

THE MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The meeting at the Opera House last night, the number which attended it and the spirit with which the speeches of the Hon. W. G. Yarger and J. H. Wynn were received, practically concluded the campaign. That it pointed to the election of the Wynn ticket by an overwhelming majority, every one present was confident.

The meeting was presided over by Leroy Percy, Esq., Chairman of the Campaign Committee. Hon. W. G. Yarger spoke first, clearly and lucidly explaining and asserting the meaning of the ticket headed by Hon. J. H. Wynn. His remarks were in line with the editorial in the Times of last Saturday, of course shunning a stronger light and clearer meaning on the purpose at issue. He stated in substance that the movement was no war on individuals, classes or vocations and had no personal end in view. Its supporters were hewing straight on the line to a better and a stronger municipal administration, one elevated above a mere scramble for the emoluments of office, in which the good of the city and the selection of a fit Council was lost sight of; a government more in accord with the aspirations and destiny of a flourishing young city, which would foster and give shape to its possibilities instead of cramping and perverting its future.

When it was known that Judge J. H. Wynn had consented to accept the Mayoralty of Greenville, there was but one thought and one expression among the good citizens of this community, animating white and black, Jew and Christian; that laying aside personal preference here was the man of men to uphold law and order, give us good and strong government; with him as Mayor, the man and the occasion will have met. His speech was restricted to defining the spirit of the movement which had brought out the ticket at whose head he had been placed, according to his interpretation. In language and manner which carried conviction he avowed this to be enforcement of the laws and ordinances as these are written; and a policy of civil administration which would make the most possible out of our city.

Judge Wynn made one point in his speech which should lodge and stay in the mind of every poor man in Greenville. He reminded them that of all people, the poor are most concerned in and benefited by strong government. The well to do, the man of influence and position could take care of himself. But to the poor and the friendless, the law was the only protection. And in feeble hands this shield even was turned into an engine of oppression.

Both he and Mr. Yarger repelled the street aspersions and disparagements of the ticket and made telling hits in return. The meeting closed in a burst of applause and with a show of spirits which practically showed the campaign settled.

The ticket was filled out by the colored supporters of the Wynn ticket recommending for the third Councilman Prof. I. D. Shadd of the training school. He is a most respectable representative of his race, the labor of whose life for several years past has been in the way of moral elevation of the youth of his race. Without outside aid he has built up a creditable and flourishing school. He was at one time Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State.

To put the present campaign to record we copy the following previous proceedings from the Democrat: A Committee was also appointed at that meeting to canvass the situation, see the other candidates, four in number, and invite them into a Convention to be held Saturday, at which time it was proposed to place a ticket in the field, backed by the united support of the friends of all the candidates.

The undersigned, by the Committee heretofore appointed by your honorable body in regard to the matters hereinafter mentioned, beg leave, through Chairman, to report that they have discharged the duties devolved upon them, and report as follows: That to Messrs. John H. Moore, Jacob Alexander, D. B. O'Bannon and R. W. Tilford, candidates for the Mayoralty of the City of Greenville, at the ensuing election, they submitted the following proposition, namely: Whereas, we have appointed a committee of the supporters of J. H. Wynn, with full power and authority to act in the interest of peace and harmony; now, therefore, in order to avoid discord and bitter feeling among the citizens of our town, we make this proposition to J. H. Moore, Jacob Alexander, D. B. O'Bannon and R. W. Tilford, pledging thereto the acceptance of J. H. Wynn, to-wit: That we hold, on Friday, November 23, 1888, at the Opera House, in the City of Greenville, at 7 o'clock p. m., a mass convention, to be composed of the active supporters, being qualified voters, of all the candidates for the office of Mayor; and that said convention nominate a candidate to be chosen by the majority of said convention for said office of Mayor and nominate a City Council.

An answer hereto is requested by 12 o'clock on Wednesday, the 26th, and a failure to answer will be taken as a refusal to go into the convention. LELOY PERCY, D. F. HUNT, J. C. GREENLEY, J. C. GREENLEY.

That no written reply within the time stated therein was received from any of said parties, but that Mr. Jacob Alexander stated to Mr. LeRoy Percy one of said Committee, that said candidates had determined not to go into the convention as proposed. Your said Committee beg to recommend that the vacancy upon the aforesaid ticket be left open for the present; that the filling of said place be left to the Campaign Committee hereinafter mentioned with full power to act in the premises and to fill such vacancy with such person as they may deem advisable.

