

Falling Hair
Ayer's Hair Vigor promptly destroys the germs that cause falling hair. It nourishes the hair-bulbs, restores them to health. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly.

Dandruff
Ayer's Hair Vigor just as promptly destroys the germs that cause dandruff. It removes every trace of dandruff itself, and keeps the scalp clean and in a healthy condition.

Does not Color the Hair

We wish you to positively and distinctly understand that Ayer's Hair Vigor does not affect the color of the hair, even to the slightest degree. Persons with the whitest or the lightest and most delicate blond hair may use it freely without having the hair made a shade darker.

Bates County Poultry Show.

The Bates County Poultry Association will hold its first annual show January 26, 27, 28, 1911. E. C. Branch, one of the best judges of poultry in the country, has been secured by the association to act as judge, and his presence insures correct scoring for all entries. If you have any chickens or other poultry that you wish scored bring them in and remember that if they score well up, you have increased their price very much and created a demand for their eggs at good prices; so look over your stock and select some for this show, for your own benefit as the charge for entries is small, only ten cents per fowl, and admission to the show is free. The association is offering good premiums, so be sure and get in the list and don't fail to become a member of the association; it only costs you a dollar a year. You can pay to or get information from any of the following members of the association:

J. R. Mooney, A. S. Milhorn, S. W. Dooley, W. D. McCollough, Mrs. Frank Allen, Miss Austin Rosser, A. Sleeth, M. R. Lyle, C. A. Burgess, J. J. McKee, Carpenter, Shafer Mfg. Co., S. Levy Merc. Co., W. FARM FURROWS.

Farmer and Stockman

Threshing is about finished for this fall. Dry weather and good roads are great helps in hurrying this work along. Shredding corn is the next steam rig job and in this work dry weather is even more necessary.

We quite often hear farmers say that cattle will eat shredded corn fodder even if it is mouldy. This may be true. Cattle will eat almost anything if driven to it by hunger, but making beef and butter fat for the owner is out of the question if they do not receive proper food and plenty of it.

Many of the best dairymen never milk their cows entirely dry the first few times after they come in fresh in order to prevent milk fever. I have never seen an explanation of why this will prevent milk fever, but the practice is so general among good dairymen that it is a pretty good rule to follow.

Ground can be plowed when it is dry and hard and the majority seem to think that this is better for the crops, but there are very few plowmen who feel sorry when a good rain has soaked the soil so that one team can do as much as two did before.

The man who believes foxtail makes good hay should be a cow for 30 days and have foxtail for breakfast, dinner and supper. A little chinch bug fodder would taste mighty good at the end of that time.

I am going to keep more young sows and fewer old ones this year, contrary to the advice given in many farm papers I take. For three years it has been my experience that young sows did the best. Last year three old sows—not old either in number of years—flunked completely for me, and gave scarcely enough milk for the ordinary sized litters they farrowed. Hogologists might say it was the way the sows were fed, but the young sows were fed in the same way and raised their litters in fine shape.

If every farmer would spend a little more money for oil and a little more time in putting it where it is needed, I am satisfied the machinery bill would not be so great as it is on many a farm. It is one thing to squirt oil into an oil cup and quite another thing to see that the bearing is getting the oil.

A friend of mine writes that he has lived 60 years, but has just found out how to make a land roller that actually does the business. He gets a section of round galvanized iron culvert material. He prefers to have it at least two feet in diameter, and corrugated. The section is as long as you wish to make the roller. It is turned on end, an iron axle or rod of axle size is placed exactly in the center. The inside is then ready to be filled with cement mortar. Let it cure for two weeks before using, wetting occasionally during that time. A frame is bolted to the axle, of course. This can be constructed according to fancy. The whole idea looks good to me.

The public sale season is starting off brisk again. A few weeks ago the banks gave apprehension about cashing all the sale notes, but I noticed in a local paper that came yesterday that a bank is advertising for sale note business. A bank doesn't want to dodge the sale notes when it advertises for that sort of business.

Coming right down to facts as they are, there is no safer paper for a bank to hold, aside from the farm loan which pays a low rate of interest, than the average sale note. And while "clerking" the sale, the bank's cashier is usually able to corral several new customers for the bank. The bank that gets out after the sale business gets next to the people.

Although no man is supposed to be responsible for his neighbor's stray stock, every farm should be enclosed with some sort of a fence. It need be nothing elaborate to keep out the strays and it seems to me every man should be willing to do that much to keep out of trouble. In some cases all that is necessary to do is to stretch up the wires that lay in the grass and weeds along the old fence row, and put in an occasional new post. It doesn't cost much to do that, and it may keep a herd of cattle in the highway through the night.

If the price of flaxseed is an indicator of what the price of linseed oil will be the cost of "slicking up" the buildings with a coat of paint will be quite an item in the near future.

Seed corn will dry perfectly on the stalk in the field, but the fall rains are of no benefit to it and a rain followed by a freeze even if it is not as severe as the one we had in October last year, will be sure to have the same effect.

Jack Frost is not considered a welcome visitor, but remember he is on our side in the final battle with the flies.

It is not the work in the fields that scares young people away from the farms and makes old people wish to retire as much as it is the everyday chores and right here is where a little head work and cash will right things. Plan to make the buildings and yards as convenient as possible and quite often the drudgery of the farm will be done away with.

There is still time to cut the weeds and brush along the roadsides where there is any danger of their blocking the roads with snow next winter.

While tile drainage has reclaimed thousands of acres of marsh lands and has been of great value in draining out low spots in the fields it should be remembered that it is waste of time and money to try to tile drain any place where a permanent outlet is not assured.

The King drag bubble seems to be more or less busted. We hardly ever see one now unless it is where the owner is getting so much per day for doing the dragging.

There are many different ways of drying seed corn that has been picked early, all of which are good if they are put into actual use.

The following clipped from the Lamar Republican Sentinel, will be of interest to the people in this vicinity.

—Rev. C. V. Criss, pastor of the Methodist church at Lamar, thinks it is likely that he has the youngest cow giving milk in the state of Missouri.

Last October Mr. Criss bought of Mr. S. H. Cotton of Appleton City, Mo., a registered Jersey heifer, Christine Cafe, No. 233913 for which he paid a fancy price, expecting to breed in October next in order to develop a cow when 26 months of age, but to his surprise the heifer dropped a calf August 27, then one year and twenty-two days old. The little cow is doing splendidly, giving about one gallon of fine rich milk daily. The calf is astonishingly large for its age and size of the mother. It is a male, sired by a very large two-year-old registered Jersey from one of the best herds in the state of New York, his size, weighing 1800 pounds, probably the largest registered Jersey bull in the world. The calf is a solid color with black tongue and switch.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.
