Don't Pay Advance Fee to Get Loan

BEWARE OF THE loan company that requires an advance fee to negotiate a loan. One outfit is reported to advertise through the mails and sends a representative out to your home when you return their application.

A $200 advance fee is required to process your loan, he says, which is returned if the loan is not approved. The prospective borrower receives a letter from the "home office" informing him that the loan was not approved and that the advance fee will be returned. But the money isn't returned, and the address on the company's letterhead proves to be nonexistent.

As in the real estate business, no reputable loan firm requires an advance fee, nor do they come to your home to lend you money. You have to go to them.

Thieves Buy Old Cars To Get Titles

CAR THIEVES are reported to be buying up old and junked cars from farmers to get the titles. They say they want the cars to make "doodlebug" farm tractors. The titles are later altered to describe stolen automobiles. The stolen cars are then driven out of state and sold under the altered title.

If approached by someone who appears to be trying to work this racket, get in touch with local authorities.

Insurance Racket

BE ON THE lookout for racketeers who pose as government representatives of social security, workmen's compensation or other federal programs.

They claim that their job is to explain farmers' benefits under these programs. This is just a dodge to get into your home and try to peddle some worthless insurance.
