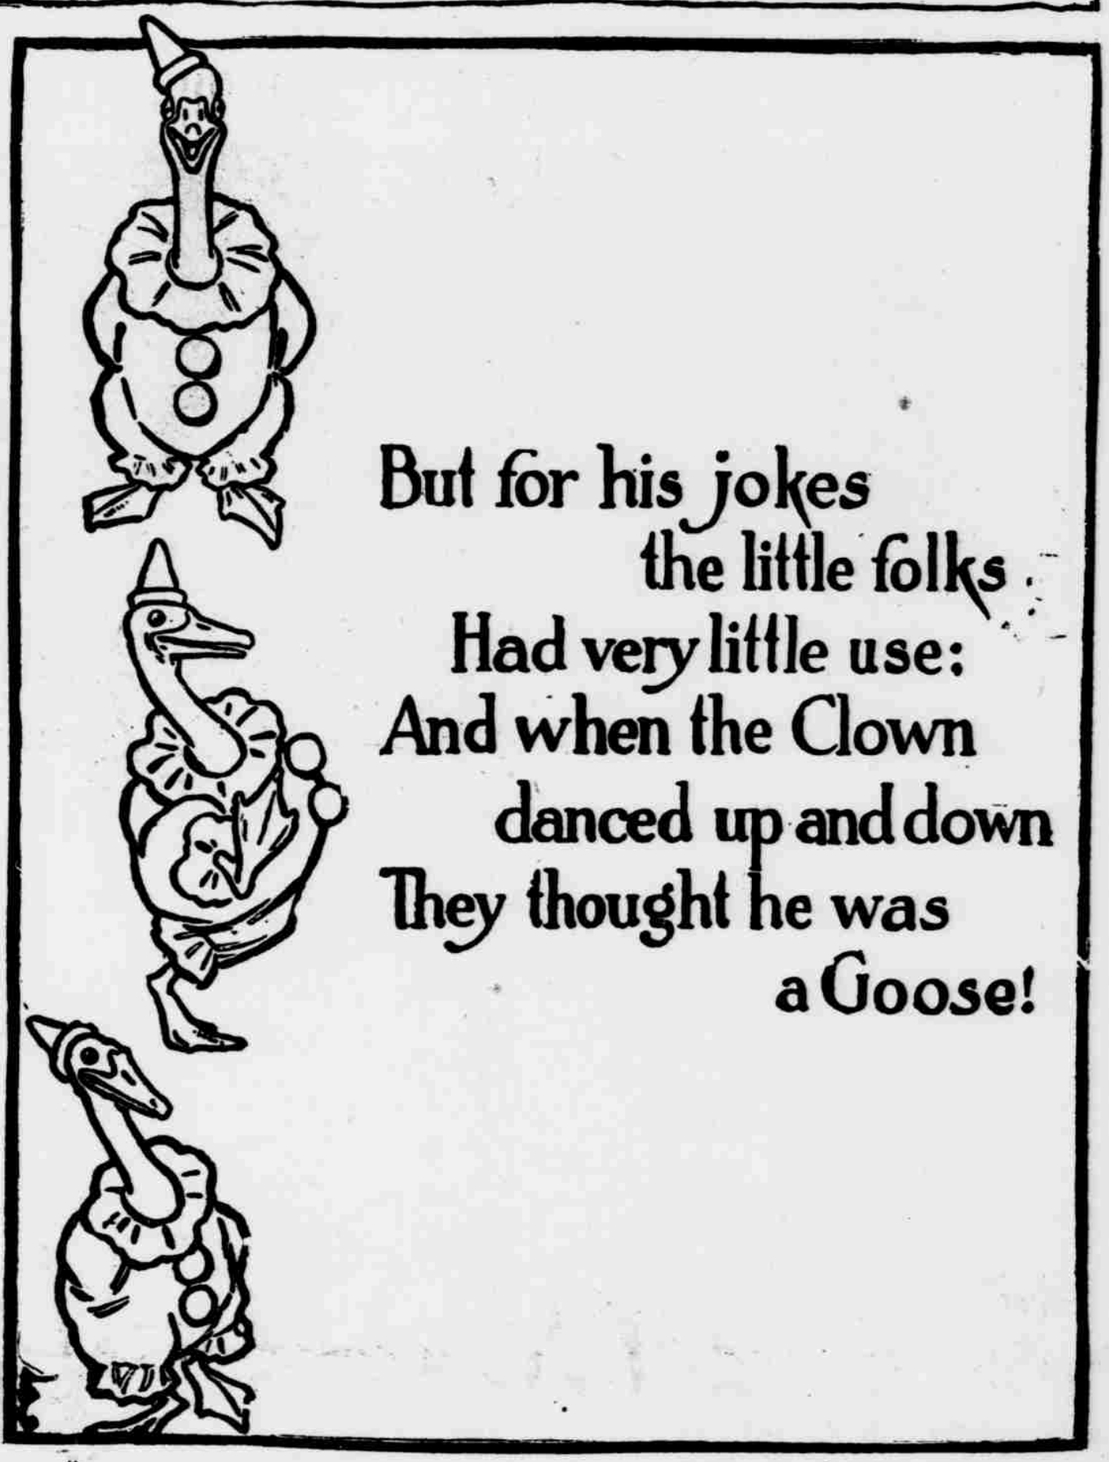
And thought a Clown he'd be.



But for his jokes
the little folks
Had very little use;
And when the Clown
danced up and down
They thought he was a Goose!

THERE WAS A GOOSE.

Copyright, 1900, by L. Frank Baum, W. W. Denslow and Albert N. Hall. Reprinted in The Sunday Republic by special permission of George M. Hill & Company.