Your said Committee beg leave to recommend that a Campaign Committee composed of the following persons be appointed, whose duty it shall be to actively take charge of all matters connected with the canvass now going on for the election of municipal officers for the City of Greenville; namely: LeRoy Percy, J. C. Greenley, G. B. Alexander, E. N. Thomas, J. S. McNelly, R. H. Campbell, J. S. Walker, H. K. Johnson, H. T. Rucks, A. M. Shelby, King Dewart, J. C. Head, W. B. Canaan, E. S. Toombs, R. E. Montgomery, and J. B. Bell.

Your said Committee further recommend that a mass convention be held at the Opera House on Friday night, the 22nd instant, at half past seven o'clock p. m., to which all the citizens of Greenville shall be invited, and at which time and place the Hon. J. H. Wynn shall be invited to address the meeting.

And now, having discharged the duties devolved upon them, your said Committee ask to be relieved. Wm. G. YARGER, Chairman. GREENVILLE, MISS., Nov. 20, '88.

We the undersigned qualified voters hereby pledge ourselves to support the Municipal Ticket headed by the Hon. J. H. Wynn: R. F. Dunbar, D. F. Hunt, Wm. G. Yarger, H. N. Alexander, Geo. W. And over one hundred other names which will be published next week. We make the "Admission--No Kicking." "The GREENVILLE TIMES and the Columbus Index have certainly reached to us as the acme of misconstruction" in defining the Messenger's position towards Gen. Walthall, as they insist the Messenger did it in criticism of our distinguished Senator's speech in opposition to the calling of a Constitutional Convention. But if we are not still hovering over the "acme" we would announce to those of our readers who agree with us that a Constitutional Convention should be held, that these gallant knights of the quill admit that the question should be settled within the party and there is to be no kicking after the result is known, no matter what that result may be. Then the "decided differences" are differences no longer than the moment the majority of the people's representatives in the next Legislature shall speak. Good.

Before leaving the subject, however, we want to remind our friend of the Index that his criticism of Senator George reads through our spectacles a great deal harsher than we ever intended ours should be towards any anti-convention Democrat, and that said criticism did not seem to be confined strictly to the subject matter. What Geo. George's views concerning the University had to do with the discussion of a Constitutional Convention, is a little beyond our "acme" of comprehension. --Cluckaw Messenger.

RAILROAD POINTS.

A distinguished party of officials of the Richmond and Danville and the Georgia Pacific officials came in on a special train on last Saturday and remained in Greenville until Monday morning. The party consisted of Edward Christian, Joseph Bryan of the G. P. R. Co.; Col. T. M. R. Talbot, 1st Vice President, Gen. W. Johnson, 4th Vice President, of the Richmond and Danville.

On Saturday evening a number of land owners of the Lower Bogue country waited on the railroad party and laid before them the advantages of a branch road leaving the main line beyond the Bogue, and running south between that stream and the Sandowner; crossing the Bogue just continuing to Murphy's Bayou. The distance covered would be about 25 miles. The suggestion was most favorably considered and this agreement was reached: That if said land owners would guarantee to the railroad $15,000 cash and the rights of way, the proposition would be recommended to the Directors of the Richmond and Danville.

On the following Tuesday a meeting of the said land owners was held in Greenville, presided over by Auditor Stone, and pledges made aggregating $12,600. There is no shadow of doubt about the full amount agreed upon being raised. And judging from the tone of Messrs. Talbot, Johnston and the others of that party, there is as little about the road being built next year.

On Monday next a number of the land owners will go over the route with one of the company's engineers, who will report on the character and productiveness of the route. This latter is simply unsurpassed, a mere fraction of it however being in cultivation. This road will when built be equally as valuable a feeder to Greenville's trade as the Deer Creek narrow gauge.

After finishing their engagement here the railroad party went to Huntington; which visit we trust argues the early opening up of its traffic arrangement with the Gould system beyond the river.

STILL ANOTHER ROUTE.

EDITOR GREENVILLE TIMES: In occasional allusions in your paper to the extension of the Deer Creek branch of the Georgia Pacific, nothing is said of an extension according to the provisions of the charter, to Rolling Fork, thence to Yazoo City, Or, to leave Deer Creek about Nitta Yuma and follow a survey that was made heretofore to Yazoo City. This would increase the business of that road along Deer Creek and traverse forty miles of new and most fertile territory, tapping the Sandowner river at its crossing and Straight Bayou, Silver Creek and Wolf Lake, and, as I understand, give a shorter connection by a good many miles to New Orleans than any other road from Greenville and Arkansas City.

