MRS. GEORGE C. PAINE was the charming hostess on Tuesday afternoon at an afternoon tea given in honor of her attractive and much admired guest, her sister Mrs. Hudson and her niece, Mrs. Fite. The handsome colonial home was never more lovely or attractive than on this occasion. There were roses and lilies everywhere in a perfect riot of color and in great profusion. The tea table was lovely in its decoration of pink roses and softly lighted with pink candles. It was presided over by Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Hudson. Mrs. Dugan and Mrs. Eugene L. Sykes, Mrs. T. F. Paine, Robert Paine and William Paine and Mrs. Cariton also assisted in the dining room. Mrs. Fite were assisted in receiving their guests by Mesdames Bumpass, Houston and Therrell and exquisitely lovely little Mary Alice Paine, the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Paine. It was a very delightful and happy occasion.

Mrs. E. P. Thompson gave a lovely picture show party Tuesday night, complimenting Mrs. Clifton Fowler's guest, Mrs. Hayes, of Alexandria, Louisiana.

The U. D. C. reception given by the Amory chapter to the visiting delegates, was a very delightful affair. Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. J. C. McFarlane, Mrs. Wishart, Mrs. Boyd and Miss Anne McFarland were delegates to the convention and enjoyed the convention and the attendant festivities.

Mrs. Clifton Fowler gave a very elaborate and elegant luncheon on Wednesday, especially complimenting her house guest, Mrs. Hayes, of Alexandria, La.

On next Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 the Cemetery Association will meet at the residence of Mrs. Bird Drake. The Cemetery Association is accomplishing several big things that have been needed a long time but they need co-operation to carry out other big things that are on their program.

The work that is being done in the old cemetery is attracting very favorable notice; it is proposed to make this plot of about eight acres a place of beauty. There are some very old some very interesting monuments there, heroes of the revolutionary war, heroes of the Mexican war and heroes of the civil war, all lie here. Make a pilgrimage out there, you will be interested and your pride aroused.

Decoration Day was fittingly observed here Sunday afternoon under the direction of the U. D. C. The Confederate monument was wreathed in flowers by the children of the Confederacy, who also carried garlands to the grave of Major S. A. Jonas, for whom the chapter is named. The City Hall auditorium was filled with an appreciative audience. Mr. B. H. McFarland was master of ceremonies; appropriate and interesting short addresses were given by Dr. W. G. Sykes, Mr. Geo. Leftwich, Jr., and Rev. James Cunningham. The music was under the direction of Mrs. Napier; southern songs were sung by a quartette, composed of Messrs. McCaskill, McFarland, Broyles and Peugh, and one of our sweetest singers, Miss Janie Maier, sang lovely "Somewhere." A long procession moved to the cemetery where the graves of the Confederate dead were literally covered with blossoms. It was one of the most successful occasions of the kind that has been held in years.

Mrs. Seelig spent two days here this week as the guest of Mrs. Abe Rubel. Many friends remember so pleasantly in the days when she was a resident here.

Mrs. J. F. Coburn.

With deep regret we chronicle the death of Mrs. J. F. Coburn, Sr. She died at her residence on South Hickory street on Tuesday night, surrounded by her children and friends. Mrs. Coburn lived a long and useful life, dying at the advanced age of 88 years. She was a life long member of the Baptist church, consistent and faithful to all obligations. She is survived by her four sons, J. D. and Herman Coburn, of Aberdeen, Mr. James Coburn, of Birmingham, and Mr. John Coburn, of Bessemer, Ala. She was buried from her home on Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. James Cunningham, officiating.

Mrs. Emma Pauline Sykes Barbour.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. Emma Pauline Sykes Barbour reached Aberdeen on last Friday. Her remains were brought here last Sunday from Hartford, Ky., where she died, and was accompanied by her son, Mr. George Sykes, and her daughters and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Hewett, Mrs. Margaret Williams, of Hartford, Ky. Mrs. Barbour was Miss Emma Pauline Moore, of Columbus, and was a noted belle and beauty of those wonderful ante-bellum days. She married Col. Columbus Sykes, son of M. G. A. Sykes, and lived in the old homestead for several years. Her husband was killed during the war by a falling tree; he had just returned to his command from a furlough that was granted him, to bring back the body of his brother who had been killed in battle.

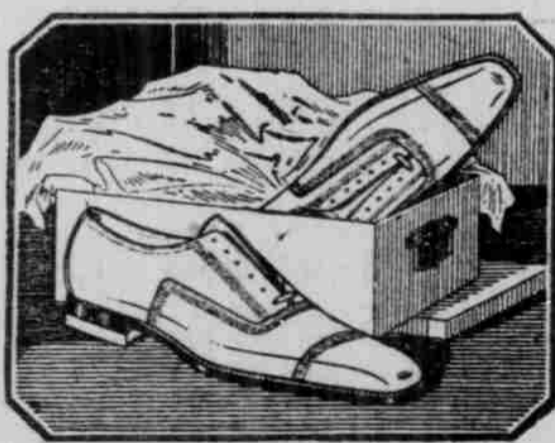

Mrs. Sykes was a brilliant figure in those days of the old South that held so much of tragedy and romance.

Mrs. Sykes afterwards married Mr. Pollock Barbour, of Louisville, and never lived here again, but this was the place and the people she loved and where she wished her body to lie. She was buried on the Sykes family plot in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery.

A rather strange coincidence was that she was buried on the U. D. C. Decoration Day. This organization was organized by her soon after the war.

Ellen Bumpass, a member of the Maj. S. A. Jonas chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, placed on her grave a magnificent basket of carnations as a tribute from the U. D. C's.

Mrs. Barbour was one of the most brilliant, fascinating and dashing women of that day of elegant Southern men and women, and her passing is truly part of the passing of the old South. Her remains were taken to the Old Homestead, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Sykes, and she was buried from the Presbyterian church.

Christian Church Notes.

The revival is over and the church is united and happy. Dr. Tindall's sermons and Bible readings were an inspiration to all who heard him, and scores of people, both in the church and out of it, asked to have him return next year, and so a contract was entered into with Dr. Tindall for a two weeks meeting for May of next year. There were 35 additions to the church during the revival and just prior to it. The next move of the church now is for a new modern church building.

Mrs. Harmon was called to West Point April 23rd to wait on her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Roberts, who was down with the "flu," and after the third day she took it herself and was just able to sit up the first of this week; she hopes to return on Thursday or Friday of this week.

The Bible school has gone considerably over the 100 mark the past two Sundays. The Easter offering of the Bible school was $32.12. This goes to the Old People's Home in Jacksonville, Fla.

Services Sunday morning and evening as usual. The sermon at 11 o'clock will be preached especially for the young converts and those taking membership during the revival. It is hoped that everyone who came into the church during the meeting will be present.

Home Demonstration Work.

Annie Ware Douglas, tri-county agent is in Monroe this week, and expects to do some work in a number of the communities of the county, namely: Nettleton, Smithville, Amory, Hamilton and New Hope. Most of these places have asked for work in poultry culling.

There are 4 fundamentals necessary for successful poultry keeping. Proper selection of stock, care and feeding of flocks, systematic culling, co-operative marketing.

By community organization of men, women, boys and girls the Tri-County Home Demonstration Agent can give instructions to those interested in poultry keeping that will make the crop worthwhile.

Missouri, one of the banner agricultural states of the middle west, nets more money from poultry and poultry products than from her horses and mules.
