

HANNA TO QUIT POLITICS.

Not a Candidate for the Senate or Presidency.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—There is apparently no longer any question of Senator M. A. Hanna's intention to retire from public life at the close of the present term in the United States Senate. It is stated to-day on the authority of a man who has the closest personal and political relations with the Ohio senator that Mr. Hanna will not be a candidate for re-election to the Senate; will not, under any combination of conditions, be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1904 and will not, if he can possibly avoid it, continue as chairman of the Republican national committee after the meeting of the Republican national convention in 1904.

Ever since the death of President McKinley political gossip has been busy with Senator Hanna's name in connection with the Republican presidential nomination. Mr. Hanna refused to encourage this movement in his interest, although he never made any public declaration on the subject. It was difficult to make the country believe that he was not planning to secure the nomination in 1904, and there was great speculation as to how far he would go in using the organization of the party of which he was the head in furthering his own candidacy. It is no secret that certain Republican elements were and have at all times been favorable to Mr. Hanna's candidacy, and that they have been, at least until quite recently, persistently working to secure the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt and the nomination of Senator Hanna.

It must be said to the everlasting credit of Senator Hanna that he has had no part and lent no countenance to these plans of his admirers. His record in the Senate last winter was convincing proof of his loyalty to President Roosevelt.

Within the last week Senator Hanna has made the emphatic statement to one of his confidential personal and political friends that he will not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1904. He stated that he valued his life and his health more than he did any political preferment. He said that the two national campaigns he had managed as chairman of the national committee had done more to break down his health than had twenty years of an active business life. Senator Hanna told of his experience in the campaign just closed in which he was compelled on several occasions to accept help in leaving the platform at the close of an address. He said that he was so constituted that he could not take a complacent part in the campaign, but gave up all his time to it, became nervous, lost sleep and kept in the fight until he collapsed. The senator stated in positive terms that he could not and would not allow his name to be used as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1904, nor would he seek a re-election.

CHOLERA IN MANILA.

Six Men of the Fifth Infantry Die of the Disease.

Manila, November 12.—Cholera has broken out in the 5th infantry, which is quartered in Manila. Six enlisted men have already died from this disease and a dozen others are ill. Cholera has reappeared at Marquina, seven miles from here, along the river shed which supplies Manila with water. Orders have been issued to guard the sources of supply and prevent the water from becoming infected. It is doubted that the recrudescence of the disease in Manila will prove serious.

The supreme court has affirmed the conviction of Vincente Valdez, the Spanish editor, who was found guilty of libeling Commissioners Le Gardano and Tavera. Filipino members of the Philippine commission. The court orders that the accused be banished from the islands for four years. Valdez fled to China a month ago while he was out on bail pending the trial of the appeal to the supreme court.

Gen. Miles arrived at Manila on Tuesday. There was a reception and banquet in his honor on that night. Gen. Miles made a speech of sympathy with the people in their suffering through war and the cholera epidemic.

A further decline in silver has compelled the government to make the rate $2.50 for $1 of gold. The old rate was $2.40 to $1.

The cheapening of silver has resulted in concluding the losses of the government and all other holders of silver. The instability of the present currency is seriously damaging business, and the members of the civil commission and representatives of commercial interests on the islands will unite in making a strong plea to Congress.

Pigskin Grafted on Girl.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—Her own mother and relatives having declined to make the necessary sacrifice to save her life, the skin of a young pig was this afternoon grafted on the back of a 10-year old girl to cover a spot 15 inches in diameter. Some weeks ago the clothing of the girl took fire and she was frightfully burned.

Stuart McGuire, who is a son of Doctor Hunter McGuire, Stonewall Jackson's surgeon, conceived the idea of using the cuticle of a young and tender pig. The operation was performed this afternoon. A small black pig was chloroformed into insensibility, the bristles were removed from the skin and with his keen lancet the young surgeon removed it in strips.

The skin was laid on in small pieces until it covered the bare space. The result of this novel method of aiding nature will not be known for several days.

The Trials Cost 1.2 Million.

New York, Nov. 15.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux for the murder of Mrs. Adams has cost more than any other for a capital offense in any country where the English system of jurisprudence is in vogue. The cost to the county of New York in the first trial amounted to 1/2 million dollars. This was expended largely in fees for handwriting experts, who were brought from distant experts, states and for detectives who endeavored to trace Molineux's movements from his fifteenth birthday to the time of his arrest. The defense expended about $75,000 in the first trial and it is estimated that the total on both sides for the two hearings is 1/2 million dollars.

