"I have long been satisfied that all that is necessary to bring about a complete reconciliation and harmony between the people of the North and South, is that the masses of both should fully understand and appreciate each other's feelings and motives, making due allowances for the difference of education, habits and modes of thought which they have grown up, under which they have grown up, which time and friendly intercourse alone can unify and assimilate, but which, in the meantime, when properly appreciated, constitute no just or adequate cause for personal hostility or national discord. This complete reconciliation, this restoration of confidence and fraternal feeling, is one thing essential, above all others, to the restoration of national prosperity and to a safe and beneficent republican government. To bring about such a result should be the primary object of every patriot in both sections of the Union."—Senator Christianity.

An old woman, pious and God-fearing, was heard praying. In her humble petition she told the Lord that she had nothing to eat. Some mischievous boys heard her prayer, and brought bread and threw it down the chimney while she was yet on her knees. Going into the house while she was eating the bread, she called the attention of the boys to the evidence of God's goodness in his answer to her prayers. They sought to show her that she was mistaken, as they, and not God, had thrown the bread down the chimney. "That don't alter God's goodness," she replied; "God sent the bread, if the devil did bring it."

The Vicksburg Herald of Wednesday publishes the following: Meridian, May 15.—Miss Cornelia Chisholm died this evening at two o'clock from gangrene, which appeared in her wrist soon after she was wounded, and attacked her arm before medical assistance arrived. A young lady of this city who went to DeKalb to aid in nursing her, imbibed poison in the blood through a small puncture in her fore-finger while dressing Miss Chisholm's wound, and is now quite sick. The young lady referred to is Miss Cankey, a relative of Judge Christian, who has been for several days in a very precarious condition. She has been quite low, but is thought to be improving.—Meridian Homestead.

Mrs. Farlington says that just before the late war circumstances were seen round the moon nightly, shooting stars permeated the earth, the deck of the sun was covered with black spots of ink.
