

Boilers Will Win

There is no larger hope of... through the medium of the public... to the industrial classes... to the industrial classes...

Grange Matters.

A Grange Bank will soon be established at Nebraska City. Cherokee county, Texas, has 23 subordinate granges, with nearly 700 members.

The State Grange of Louisiana meets at Baton Rouge on the first Thursday—third day of December, 1874. It is said that an English iron manufacturer has bargained for 500 acres of land near Bridgeport Ala., to erect four iron furnaces.

A correspondent of the New Orleans "Rake" estimates the cotton crop of six parishes in North Louisiana—Caldwell, Ouachita, Jackson, Franklin, Catahoula, and winn, at one third of an average crop. At a meeting of the Dora Grange, Moultrie county, Illinois, a resolution was passed that in all cases of dispute between members the parties shall try to settle by arbitration before going into litigation.

The Patrons are doing more to project and establish substantial enterprises, in connection with their organization, than all the efforts of legislation have done heretofore. California Patrons are taking steps to organize a Grangers' Homestead Association, to secure cheap homes for Patrons emigrating to that State. Such an organization in Mississippi would be advantageous. The Patrons of California have organized a "Grangers' Fruit Association." The object is a concert of action in getting their fruit to market and selling it. They propose to look after the railroad makers as well as the commission men. They have a big job on hand, but the California grangers are not afraid of big jobs. When they go for scalps there is no use in running or attempting to save any hair. Farms—including the woodland appurtenant to the arable land—comprise less than one-fifth of the area of the United States. Only one-fourth of this farm area, or less than one-twentieth of the whole area is cultivated, leaving over nineteen-twentieths of the whole area of the United States uncultivated. In the cotton States only about one-fourth of the whole area, and one-thirtieth part of the farms are cultivated in cotton.