Molineux was acquitted yesterday of the murder of Mrs. Adams. He was cheered as he left the court room. He is a free man for the first time in nearly four years. The jury was out twenty minutes.

Many people are suffering fearfully from indigestion or dyspepsia, when one single bottle of Herbine would bring about a prompt and permanent cure. A few doses will do more for a weak stomach than a prolonged course of any other medicine. Price, 50 cents.—H. L. Tucker.

George W. Moody of Texas Dead.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 8.—George W. Moody is dead at Kerrieville. He was forty-five years a resident of Texas and a frontiersman well known for his bravery and eccentricities.

He came here from Kentucky during the Civil War, when he purchased commissary supplies for the Confederacy. He vowed that if the cause of the South was lost he would never cut his hair, and he kept the vow, although 83 years of age. A year ago he killed Kid Wingate in self defense. He said he would live to see him self exonerated. He was acquitted at the trial this week and two days later died, although sick but two days preceding his death.

MILITARY PROGRESS.

What the Armies of the World Have Accomplished During Last Year.

Comprehensive Volume Issued by the Government—Special Interest Centers on the Best Type of Field Gun.

Stored with complete and interesting information concerning every branch of every army in the world, and replete with fine illustrations and maps, "Notes of Military Interest for 1901," made public recently by Lieut. Col. W. A. Simpson, chief of the military information division, is one of the best volumes of its kind ever issued from the war department.

The matter was compiled and arranged by Capt. E. A. Edwards, Twenty-fifth infantry; Capt. J. S. Herron, Second cavalry; First Lieut. H. B. Ferguson, corps of engineers, and Second Lieut. R. S. Clark, of the Ninth infantry, with the assistance of the military attaches at the various foreign capitals.

The first pages of the volume are devoted to the military budgets of the various countries for 1902, with interesting comments and comparisons. The organization of military establishments is then taken up, and the changes in the make-up of the British, Russian, Swedish, Servian, Brazilian and Argentine armies are dealt with at length.

Of especial interest, in view of the efforts of the United States army to settle upon a type of field gun, is the chapter upon field artillery. It is pointed out that there are only two general types of modern field guns—namely: Guns on rigid carriages and guns with recoil devices on the carriages, and it is stated that neither of these types has yet obtained unanimous preference.

The greatest possible rapidity of fire is not obtained with the guns on rigid carriages, but they possess marked advantages in simplicity, strength and lightness of material, and their faults are stated to be the failure of the carriage to maintain the exact first firing position and the uncertain action of the spade in hard ground. With the recoil carriage guns, which mechanism returns the gun to the original firing position, great rapidity of fire is obtained, but the weapon has its disadvantages in the way of complexity of mechanism, increased weight and liability to fatal injury in action.

As yet France and Germany are the only countries whose artillery is actually armed with rapid-firing field guns. France uses a gun with recoil on the carriage, Germany uses the rigid carriage type, and Russia, Italy, Belgium and Sweden have also adopted the guns with rigid carriages. Norway has adopted a gun of the recoil type, and Spain has purchased a broad assortment of both types. In the new Japanese field gun, it is stated, the recoil seems to be taken up on the carriage.

A NERVO ENGINEER.

His Presence of Mind in Face of Great Danger Saves the Lives of 500 Passengers.

Nearly 500 passengers who were aboard train No. 13 on the Wabash road narrowly escaped a wreck and death near Clark station, Indiana, the other night. The train is known as the Buffalo limited, and reaches Chicago at 9:30 in the evening. Clark station is the crossing of the Wabash and the Fort Wayne railways, and is four miles east of Hammond.

A short distance out of Clark the Wabash crosses the Grand Calumet river over a huge trestlework bridge. Some repairs had been made on the structure only recently, and it was considered perfectly safe, track walkers having just patrolled the bridge before the Wabash limited left Clark station. As the train, having aboard nearly 500 souls, reached the middle of the structure that spanned the Calumet the engineer heard the cracking of timbers as the middle span of the bridge sank beneath his engine. He opened the throttle to the farthest limit, and the train fairly leaped from the swaying trestlework.

HOAR FROST ON MOON.

Harvard Astronomer Claims the Recent Eclipse Gave Proof of His Pet Theory.

