

where she was unable (as she herself said) to restrain herself, and spoke for some time in the unknown tongue, to the great surprise of the congregation...

Cobbett has published the following CHALLENGE.

TO ALL THE YANKEES UPON THE FACE OF THE EARTH. I, William Cobbett, of Kensington in Old England, hereby offer to bet any Yankee one hundred pounds, the conditions of which bet are as follows:

The practice of weaving wool, cotton, and flax is of very great antiquity. The Egyptians excelled in it; and that the Israelites profited by their teaching, appears from the decorations of the tabernacle, which were made under every possible disadvantage.

Woodville: THURSDAY MORNING JAN. 12, 1832. 6-7 Divine Service will be performed on SUNDAY next, at the Methodist Church, by the Rev. T. C. Brown.

The dress of the Greeks and Romans was very different from this. It was flowing and graceful; but while we allow that in point of freedom and appearance their drapery was better than ours, we maintain, that in some other respects the advantage is decidedly our own.

It is no easy matter to tell when the modern dress was first used. Nothing resembling pantaloons was worn by Hebrew or Greek, nor the earlier Romans. It appears that they were known in Babylon, and were so made as to cover the foot, so that the hint of the stocking was evidently taken from an amputated leg of this garment.

On Thursday night last the Gia house of Messrs. Duncan & Charles Stewart, containing about 60 bales of cotton, was burnt down. There is no doubt but that it was the act of an incendiary.

By the arrival of every day's mail, we receive fresh intelligence of the extension of Rail Roads in various parts of the Union. The adoption of this mode of transportation is destined at some future day, to bind together the different sections of our extended empire, in still stronger bonds of intimacy and mutual interchange of benefits.

Count Capo D'Istria, President of Greece, was assassinated on the 9th October last, by Constantine & George Mavromichalis—Sic semper tyrannis!

The Road Bill passed at the late session of our Legislature, will be published in our next No.

We recommend to the attention of our readers, the communication over the signature of 'A. Bead Ox.'

Bryant is the most chaste and poetic inditer of verses in America. The lines to a Water fowl, we offer as a specimen of his genius.

Applications to be made to the next legislature of New York. For a rail-road on the banks of the Hudson, between the city of New York and the town of Manhattanville, with a capital of $300,000.

From unavoidable circumstances we have been compelled to defer the publication of our paper this week, until Thursday evening;—hereafter it will be regularly issued on Tuesday mornings, to suit the convenience of our country customers who visit town on that day.

The Southern Planter solicits no patronage or encouragement, but what it claims for its deserts. There is an effort making to impair its character, even before it has developed itself.

Honor to the brave.—The Ball on Monday last, in celebration of the 8th January, was attended with a splendid display of beauty and fashion.

From the length of the Auditor's Report, [inserted by request,] many articles are deferred until our next day of publication. Under the genus 'pedlars,' he judiciously recommends the policy of restricting licenses to the number of 1000 pedlars.

As a reason for the above suggestions, I refer the public to the message of the Governors of Virginia and North Carolina, the address delivered in New York and Philadelphia, the memorial of W. Rawle, and the paper called the Liberator.

CHIMNEY ON FIRE. The prefect of Police of Paris has directed that a quantity of flour of sulphur should be continually kept at the watch house of the firemen in that metropolis, and at the places of residence of the police officers.

repended of eating too little. The best rule of dietetics, is that which directs you to rise always from a table with an appetite—not to surfeit yourself & be oppressed with the mere animal clogs that environ on such occasions, the ethereal operations of mind.

[Communication.] THE CONVENTION—No. 2.

Can any thing be more new, than that Philip of Macedonia, a man, should lord it over Greece? 1. The above expression was used by the Orator Demosthenes, when asked by his indolent countrymen, what news?

2. Any attempt by the U. States Courts to infringe the evident right of a state to govern the entire population within its limits, and to punish offenses within the same, is an usurpation which challenges determined resistance.

3. The American Convention thro' their President W. Rawle, has proposed the abolition of slavery. The Governor of Virginia, states that the insubordination in that state, was excited by incendiary papers put forth from the non-slave holding states.

Art. — This state will submit to no acts of hostility and annoyance, endangering the property and laws of her citizens, without a remedy, and if evils are unredressed, will justify a suspension of pacific relations according to every principle of international law.

Art. — No free person of color, shall be permitted to reside within the limits of the state.

Art. — Any person exciting the slaves to revolt or discovered distributing inflammatory papers for that purpose, shall on conviction be imprisoned for life, and deprived of Executive clemency or pardon.

As a reason for the above suggestions, I refer the public to the message of the Governors of Virginia and North Carolina, the address delivered in New York and Philadelphia, the memorial of W. Rawle, and the paper called the Liberator.

6. The state has a right by 'interposition,' (as nullification seems unpopular with submission men) to arrest any federal encroachment on her rights—and the time will be propitious at the Convention, to propose the following provision.

Art. — This state will submit to no tariff beyond revenue—and asserts the principle that freedom from restraint gives the utmost extension to foreign trade, and the best direction to the capital and industry of her citizens—and such a policy would render the commerce of the world (says a London paper) an interchange of mutual advantage—and diffuse an increase of wealth and enjoyments among the inhabitants of each state—as the planter could buy in the cheapest market, and sell in the dearest—which regulates every merchant in his dealings—and is the best rule for the trade of a whole nation.

A DEAD OX.

From the New York Courier and Enquirer. DR. COOPER OF S. CAROLINA. This learned man is arraigned before the South Carolina Legislature, for his religious opinions, and it has been left to the Trustees to remove him if they considered it the interest of the college.

As Mr. Niles is considered by many as an orator and conspicuous as an advocate of the policy which the people of this country are made to support...

Michigan.—The inhabitants of Detroit have prepared a petition to Congress, to have the coast of the Inland Seas surveyed so that navigation on the lake may be more easy and safe.