We heartily agree with our correspondent, one of the largest planters and most intelligent citizens of Sharkey, as to the excellence of a road by the line he sketches so favorably. But then this Delta country is just thick with good railroad lines, all leading to Greenville.

[Special to Times-Democrat.] Washington, Nov. 18.--In the United States Supreme Court to-day decisions were rendered in the following cases: No. 1086, The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railway Company, plaintiff in error, vs. Sautel B. Thompson, sheriff--Mississippi Supreme Court. Judgment affirmed with costs.

No. 1087, The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railway Company vs. the Board of Commissioners of the Yazoo Valley Delta--Circuit Court Southern Mississippi. Judgment affirmed with costs.

The meaning of these decisions is that to earn the tax exemption in its charter the L. C. road has got to extend its Valley branch to the Mississippi River. There is still a little terminal room at Greenville, but not much. The L. C. might still get the right of way between the Bogue and Deer Creek, or from Belmont due West here; about the only unoccupied ground to the South and East.

SULLIVAN VS. THE COON.

Boston, Nov. 21.--John L. Sullivan was seen to-day in relation to the $10,000 offered by the California Athletic Club. He said: "The California Athletic Club went what I offered them when I was asked to go out there, and that is just what I will do. I will meet the colored fighter at their club-rooms if a purse of $20,000 is hung up, and that's my final answer. I am willing to meet any man they put against me, but they must carry out the deal about Jackson now, or it will cost them more money when they come to talk it over again." "Then you refuse to go to the Pacific slope unless the purse is $20,000?" "Yes; that is the price for me against a colored fighter. I will meet any white man for a $10,000 purse, but for the other I want the full amount." "What about Slatin meeting you?" "It's all the same to me which of them is set up against me. I have no choice. All I am looking at is the amount given. I once said I would never fight a colored man, but they seem to think Jackson is a world-beater, and I am anxious to show them just where he belongs."

THE JACKSON-SULLIVAN MATCH. San Francisco, Nov. 21.--W. R. Daley, sporting editor of the Illustrated World, to-night telegraphed John L. Sullivan as follows: "An authorized offer of $15,000 for a finish fight with Peter Jackson. Respond."

We hope this purse will be made up and that the coon will do Sullivan up good.

Outside the Breastworks.

About this time last year, says the Chicago Times, the effusive President, now the President in fact, wired his condolence to Warner Miller, which he described as falling just outside the breastworks, where, by the way, he has been permitted to remain.

The President is silent now. Indeed, he authorizes a protest against the statement that he has said anything whatever about the battle of Tuesday week. Perhaps the very magnitude of the task of expressing sympathy with his mangled or routed, or frightened lieutenants repalls him.

Foraker has fallen just outside the breastworks in Ohio, but the President sends no Harrisonian salvo by wire. The mine has been sprung at Petersburg and Brigadier Mahone is swallowed in the debris, but the White House offers no consolation by lightning.

Hutchison lies prone upon the foughten field of Iowa, and Harrison doesn't so much as inquire into the condition of his wounds.

In various grotesque attitudes Harrisonian followers lie outside of breastworks extending all the way from Martha's Vineyard to Sioux City, and the White House doesn't even inquire into the efficiency of the ambulance corps.

The spent ball, which found its billet in Mississippi, caught Chalmers skulking so far in the rear that his name does not even figure in the list of casualties.

There is not the shadow of objection (there could not be) to the gentlemen named at the young man's meeting. But all we have heard express themselves upon the subject have objected to the manner of the nomination; declaring that a public meeting of ALL citizens should have been called, and candidates discussed before it. The result may have been the same, but it would have given the ticket a more harmonious support than it is now likely to have, with four other candidates each doing his individual best to be elected Mayor. This is the situation now, as we gather it from general street talk. Upon anything beyond the excellence of the ticket suggested we will refrain from comment.--Spirit.

