FACTS AND ARGUMENTS
ON THE
Transmission of Intellectual and Moral Qualities
FROM
PARENTS TO OFF-SPRING.

This is an important and valuable treatise on a subject of paramount interest to parents, and especially to mothers. It is written by a lady of eminent worth and talents, who has made the subject one of much study, and whose sole view has been to lay before her own sex facts of the greatest importance for them to know, and which cannot fail to repay them thousand fold for the cost of the volume. The information in this work is curious, valuable and interesting, and should be placed in the hand of every Father and mother in the Union.

POETRY.

Know ye not that ye are Men!

Know ye not that ye are men,
Ye laboring throngs of earth?
Must ye be told and told again
That Truth and Toil are worth?

Why do ye look upon the ground?
No fire within the eye,
When noble born are all around,
And Wealth and Rank go by?

For have ye not a heart within,
And sense and soul as they?
And, more—have ye not toiled to win
The bread ye eat to-day?

Do ye despise your sunburnt hands—
So hard and brown with toil,
That have made fair the forest lands,
And turned the forest soil?

What! do ye fear the haughty gaze
Of men in rich array?
'Tis said Pride hath not many days,
And Riches fly away.

Up heart and hand, and persevere,
And overcome the scorn—
The haughty hate and heartless sneer
Of the world's gentle born!

Fear not—shrink not—to you is given
The guardianship of earth:
And on the record book of Heaven
Is writ your honest worth!

Honor yourselves! ye honest, true,
And willing, firm, and strong!
Do well whate'er your hands may do,
Though praise may linger long!

A high and holy work is yours,
And yours shall be a fame
That lives for ages, and endures
Beyond the hero's name!

Go—with your hand upon the plough,
And the plough beneath the sod;
Pity the heart that scorn, and bow
To nothing but your God!

MISCELLANEOUS.

From the Cumberland (Md.) Presbyterian.

On the Married State.

To Miss ——. Knowing that you are shortly to enter a garden, enclosed, and that you are, at present, a stranger to this garden, permit an old friend to give you some account of it. I have travelled every part and every path; know every production of every kind it can possibly yield; and, my information can do you no harm, it may do you some good.

You know there is but one way of entrance. I need hardly tell you that it is extremely gay and glittering—strewed with flowers of every hue and every fragrance, with all that art or imagination can invent. You may fondly hope this scene of rapture will never alter, as you will not see the end of the path when you enter it. To some it proves a very short one—and to you it may appear very different in the retrospect.

Here, my dear girl, let me caution you not to dream of perfect or perpetual bliss, if you do, experience will show you that it never existed on earth, save in visions, or visionary heads.

You will meet with many productions in this garden, which are charming to the eye and pleasant to the taste; but they are not all so. Let me just remark, that you are carrying into this garden one of most delicious and delicate plants in nature—I mean Good Humor.—Don't drop it or lose it, as many have done soon after they entered, who seldom, if ever, found it again. It is a treasure which nothing can make up to you.

When you get to the end of the first walk, which lasts about thirty steps, commonly called honey-moon path, you will see the garden open in a vast variety of views—and here I must caution you against some productions which are nauseous and noxious and even fatal in their tendency to the unwary and ignorant.

There is a low, small plant, which may be seen in almost every path, called Indifference, though not perceived at the entrance. You will always know when near this plant, though you do not see it, by a certain coldness in the air which surrounds it. Contrary to all others, it thrives in cold, and dies in warmth. Whenever you perceive this, change your situation as soon as you can.

In the same path is often found that ugly, yellow flower, called Jealousy, which I wish you never to look at. Turn from it as fast as possible—for it has the strange quality of tinging the eye that holds it with a stain which it seldom gets rid of.

As you go in, you will meet with many little crooked paths—but do not go into them. I advise you, as a friend, never to attempt it; for though, at the entrance of each, is written, in large letters, "In the right," when you get in, in nine cases out of ten, you will find the true name to be Perverteness, and that you are in the wrong, and will not acknowledge it. This often occasions endless disputes here—is a source of perpetual difference, and sometimes of a final seperation in the garden.

Near this spot, you will meet with a sturdy, knotty plant, called Obstinacy, bearing a hard, bitter fruit, which becomes fatal when taken in large quantities. Turn from it—avoid it as you would the plague.

Just opposite to this, grows that lowly, lovely shrub, Compliance; which, though not pleasant to the palate, is salutary and sweet, and produces the most delicious fruit in the garden. Never be without a sprig of it in your hand—it will often be wanted as you go along; if you do not, you will surely repent the want of it.

All over the garden you may find a useful plant, called Economy. It is of a thriving quality: take a good stock of it as you go in. It adorns and enriches at the same time. Many entirely overlook it: some despise it, and others think they want it. It is generally forgotten in the hurry and gaiety with which people enter this place; but the total want of it is commonly paid for with bitter repentance. I must tell you, unless both partake of it, it will answer little end to either. You may, if you please, carry some with you into the garden, but it is a hundred to one, if you do not lose it in going in. This is more useful than what you will find there—for it is of another sort. Provide yourself and partner with a proper quantity of it as soon as you can, when in the place.

