

In The Busy Days Ahead
LET SWEETHEART
BAKE YOUR BREAD

- ♥ Ready-sliced
- ♥ Terrific for toast
- ♥ Great for sandwiches
- ♥ No work for you

Sweetheart
BREAD

FRESH at your grocer's every day!

the youth who stood before him, accused, had won his warrior's feathers in the same medicine-dance ceremony which had acclaimed himself, Achoosha, chief of all the lodges of the tribe.

Too, the youth Nepahwis and he had played together, hunted together as boys in the woodlands along the creek bottoms of this vast game-plenty land.

There had been a little love affair then, between Nepahwis and Weenoona. A trivial little affair, pure and chaste. Now—he must be stern. The traditions, the laws of the people rested upon him. This youth had committed a serious offense.

Achoosha, thoughtful a moment, said bitterly to Nepahwis: "You may keep your bow, your quiver full of arrows, your hunting-knife — but — you cannot keep the warrior's feathers in your hair. They must be thrown to the ground."

The accused youth straightened at Night Travel

O, near lights and far lights
And every light a home!
And how they gladden, sadden us
who late and early roam

But sad lights and glad lights,
By flash and gleam we speed.
Across the darkness to a light
We love and know and need.

that. His fine muscles tensed! His eyes blazed defiance at those in the circle. He trembled—

THEN HE FELT the maiden's soft hand upon his arm—. Yes, she would stand with him, die with him if they must, yet she restrained him. What had she seen when looking into the eyes of the chief? Did the eyes beseech? Implore? Instantly, again, they were unsympathetic, pitiless.

The three feathers motioned idly back and forth in the breeze where they were fastened with tiny sinew thongs to his shiny, rich, black hair—which hung in two large braids over his shoulders, down to his waist-line. She too, had beautiful hair—not so black and glossy—just as rich; longer, lighter in color, almost a gentle brown.

Suddenly she reached, jerked his feathers loose, let them flutter down. One fell lightly across her dainty moccasined foot. There would be no use to resist or flee, she wisely reasoned. Silent footsteps would trail them, slay them, like uncanny spirits.

Meeshawask pointed, shouted, partly rose from where he sat. He felt a fury that he dared not heap upon the two. An astonished gasp came from many of the others.

RECKLESSLY, SHE HAD sealed her own fate along with his. The act said plainly; shamelessly, she was ready to share the penalty—even death. Hope faded for Meeshawask.

Those gathered around outside the council circle thought more humiliation would come now—perhaps concerning his bow and arrows. They knew any decision of the chief, whatever it was, would be absolute. Many sympathized with the youth and maiden—but justice must be done.

"You," Achoosha turned again to the girl, "will take your deer-skin robes. They will shelter you over this one night. In the morning, at sun-rise, I will come to the hill-top over the dry valley and with my uplifted hand will come your sentence . . . Go."

The eyes of the youth blazed again. He knew, with a motion he could bring his bow to position, arrows to his hand; better, death, than to submit to such humiliation . . . He breathed sharply: "I shall! I am a warrior! It is better to die—"

THE SOFT HAND flew again to his

NOW!
FOWLER
HEAT-WEAVE ELEMENT

A better way of water heating offered ONLY
by Fowler

Now you can enjoy longer service from your water heater . . . more economical operation with a minimum of maintenance.

ONLY FOWLER offers Heat-Weave with heating units in multiple which wrap around the tank for most efficient transfer of heat to water. Units operate independently, preventing complete heat failure or costly element replacement.

Heat-Weave is the greatest advancement in electric water heating elements since Fowler first introduced the safe, "black heat" clamp-on type element.

For the water heater with more firsts . . . more big features . . . more value for your money, buy FOWLER!

FOWLER

Glass-lined

WATER HEATER
WITH
HEAT-WEAVE

See FOWLER at your dealers
Or Contact

MIDLAND DISTRIBUTING CO.

Billings—Great Falls

Your SECOND Farm Home
Ten Ft. Wide
NEW MOON

There's vast spaciousness in this mobile home. It's two feet wider than ever before and the biggest buy on the market today!

ISEMAN CORPORATION
Billings, Mont. Great Falls, Mont.

Be sure to give both NEW and OLD postoffices when you change address.

Farming is a hazardous business. Guard carefully against accident but protect yourself from loss by taking out a Montana Farmer-Stockman SPECIAL ACCIDENT INSURANCE POLICY. Full information on request. Write Insurance Department, Montana Farmer-Stockman, Great Falls, Mont.

IN MINUTES...

from

FRUIT

to JAM or JELLY

with

PEN-JEL

NATURAL APPLE PECTIN