GREEN OLIVE PEPPER CORN

Corn sautéed with green peppers and olives is a delicious dish that may be prepared in a few minutes. Once tried it will be repeated frequently each year when corn on the cob is obtainable. Here is an excellent recipe:

Ingredients: Six ears sweet corn (uncooked); one-fourth teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon paprika; one green sweet pepper; one cup chopped Spanish green olives; two tablespoonfuls butter.

Cut corn from cob. Remove seeds and white fibre from the sweet pepper. Cut the pepper into fine strips and cook five minutes in the butter. Add the corn and cook for ten to fifteen minutes, stirring to prevent burning. Add the salt, paprika and green olives. Serve.

Deviled Spanish Green Olives

Here's a little hors d'oeuvre that may be prepared in a few minutes. It's novel and tasty. The family will enjoy it, and so will the guests. It's one of those "surprise" appetizers that labels your dinner "unique and charming."

Pit large green olives and fill with the yolk of hard-boiled eggs mixed to a paste with a little butter. Lay an olive on a strip of bacon, sprinkle with paprika and a tiny pinch of mustard, roll up, fasten with toothpick and broil just long enough to crisp the bacon. Serve on toast fingers.

REPUBLICAN PROPAGANDA MAKES MERCHANTS "GOAT"

In attempting the impossible task of convincing the farmers that the Fordney-McCumber law will enhance the prices of their products and at the same time persuading the public that there will be no corresponding rise in the cost of living, Republican speakers and publications are charging importers and retail merchants with responsibility for the increases already noted in clothing and other merchandise.

The Republican propagandists against the department stores and other dealers practically accuses them of cheating their customers, and the American protective Tariff League, declares that: "There is a well-organized plan to discredit the new tariff. Then after alleging that such a party to this movement, the organ says this is "a dangerous game."

The situation is a dilemma for the defenders of the Fordney-McCumber tariff. To beguile the farmer, they declare that the new law will increase the price of his grain and wool and livestock. But to comfort the other consumers who have heard of the rise in the prices of various commodities.

OBITUARY

Leslie Belle Whitner, oldest daughter of Henry C. and Julia A. Long, was born October 23, 1889. Died of abscess, at the City Hospital at St. Louis, Oct. 19, 1922. Age 32 years, 11 months, 29 days.
She was converted Oct. 10, 1902, and soon afterwards united with the Old Trace Creek Baptist Church where she lived a faithful member until her death.

Leslie grew to womanhood at Rock Point or Moores Chapel as it is now known. She attended school at Mayfield College and later taught school in Bollinger, Wayne and Madison counties and won a host of friends everywhere she went.

April 6, 1913 she was united in marriage to Eimer B. Whitener. To them was born one daughter, Millie Maxine, who had already preceded her to that better land. They were made to wonder why the baby was taken but now we understand.

It is indeed hard to part with our lifelong playmate, schoolmate and classmate but God knows best and we must submit to his will.

After her marriage she lived at Moores Chapel most of the time having gone to St. Louis only a few weeks before she was taken sick. Immediately after becoming ill she told her husband that she would never recover and requested that he send for mother or sister, Mrs. Winters. She was also told him how she wished to be buried and asked that Bro. Geo. Pope of Shetleys Creek preach her funeral services.

Every means was used to save her life but all in vain. God loved her best and called her home to live with him.

We weep not as one who has no hope for she told her husband and mother that she was willing to go but hated to leave Eimer alone.

She leaves a husband, father, mother, six sisters, two brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her departure but our loss is her own gain. We know that she has a home in heaven.

Leslie was a loving wife, a dutiful and loving daughter and sister, always ready to lend a helping hand.

Amid tears of sadness, she was laid to rest beside her only at Moores Chapel cemetery as was her request. We bid her goodby for only a few days for we shall see her again.
