The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Flaget after which a bountiful lunch was served by the hostess and her daughter, Mrs. Gibson. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. D. I. Roberson.

The movie shown at the Parish house Thursday showing the effects of alcohol on the body was well attended by both young and old. Scripture verses, alcohol a cause of poverty, Prov. 31-4-7.

Old Timer's Picnic

Everyone is welcome at the Old Timers' picnic to be held on Sunday, August 21, at Spring Creek along the Eureka-Kalispell highway. Do you know?—How closely does the present highway follow the route of the old Kalispell-Fort Steele Trail—and the old Indian trail from Tobacco Valley to Flat-Head Valley? . . . What did John Mullen (of Mullen Road fame) say about this route when he came into Tobacco Valley in 1854? . . . What did one well-liquored gentleman say to his two almost-as-well-liquored companions who were struggling up a hill on the old Kalispell trail, carrying a bale of hay that had slid off the back of the wagon? To find out, read the forthcoming "Story of the Tobacco Plains Country." But you won't find out what Joe Peltier and his helpers said when they were maneuvering Tobacco Valley's first threshing machine over the old trail . . . because Joe won't repeat it! Full report on the publishing of the history book will be given at the picnic.

With all those who can offer rides to others in their cars please meet at the Montana Hotel at eleven o'clock on picnic day, to pick up passengers who have no other way of going.

Please bring to the picnic names and addresses of old-timers now living elsewhere, to whom advertising notices of the history book can be sent.

See you at Spring Creek.

Conservation Surveys Made

Evan Neilson, soil scientist from Kalispell, was in the Eureka area doing soil surveys last week. This work is the basis for conservation planning which will be done by Soil Conservation Service technicians working in cooperation with the Tobacco Valley Soil Conservation district. Soil surveys were completed on the Erick Lundeen, Carl Lundeen and George McCully farms.

After conservation plans are developed the Soil Conservation Service will render assistance in carrying out of conservation practices as requested by the operators.

My Trip to 4-H Conservation Camp

At Camp Maiden near Lewistown there were about two hundred 4-H boys and girls who had won this trip through a conservationist contest.

We were registered Monday, July 18 for the four day camp. The following day we went on a field trip. We learned how to survey ditches with a level and rod. That afternoon we learned how to survey a dam which was done by the same process as the ditches.

Wednesday was rainy so we had talks about conservation and enjoyed movies. Mr. Payne took us into the woods where he talked about grasses and range management.

That night we had a big party. At ten I left to catch the train for home.—Raymond Stirling.
