POLITICAL RALLY WAS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR
The political rally held at the Eureka Theatre on July 11th was judged a success both by the candidates and by those who attended. The meeting was of great value to voters and office-seekers alike. While some of the candidates were unable to attend, the majority turned out and gave very able talks in the time allotted, and there is no question that many gained additional votes by making their appearance at the meeting. While the theatre was filled almost to capacity, the influence of the meeting extended beyond the voters who were actually there, since those who attended have been telling friends and neighbors of their reactions.
The Eureka Study Club, which sponsored the meeting, wishes to thank the candidates and the public for their cooperation in making the evening an interesting and worth-while one. The Club also wishes to take this opportunity to thank publicly Mr. Frank Sabin for his generous donation of the theatre that evening and Mr. Wilfred Johnson, president of the Tobacco Valley Improvement Association, for acting as a very able chairman.

Rail Quiz

When was Standard Time adopted?

At noon November 18, 1883, more than 50 different "times" were abolished in the United States and railway clocks and watches all were set to Standard Time, or four standards of time (Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific, each one hour apart). Standard Time soon became general and later was adopted in other countries. It was sponsored and put into effect by the General Time Convention of Railway Managers, which later became the American Railway Association and then the Association of American Railroads.

HEALTH IS NOT A COMMODITY

The Citizens Medical Reference Bureau in a recent report declared that compulsory health insurance would result in medical control of the individual by the government.
"The practice of the healing art is not a commodity which can be bottled up at a fixed price per person," the report states. "What is meant to one person is poison to another."
"Any attempt by the government to establish and maintain a monopoly of the healing art by compelling all wage earners to contribute to the support of such a monopoly must inevitably stifle progress and foster a mediocre type of treatment."
"The labor difficulties experienced during the past year and the food crisis at home and abroad should serve as a reminder that the Federal government has its hands full to handle its own problems without endeavoring to take over the personal problems of the states and the individuals in the respective states."
It is possible to extend Federal assistance to the states in such matters as tuberculosis and venereal disease control and child welfare without establishing a medical dictatorship in the process. The very great progress made in voluntary health insurance in recent years points to the solution of medical care problems in the nation.
