CANTON, MISS. August 15, 1861.

MY DEAR BROTHER—At the suggestion of numerous friends, I take this method of announcing myself as a candidate for the office of "Mayor of the City of Canton." I favor a convention of the people to nominate their candidates. I am, as I have always been—in favor of progress, and if elected, will endeavor to promote the general interest of the people, especially your support.

Truly Yours,

W. L. DINKINS.

Grains of Gold.

If you would further a fact, ask his brethren.

Do not give your kindness merely as before.

There is no literary like a cultivated mind.

The best pay to a devil is when you make it.

A heavy pollution is sometimes a great source of relief.

People who ask questions seem as if they were ignorant.

Weekly employment is the best pleasa-

for many thoughts.

The effect is not confirmed by knowledge, nor by accident.

Make enough good experiences to explain the facts.

An esteemed man is one who respects himself.

To tell a plain of the evil, and to show an any.

Love may be blind for a season, but honestly it improves in its time.

A man should not spend all his time in idle sloth.

We see how to keep up appearance.

There's a great many old scores it would be well to settle.

Even a tender conscience may say it will be delightful.

A surly, Newtonian in a pair of your.

But his will always clean shlock.

People who live to learn and profit thereby will be attacked in another.

People who speak much foolish talk.

It is not necessary to waste one's time in idle talk.

Every man should keep a fair, and exact dictionary in which he burn the faults of others.

It is sometimes almost sliding to think back on the foolish things we have done.

The mark who thinks he knows more than other people carries a fearful arrogance load.

One may suppose expectation today, but will find that expectation will catch up to you.

If a fool and his money are so easily parted, will somebody tell us how it is that so many are so stupid?

Generally is a quality which few present, but good, and poor, being a little for all.

Fifty per cent is the profit margin of any life and business.

Don't forget this.

This world is full of fools, and he who would not use once must allow himself to be fooled, and be in his looks, paltry.

For such a man's future is to be miserable.

The trouble in store for the dishonest is to be the penalty of his untruth.

Teachers Institutes.

Will be held in the Grand School building five days, beginning next Tuesday, for the white and colored teachers, in the city.