Pension Regulations Eased For Veterans

Veterans over 55 years of age who have non-service connected disabilities may now qualify for Veterans Administration pensions under recent regulation changes, the VA reports.

VA regulations now specify that a veteran, age 55, with a non-service connected disability rating of 60 percent for one or more disabilities permanent in nature, and who is unemployable, may be considered permanently and totally disabled for VA pension purposes. Previously, a disability rating of 60 percent for one permanent disability, or a combined rating of 70 percent with one or more ratable at 40 percent, was required.

At age 60, veterans may qualify for VA pensions if they have non-service connected disability rated 50 percent in degree and are unable to follow a substantially gainful occupation because of the disability? At age 65, the disability requirement is only 10 percent.

The VA emphasizes that the regulation change affects only pensions for non-service connected disabilities, as distinguished from the compensation paid for service-connected ailments.

Question of the Week

Q-Does the Veterans Administration provide flags to next of kin of deceased veterans?
A-Yes. Flags are issued by the VA to drape the casket of a deceased veteran and afterwards given to the next of kin.

New Insecticide

BHC, a new insecticide, has been found useful in treating farm animals for external parasites and is effective against such parasitic diseases as hog mange and sheep scab. However, complete and reliable data still is lacking as to the poisonous properties of BHC, and caution should be used in applying it on animals intended for human consumption, warns American Veterinary Medical Association.
