The story is told of a rather unimpressive congressman that he once declared in an address to the house, "As Daniel Webster says in his dictionary."

"It was Noah who wrote the dictionary," whispered a colleague who sat at the next desk.

"Noah nothing," replied the speaker "Noah built the ark."

SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

The Start of the Revolution

The difficulties between England and her American Colonies which led to the Revolutionary War and the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of which will be observed next year by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition at Philadelphia, can be traced back to 1733.

In that year the British Parliament passed the first of a series of Acts which so tried the patience of the colonists that they began thinking of separate political existence.

The first Act, passed in 1773, was known as the Molasses Act. It placed a tax of six pence a gallon on molasses. It was followed by the Sugar Act of 1764, placing a tax on sugar, and a year later by the Stamp Act, which ordered a duty on all legal documents, pamphlets, newspapers, advertisements and almanacs.

The Stamp Act was repealed in 1766, and in 1767 the passage of the Townshend Act placed a tax on tea, glass, paper and painters' materials. This Act particularly incensed the Colonies. It provided that some of the proceeds would pay the salaries of colonial governors and judges, and ordered the trial of cases growing out of collecting of revenue to be heard before judges without the presence of juries.

At this time Connecticut sent a representative to England to protest against "Taxation without Representation." Virginia passed a resolution against the Acts, and Patrick Henry delivered his famous speech, "Give me liberty or give me death."

The people of the Colonies suffered under these various forms of taxation, but boycotts against taxed articles became wide-spread. Then, on December 16, 1773, a party of men disguised as Indians boarded a British vessel in Boston harbor and emptied its cargo of tea into the bay. On October 16, 1773, Philadelphia had its own tea-party in the State House Square, at which strong resolutions were adopted, refusing to pay the tax on tea. At that meeting a committee was appointed to wait on Captain Ayers, of the ship "Polly," and instruct him not to attempt to land his cargo. It was on December 27 that the "Polly" arrived in the harbor and Captain Ayers was met by a crowd of eight thousand excited people. He was given to understand that he must take the ship back to England after one day's grace allowed him to obtain food and water.

Severe Earthquake In Alaska Follows Volcanic Eruption

Cordova, Alaska, Nov. 7.—A wireless message received here tonight reported that immediately following an eruption today of Mount Shishaldin on Umnak Island, 800 miles southeast of Cordova, in the Aleutian Islands, a severe earthquake was felt in the vicinity.

Dense clouds of smoke rolled from Shishaldin volcano.

The sky which was clear this morning, was smoky and dark by evening at Dutch Harbor on Unalaska Island, 100 miles west of Mount Shishaldin.

Museum of "Buffalo Bill" Relics May Be Located at Cody

Cody, Wyo.—Dedications are the order of the year in Cody. Two years ago the memorial to Col. William F. Cody was dedicated. Last year the new road and beautiful concrete bridge on the Cody Way to Yellowstone which eliminated fear from the wholesome thrills on this highway was dedicated. Next year it is expected a museum to house the relics and mementoes of the days of the great scout, "Buffalo Bill," will be erected and dedicated in time for the yearly tourist traffic.

An organization of the descendants and relatives of the late W. F. Cody has just been held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago and arrangement were made for this project. It may also be expected that the removal of the remains of Colonel Cody from Lookout Mountain in Colorado to Cedar Mountain near Cody will be urged in the near future.

Mrs. Mary Jester Allen, niece of Colonel Cody and a writer of prominence in New York who has a ranch at Cody, has been instrumental in having Cody chosen as the location for this museum.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO UNIVERSITY TO BE GIVEN DESERVING H. S. STUDENTS

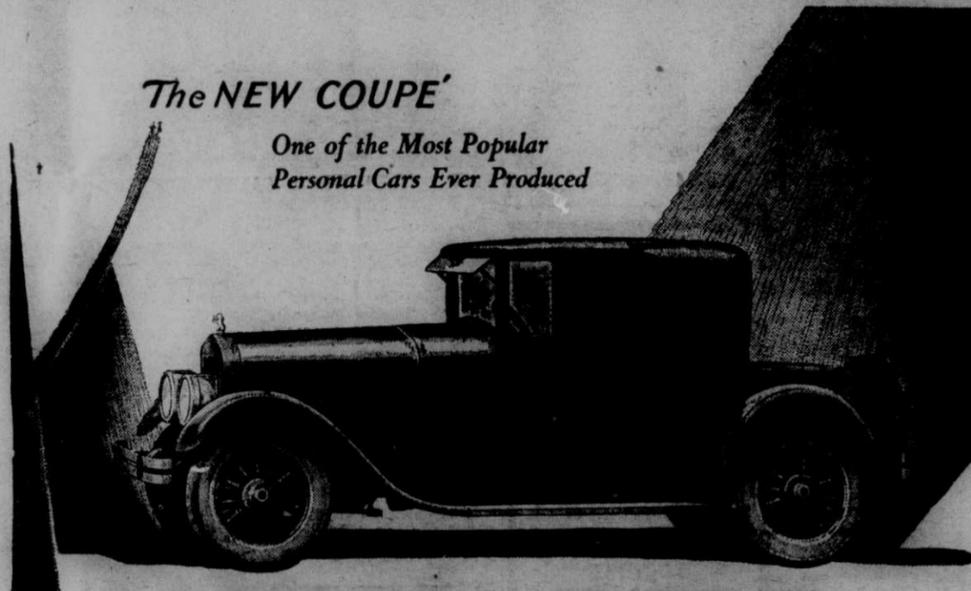

W. A. Clark, Jr., of Butte, has agreed to pay every year beginning the present term the tuition, board and room of five promising high school graduates who attend the State University of Montana. These scholarships are awarded by a committee composed of the university faculty and three others nominated by the president of the university and appointed by Mr. Clark. The scholarships are tenable for only one year and the holder is not eligible for a second year. The first holders of the Clark scholarships are Ralph Olson of Butte, Douglas Taylor of Hamilton, Lester Jones of Miles City, Lawrence Sweetman of Billings, and Clarence Hagen of Stevensville.

The scholars are chosen on the basis of all-around activity in the high school. Personal application is unnecessary although the committee of awards considers all such applications. Athletic coaches and high school principles suggest prominent and active high school students and from the information thus received the committee makes its selection.

In addition to athletic ability the candidate must give promise of being able to successfully carry university work. For this reason the committee has refused to consider men who graduate in the lowest third of their high school classes.

The scholarships cover only actual living expenses exclusive of clothes and student supplies. The tuition of the holders is paid directly to the university as well as the board and room of those who live in the university residence halls. Holders of scholarships living elsewhere are paid an amount equivalent to board and room at the men's dormitory.

The committee of award is composed of Dr. J. F. S. Marshall and H. L. Bickenbach of Missoula, Fred Furman of Butte, and President C. H. Clapp, Dean R. H. Jesse, and W. E. Schreiber of the university faculty.