You observe as you pass, two or three paths, which run much into one another—I mean those of Regularity, Exactness and Neatness.—Do not think, as many do, that when once you are in, you may be careless of your person and dress. Remember, your companion will see some that are not so—this indifference will strike his eye, if not offend it. Enter those paths almost as soon as you enter the garden; and, take my word for it, if you do, you will never get out of them; once fairly in, you are in for life, and the worst of it is. that if you do, you will never get out of them; once fairly in, you are in for life, and the worst of it is, that if you do not find them soon, you will never find them afterward.

Near this walk, is found that invaluable shrub, Humility. This though of no worth in itself, yet joined to other good qualities, is worth them all put together. It is never seen without being admired; and is most amiable when not visible. They say, "virtue is its own reward"—I am certain pride is its own punishment. Flee from it as from a contagion, which it strongly resembles. It infects and corrupts. Cultivate, with all your care, the humble plant now mentioned, as the best antidote against this poisonous weed.

Allow me here to drop a hint on the subject of cultivation, as that most probably will be your employment. Should you be entrusted with the rearing of a flower, remember two things: first, that it is but a flower, however fair—frail in its nature, and fading at every blast; and, secondly that it is a flower in trust, for the cultivation of which you are accountable to the owner of the garden.

Should you be a witness to a blast on its dawing beauties, oh, how your fluttering heart will bleed with tenderness. Let affection sympathise. Your feelings may be conceived, but they cannot be described.—The young shoot will naturally and insensibly twine around the fibres of your frame. Should it live and thrive, spare no pains to teach the young production how to rise.—Weed it, water it, prune it—it will need them all. Without this, many weeds will grow up and poison the very soil on which it grows.

Remember this is a trust for which you are accountable to Him who gave it. That you may be blest with the sweetest productions of this garden—that they may be the delight of your eyes, that you and they, when the summer of this life is over, may be transplanted to some happier soil, and flourish in immortal vigor, in perfect and permanent felicity, is the sincere wish of your affectionate friend,

A FRIEND TO FEMALE MERIT.

POLITICAL.

From the Westchester Register.

Be it Remembered.

That the party claiming to be Democratic, par excellence, have declared their willingness to sustain for the Presidency Martin Van Buren, who supported De Witt Clinton, in opposition to James Madison, the candidate of the Republican party, during the gloomiest period of the last war, while Mr. Clay was cheering the country on to glorious and energetic resistance of the enemy!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the same party have declared their readiness to support James Buchanan, who declared in a public speech, on the 4th of July, 1812, that "if he thought he had any Democratic blood in his veins, he would let it out!"

BE IT REMEMBERED,

That the same party, while they clamor for principles, declare their willingness to support any sort of a politician bearing the name of Democrat, whether the nominee be a Proclamationist or a Nullifier—a Tariffite or a Free Trader!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the same party, professing to be hostile to Internal Improvements by the General Government, have passed over, without rebuke the declaration of Col Benton, that "among the first objects to be accomplished by a restoration of the Jackson policy, in the person M. Van Buren, is the improvements of the great Western rivers!"

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the same party, while professing to be the especial champions of the People, are always to be found on the side of power, and have uniformly sustained all the Vetoes upon the action of the People's Representatives!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the same party, while professing to venerate the memories and services of the Fathers of the Republican Church, are daily in the habit of denouncing as "among the batch of Federal measures," a Bank of the United States, the Tariff, etc., although these very measures were passed by large majorities of Republican Congresses, upon the recommendation of Republican Presidents!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the high Tariffs which have been passed by Congress since 1816, were voted for by Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren, Thomas H. Benton, Richard Mr. Johnson, and other distinguished men of the Jackson Van Buren parties!

BE IT REMEMBERED,

That the tariff bill, commonly known as the "Bill of Abominations," was passed in 1828, by the votes of Martin Van Buren, James Buchanan, Thomas H. Benton, Richard M. Johnson, &c!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the bank bill of 1816 was reported by a committee, of which John C Calhoun was chairman, and passed by the aid of the vote of Henry St. George Tucker, and other distinguished members of the Republican party; and that Judge Tucker (whom they dare not read out of the Church) to this day insists upon the constitutional power of Congress to pass such a law!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the tariff bill of 1832, which led to Nullification in South Carolina, was passed by a Jackson Congress, was signed by Andrew Jackson, and was about to be enforced by him with the bayonet! And that the evils of a civil war were averted by the timely interposition of Henry Clay!

BE IT REMEMBERED.

That the tariff of 1842, which Mr. Van Buren's friends at the North supported, and which that gentleman now declares in a letter to the South, he "utterly disclaims and denounces," was voted for by James Buchanan, "the first choice" of our anti tariff friends of Clarke, for the Presidency!—And by Silas Wright, Mr. Van Buren's lieutenant

We shall in due time have other remembrances for the People, taken from the records of the country.

It is better to be of the number of those who need relief, than of those who want hearts to give it.