Substantiation of important facts was obtained by Harvard's astronomical authorities in their observations of the lunar eclipse the other night. The facts concerned themselves principally with the crater Linne, and were carried out by Prof. W. H. Pickering. Prof. Pickering with a micrometer carefully measured the area around and confirmed all his past interpretations that the bright spot grew noticeably in area during the time of maximum darkness.

Pickering has always maintained that the light from the spot is that of hoar frost. The fact that the spot grew perceptibly larger when the sun's heat was cut off that night confirms Pickering's belief in his theory. He is now practically settled upon that point and hopes with this as a starting point to put out a pet theory of his own concerning the earth's big satellite.

BETTER FEELING IN NAVY.

Causes of Disaffection Among Officers and Men is Removed by Action of Secretary Moody.

Secretary Moody has ordered the removal of the causes of disaffection among the officers and men of the North Atlantic squadron. There has been a general demoralization, and desertions were so frequent as to cause alarm. That there was something radically wrong with the enlisted personnel was demonstrated by the large number of desertions during the last few months. The bureau of navigation has now completed the investigation of complaints, and while no one will admit there was cause for them, it is said cheerfulness now pervades the crews and that desertions are decreasing. At one time some officers on duty at the navy department were of the opinion that the recent suicides of officers in the squadron were due to some general cause, but they are now satisfied the causes were individual in each case of self-destruction and were apart from the life on shipboard.

It is said that ever since the United navy was established it has been customary to give liberty at least one day in the week to the enlisted men of ships at home ports. The rule worked exceedingly well. The men were willing to perform their duties to the best of their ability and with cheerfulness throughout the week if they had before them the prospect of being permitted to go ashore at the end. It is understood, however, that the investigation disclosed that this rule was not observed in the North Atlantic squadron; that there was no cessation of routine, with considerable additional duties and consequent loss of sleep entailed by the squadron exercises, and that the men became surly over the fact that they were kept constantly on shipboard with the shore in sight.

A great many "greenhorns" have been enlisted in the service recently, and these, it is said, found the life so entirely different from what they expected it to be that many of them deserted at the first opportunity. Another cause of dissatisfaction, according to report, was that the men were frequently called on to perform duties at their meal hour which could have been performed just as well at some subsequent time. Things of this sort, it is said, produced much bad feeling among the men and even to some extent among the officers.

ON EXHIBITION TO PUBLIC.

Chartran's Portraits of Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt Are Placed in the Corcoran Gallery.

Chartran's portrait of Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt, painted in Washington last spring, and which afterwards were sent to Paris for the spring salon, are again in Washington at the Corcoran gallery, where they are being viewed by hundreds of persons. After the portraits were finished the French ambassador, M. Cambon, had them placed in the ballroom at the embassy and invited several hundred persons to an afternoon tea to see them.

The general public, however, was not invited, and is now seeing the portraits for the first time. A presentation of the portraits by the French government was the parting courtesy of M. Cambon just before going to France previous to his recall. No provision has been made in the white house for hanging these portraits, and the only place suitable, so far as the present arrangement is concerned, is upon the wall of the colonial hall, next to the columns, and in the long upper corridors. The latter is not likely to be chosen, as the public would then be denied the privilege of seeing the pictures.

No portrait of the president or the white house has yet been painted, the Russian painter having failed to finish the president's friends, and it now depends on Sargent to satisfy them.

WANTS BIBLE IN SCHOOLS.

Methodist Woman's Home Missionary Society Adopts Resolutions to That Effect.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church in session at Kansas City, Mo., the other day started a movement to have the Bible placed in the public schools in this country. The following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, It should be the leading aim of our public schools to develop character fit for citizenship in a Christian republic; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we will use every endeavor to secure moral instruction and the responsive reading of Scriptural selections in our public schools."

The resolution was presented by Mrs. Mary Hickman, who said the public schools of Cleveland a short time ago began the study of the book of Psalms, the Ten Commandments and the Lord's prayer, and that all public schools in the country should adopt the same plan.

Home for Working Girls.

Recently there was opened in Boston by a corporation of benevolent persons a home for working girls. The only dividend the home is expected to pay to the stockholders is the comfortable feeling of a good work well accomplished. Whatever surplus the small rates charged may cause to accumulate will be used in adding to the comforts of the home. Already for the payment of $3.50 a week a girl may get room, board, washing, light, heat, use of the gymnasium, of the library and of the dance hall, in addition to the services of a physician and free admission to a course of entertainments given by the institution.