It seems to us that the real issue is not now the Wynn Ticket was conceived; but whether or not it possesses superior merit. Surely no good citizen who grants the affirmative of this question, who sees the vicious influence exerted by government based on personal candidate and run on the "dollar and cents" schedule, will oppose and rebuke this new movement because of its origin. There was a plain reason for the ticket to be formulated as it was. Those who took the lead in the demand for better administration realized that if a meeting were called before a response could be had through the appeal for reform and a stronger and better government, before an organization of those who would respond could be effected, the personal candidates who had been in the field for months securing support and personal pledges would combine and overwhelm it. But after being in the field fewer days than their antagonists had been months, they then challenged them to measure strength with the infant ticket in a public meeting. The challenge was declined, and, as last night's meeting showed, wisely so.

Those who now criticize the Wynn ticket, since the last night's meeting, and after reading the list of its supporters which we publish, (it will be twice as long next Saturday,) are simply dealing in pretexts. They had better turn to the other candidates. Why do not these gentlemen by the way announce their candidacies? Is it possible that they can think that the citizens of Greenville will, at this very turning point of material destiny, turn over their public morals and growing interests to dark horses and unknown quantities? Do they not see that the old style of the candidates for the city offices of profit selecting such Councilmen as can bag the most of the floaters at the election, is ended and gone down in darkness? More than all else, the Wynn ticket and its strength is a protest against that very evil. Gentlemen candidates, as Capt. Yerger invited you, "come up to the lick log" and give up your personal candidacies. Stand no longer, confessedly, in the way of the general good. Greenville has outgrown the sort of government that personal candidates and vote jobbing councilmen give. Our city, in which we all take pride, deserves better measure than you are giving it.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

To the Editor of the Commonwealth: The opposition to a constitutional convention is divided into two classes--each holding different and contradictory views. One declares that everything in Mississippi is so lovely and prosperous that to have a convention would only be to attempt to paint the lily. The other depicts the situation of affairs as so bad as to be incapable of any remedy. The State is in so felicitous a position that improvement is impossible, therefore the madness of talking about a convention to improve perfection.

The State is in a predicament of such grave peril the hair trigger is set to such a point of fineness that the least movement will lead to an explosion. We are too prosperous and happy to need any improvement, therefore do nothing. Our disease is so desperate that all remedies are impossible, therefore do nothing. It is impossible for these premises can be true. But from these diverse assumptions the same conclusion is reached, which must necessarily be unsound. Each of the premises is false. Each of the State is far from satisfactory, and on the other hand it is by no means beyond the reach of remedies.

It is nonsense to tell the one hundred and fifty thousand white voters of the State that the condition of public affairs here is admirable, and that it is just as absurd to tell them that they can do nothing to improve their situation. Both these views were recently expressed in one editorial written by a brilliant Mississippi editor.

IT KNOCKS OUT MALARIA.

Kilrain may knock out Sullivan if he wishes, but that has nothing to do with the malaria which "grows wild" in some of the swamy regions of the South. A man who has been there, writes: GREENVILLE, S. C. gentlemen--Having used Dr. Westmoreland's Callisaya Tonic since 1883, I cheerfully recommend it to those suffering from loss of appetite and dyspepsia; also as a preventive of malaria, having used one dozen bottles in Florida during the months of September, October and November, 1884. If you don't want to have malaria, then buy a bottle of Dr. Westmoreland's Callisaya Tonic for 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by A. B. Finlay & Co. Nov. 16-21.

Mr. Davis Better.

[Evening States Nov. 21st.] The cool, bracing atmosphere of this morning has had much to do in procuring a very material change in the condition of Mr. Davis, who was reported so seriously ill yesterday. Last night he was comparatively free of fever, and his rest was refreshing and almost uninterrupted throughout the night. His physician, who called at the fence residence early this morning, expressed himself as extremely grateful with the great change wrought in his patient's condition within the past few hours.

[Special to Times-Democrat.] Port Gibson, Nov. 20.--The Episcopal Convocation of Natchez met here at St. James Church yesterday, and after a session of two days adjourned this afternoon. Gov. Lowry's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

[Special to Commercial Herald.] Jackson, Miss., Nov. 21.--Gov. Lowry to-day issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: "In obedience to a custom wise and appropriate, I, Robert Lowry, Governor of the State of Mississippi, do set apart Thursday, the 28th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. The people are earnestly recommended to assemble in their respective places of worship and offer thanks to God for his abundant blessings to our State and humbly invoke a beneficent continuance of the same. Gratitude begeth a people so highly favored and proper recognition of the divine purpose and guidance in material as well as spiritual blessings, has doubtless contributed to the unexampled progress of our common country. Then let us give unto the Lord the glory due unto His name. Bring an offering and come into His courts."
