Y. P. S. C. E. Members Enjoy Outing.

About 6:30 last Thursday evening the members of the Y. P. S. C. E. met at the Presbyterian church from which place they went to Mr. W. S. Lindamood's home on the Highlands. Four automobiles carried the crowd to and from the place of meeting.

All of the members of the Palm Orphanage were there, besides a representative crowd of the Sunday school pupils. Immediately after arriving at their destination clothes were spread on the lawn and most abundant and delicious supper served. After the meal several amusing games were played. Singing of patriotic and sacred songs was a most enjoyable feature.

More than 800 penalties for violation of rules and regulations governing licensed dealers in foodstuff have been imposed in the past 10 months by the Food Administration. About 150 companies and individuals have been ordered to quit business in licensed commodities for a limited or unlimited period, and over 500 have voluntarily made a money payment, usually to the Red Cross, or have temporarily abstained from doing business rather than risk calling down more drastic penalties.

Three temporary office buildings, providing working space for 6,250 persons, have been built in 10 weeks in Washington, D. C., by the construction division of the Army, without the employment of a contractor. One, a 3-story structure, 491 feet long, 260 feet wide, with a floor space of 270,000 square feet, was ready for occupancy 24 working days after the first spadeful of earth was turned.

TELLS OF BRAVE GIRLS

Mrs. Ruby Lester Fleming, director of the Red Cross stenographic force in France, has just returned for a visit after seven months abroad. She has brought back some interesting observations on the courage and devotion of the American girls who are faithfully performing their unsparring task under nerve-racking conditions. Operating a typewriter under fire, she says, takes as much courage and grit as driving an ambulance. The office staff of the Red Cross in Paris has stuck to work through the strain of air raids and long-distance bombardment.

For Mental Efficiency.
The mental "settling-up exercises" which are called for to convert inefficiency and incapacity into ability and power are few. Nevertheless, they must be established firmly in your mind, if you would succeed. You must practice the will to pay attention to laborious, uninteresting and apparently unimportant matters. The will to fix the attention upon the "pieces in the paper" which you do not like is necessary. Nothing should escape you; you should compel yourself to grasp the intricate, involved and even impractical details of whatever comes before you.—Exchange.

Considered Bandits Nuisances.
For kindness and generosity to hold-up men deliver the hand-embossed leather medal to Albert Belanger, Chicago grocer.

A "tall, dark man," according to Belanger's report to the police, entered his store and started tickling his ribs with a revolver.

"Here, you can't pull that stuff in here," Belanger told the bandit as he seized the gun. "Get out."

The bandit "got" and Belanger tossed his weapon after him into the street.

"Now take this and beat it," the grocer enjoined, and the bandit did. "These fellows are getting to be nuisances," was Belanger's comment as a customer drifted in.
