A Greater November Business

Our trade this fall has been most gratifying, but we want to increase it more. In order to do so, we have made extra efforts to give you a better stock from which to select better values than ever, and our guarantee of satisfaction behind each article. We have recently enlarged our Shoe Department and can serve you better than ever. Our Cloak and Fur department is overflowing with good things. Our buyer has just returned from market, where he purchased all the latest things in dress goods and silks. We have changed the interior of our store, so that our store is extra well lighted. Come and see us. We want your trade.

WHAT IF IT WAS A DEMO-CRATIC ADMINISTRATION?

The bankers in Bates county, following the lead of those in other counties in Missouri and most of the states, did a wise thing in limiting the amount of currency paid out until the present financial flurry had subsided. This was not only a protection to the banks, but to all business enterprises. Here the people accepted the decision philosophically, realizing that the banks were taking about the only steps they could, so long as the city banks had pooled and refused to send out money to their country correspondents.

Business has undoubtedly been injured by this financial flurry. We can feel it here in Butler, and it is especially regrettable when it is one of the best business months of the year. The flurry was undoubtedly caused by the great speculative tendencies, which have followed unprecedented good times and big crops for several successive years.

If the Democratic party was in power now, every republican paper throughout the country, big and little, would be laying the fault at the door of the administration and talk of the lack of confidence and Democratic inability to meet requirements. But the Democratic party and press are laboring to restore confidence and working for the best interests of the country.

Rooms to Rent.

Five rooms, I have used them for living rooms for six years. Are in good repair, closets, water, good drainage. Upstairs 213 North Main Street, Butler, Mo.

WILLIAM ROBERT.

CASS-BATES DRAINAGE.

The Cass county court composed of J. W. Urton, Presiding Judge, T. W. Hunt and H. V. Hurst, Associate Judges, accompanied by the county clerk, Will E. Beck, came down to Butler Friday morning and drove out to the Foehey dredge boat in the island to view its workings. The court then visited county clerk Weeks and carefully inspected his Drainage Records. That court, in conjunction with the Bates county court is wrestling with the drainage problem on Grand River. The work is well under way and the temporary commissioners appointed by both courts to view and pass upon the feasibility of the plan, will, we understand, make their report this week. The work in Bates county on Drainage Dist. No. 1 has satisfied the people of its practicability, and there has not been a single protest before the court to the Grand River scheme.

Dr. Joseph Noble, banker at Ulrich, died at his home in that town on Thursday last of a paralytic stroke. Dr. Noble closed a long, prosperous and worthy business career, when on October 8th he disposed of his interest in the Bank of Ulrich. He had long looked forward to a well earned vacation, had planned an extended California trip to recuperate his failing health, but such was not to be. The following day he was stricken with paralysis. It was not a severe stroke and he rapidly improved; but on Wednesday, 30th, a second and severer stroke befell him, and he continued to rapidly sink until death came at 10:50.

Local Option Election Called.

The county court on Tuesday, acting on the petition of about one thousand qualified voters, ordered a special election on December 10th in Bates county to vote on the local option question.

We understand a petition will be presented to the city council of Butler to-night, and it is thought the election will be called for the city on the same date as that provided for the county.

Answering Dan?

Circuit Clerk Dan Embree wants to know why so many people persist in saying "A widow woman." Can anybody enlighten Dan?—Butler Times.

Perhaps if Dan will come down to Rich Hill and interview the widoman society he'll be enabled to get next.—Review.

Vernon Goes Dry.

At a special election in Vernon county on last Saturday local option was adopted by a majority of 925. A light vote was cast considering the heat with which the campaign was conducted, about 2,000 voters failing to go to the polls.

The tug of war will come to-day in Nevada, when the vote on local option will be taken in that city.

Bankers Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of Group Nine, Missouri Bankers Association, advertised for Butler on Tuesday, November 5th, was postponed indefinitely. Owing to the panicky feeling, the bankers deemed it wise to stay close at home to look after matters until the clouds have rolled away. A splendid program had been arranged and the local bankers had made arrangements to take care of the visitors in the proper way. There are about sixty members in group nine comprising the banks of this and adjoining counties. The meeting will be held at a later date, when a full meeting is expected and Butler will do herself proud.

Will Fight For His Liberty.

Contrary to reports two months ago that Captain F. J. Tygard would plead guilty when his case is called, as it will be next Wednesday, it was announced that the former treasurer of the Masonic lodge would fight for his liberty. He is now in jail at Clinton, awaiting his trial. He is charged with having, as treasurer of the Masons, deposited in his own bank in Bates county, Masonic funds, and then, either as treasurer of the order or an officer of the bank, borrowed the funds on his own account. The least sentence which can be imposed under the law is five years in the government prison at Leavenworth.

Found a Cabbage "Snake."

Some people say there are no such things as "cabbage snakes," but Marshal Bob Herron brought to this office in a small bottle of water, a slender worm, or snake, about 30 inches long which his wife found in a head of cabbage, in the third leaf from the outside. The reptile is very slender, not much larger than an ordinary horse hair, or fine thread, but it appeared to be alive and the physicians believe it may be poisonous. However, this information will probably not interfere with trout eating.—Webb City Register.

From Mingo Items in Ulrich Herald: Mrs. Mace Mayes had the misfortune to get one of her fingers cut off Saturday while chopping corn for the chickens. . . . Monday, October 21st, was Grandma Clapp's 90th birthday. No doubt she is the oldest person in Mingo. For the past several years she has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Let Staley. Grandma has been unable to walk for a long time, but she enjoys reasonably good health.

Judge Denton notified the court officers at Osceola last week to rent a room suitable for holding court, as he will refuse to longer hold court in the court house, as it is considered unsafe. The court room occupies the full upper story of the court house and the roof is wholly supported on the walls, without any inside props. The walls are cracking and giving way and Judge Denton thinks that with any undue excitement in a big crowd that the walls would give way and the roof come down catching all in the court room. Judge Denton is right in vacating the building.
