From the Memphis Ledger.

DOES MY GUSSIE LOVE ME

Tell me, little floweret,
Blooming fresh and gay
In my Gussie's window,
Does she loves me? Say!
Does she ever whisper
Softly unto you,
The name of one who loves her,
Loves her, loves her true?

Tell me, little birdling,
Warbling in your cage,
Does your mistress love me?
Come! my doubts assuage.
Cause your merry twittering;
"Come! I pray you tell,
Does my Gussie love me?
Does she love me well?

Tell me light-winged zephyr,
Tell me gentle breeze;
Tell me beams of sunshine;
Put my heart at ease.
Does my Gussie love me
Surely you must know,
As your lover round her,
Tell me it is so?

SILENT SORROW.

Speak not a word to break the spell
That binds a heart in silent sorrow;
No one can know of grief so well
As he who bears a funeral knell
And thinks of many a lovely morrow.

No one can share the weight of grief
That bows the form of all who bear it,
No sighs or tears can give relief,
No smiles bring joy, however brief,
Or linger on the lips that wear it.

No comfort can a friend impart
In words, however kindly spoken;
No hand can dry the tears that start
From the chilled fountains of that heart,
When once the crystal bowl is broken.

But from each calmer, holier thought
Can we alone our comfort borrow,
We find it soonest when untaught;
Joy comes to us again unsought,
And we forget our silent sorrow.

WIT AND HUMOR.

When does a criminal resemble an old book. When it is bound over.

Why is coffee like an axe with a dull edge? Because it has to be ground before it is used.

The intoxication of anger, is like that of the grape, shows us to others, but hides us from ourselves.

Fascination is dicided as the art of nailing an admirer to his seat.

Beef-tea was first made when Henry VII dissolvad the Pope's Bull.

The last novelty in sewing machines is one that will follow the thread of an argument.

"How long did Adam remain in Paradise before he sinned?" asked an admirable cara sposa of her loving husband. "Till he got a wife," answered the husband, calmly.

A Western editor says, his contemporary drinks so much whisky that musquitoes biting him, die of delirim tremens.

A good way to improve the memory is to always remember the poor. This appears to be a poor way.

"Father, what does a printer live on?"

"Why, my child?"

"Because I heard you say you hadn't paid him for three years, and still take the paper."

"Wife spank that child."

Tom, who has come to grief at college, has been making a clean breast of his pecuniary difficulties:

Fond Mother—"But, my dear, you have made a very bad return for all your father's unremitting kindness!"

Tom—"That's just where it was. If he had had the kindness to remit a little ottener I should have liked it better."

It used to be a law in one of the little States in Germany, hardly so large as many a wheat patch in our western country, that no one should be allowed to enter upon the territory unless he had money enough to enable him to jurney across it. One day a traveler was stopped with the usual question, to which he replied that he had no money, but he had a biscuit in his pocket—sufficient provisions to last him while he was walking across the country.

Henry F. Dickens, son of the novelist, made his debut as a public reader of his father's works, at Strood, in Kent, England, two or three weeks ago.

The Natchitoches Times, of the 16th ult., has a cut of a negro mounted on a cotton caterpiller, with the text, "go ye into all the land and preach corn unto every planter."

The Radical editors of Missouri had a meeting at St. Louis on Saturday, and resolved to come out squarely in favor of negro suffrage and negro elevation generally.

The London Times says the United States have condensed into four years the dreadful experience and the salutary schooling of a European century.

The ladies of the Austrian embassy have smoked pipes and drank coffee in the Sultan's harem at Constantinople, by invitation of the Sultan himself.

A new fashion is announced in Paris. Ladies carry their parasols and umbrellas hitched to their sides like swords; which confers on them—especially if they wear hats and plumes, and high boots with high heels—a military appearance.

Two slender maiden ladies in New York are fattening against each other for a wager, the first attaining one hundred and fifty pounds to win. One trains on sherry, eggs and tripe, the other on chocolate and shad roses.

State Items.

We learn from the Canton Citizen that a man named Warren Kyle, living four miles south of that city, killed a negro loyal leaguer called Aaron Brown in self defense while the latter was in the act of stealing from the former. Mr. Kyle was tried and acquitted but is now threatened by the loyal leaguers with vengeance. Corsican vendetta's are again at premium.

The Liberty Herald learns that the army worm is at work in Amite county, but the damage done so far amounts to little or nothing. Many doubt that it is the veritable army worm, and none seem to apprehend any great danger to the cotton crop.

When the news we learn from the Reporter of the acquittal of President Johnson reached Holly Springs, the negroes of the neighborhood gathered in that town, armed with pistols, bowie knives, guns, clubs, etc, and under the leadership of several white Radicals, marched to the residence of Judge Cummings, a well known and highly respectable citizen of North Mississippi, and breaking down the doors entered the house, carried all the furniture into the street and burned it to ashes. Fortunately Judge Cummings heard of the approach of the mob in time to take refuge in the house of a neighbor, and thus save himself from personal violence and in all probability death. The authorities, after the mob had done all the damage possible, arrested the ringleaders and dispersed the rest.

LEAP YEAR FOREVER.—Mrs. Smith, without distinction of time, and in utter disregard of the old Saxon Leap year law, announces: "I stand to the point, and I nail my colors to the mast in defence of it—that it is right, proper and delicate for a woman to choose her husband; and the man thus distinguished by her choice will feel himself ennobled and sanctified."

OUR ONLY HOPE IN DEMOCRACY.—If the Radicals succeed in the coming election, the man is not now living who will ever see peace and prosperity in the so-called United States; and it is doubtful whether future generations will ever behold that result if the Radical policy permanently prevails.

It becomes men of property to look at this matter with calm and considerate minds. It would be better for any man, rich or poor, to-day, to loose half his property, however great or small it to be, than to have the Radical policy persued one year longer. The foundations of our whole system of government, on which the pillars of society, of property, of national and individual prosperity rest, are underminded already. By electing a conservative administration next fall, we shall succeed in saving the fabric. If the people consent to the election of all administration of Radical proclivities, the end of national thrift and glory will be near at hand. The result of the elections last fall give new courage to those who desire to save the country from anarchy. It behooves every man who has property in the land or possesses the least spark of patriotism to act and vote with wisdom at the coming election. Our only chance of political salvation is in the success of the Democratic party in November next.—San Francisco Enquirer.
