SETTLEMENT OF PHONE TROUBLE IS NOW CERTAIN

Agreement Reached at Frisco. The Mediators Take Up Other Cases.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—An agreement averting spread of the telephone strike to California has been reached here through the president's mediation commission, it was said today by a mediator. Formal ratification of the compact was expected to follow immediately between representatives of organized electrical workers and operators and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

The agreement provides for a 12 1/2 per cent increase for electrical workers and operators receiving up to $50 a month; the company not to recognize the girl operators' union, but not to oppose further organization of their unions, it was said.

Working conditions and hours have been satisfactorily adjusted with proposed increase for operators receiving more than $50 a month to be left to future arbitration, according to the mediator.

STRIKE LEADERS FROM THE NORTH SUMMONED

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Telegrams have been sent to unions of telephone operators and electrical workers on strike in Seattle, Portland and other Pacific northwest cities by the president's mediation commission to send representatives here immediately to confer with the commission, which is seeking settlement of the wage controversy involving organized employees of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, it was officially announced.

These unions seceded from the Pacific district council of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and had refused to participate in conferences conducted by the commission since last Monday. Their spokesmen demanded that the commission conduct negotiations in Seattle, headquarters of the newly organized northwest conference of electrical workers.

Expect They Will Comply.

Felix Frankfurter, counsel for the mediation board, who sent the request, said he "believed the unions would comply."

Refusal of the company to recognize operators' unions in these cities and failure of previous mediation to effect settlement resulted in the strike in defiance of orders of brotherhood officials.

It was unofficially announced today by one of the employees' conferees that the commission has endorsed Federal Mediator Yerger K. Reed's recommendation that the company grant recognition to the girl operators, the basis on which negotiations previously attempted by Reed, a member of the president's commission, split.

The employees' demands also include increased wages and shorter hours. The company had agreed to half the wage increase asked. This was rejected on referendum vote.

Mr. Frankfurter announced today that "it was impossible to tell when an agreement would be reached."

Governor Ernest Lister of Washington, on a visit here, today telegraphed his personal representative in Olympia to urge union leaders to send representatives here to confer with the commission, it was announced.

Pressure of work, it was said, would prevent the commission from sitting in Seattle.

TWO ARE FOUND GUILTY IN THE COPPER CASES

To Butte by the defense, so the sudden close came as a surprise.

The Crime.

Jones and Williams were convicted of stealing copper from freight cars at Melstone, Mont., during the early months of this year. It was held that the men took the stolen copper to another empty freight car, there boxed it and reshipped it to Fargo, N. D., to a junk dealer. Williams followed the shipment, it was alleged, and was arrested in Milbank, S. D., when the theft was discovered and before the stolen shipment reached Fargo.

Discovered by Accident.

The theft of the copper was discovered by accident. The car containing the stolen copper was cut out of the train for repairs at Milbank, S. D. It was while the car was being repaired that Milwaukee special agents found the shipment of "motor parts" to be really a shipment of stolen copper and car brass. The guilt of Jones and Williams was traced through letters and books found in their possession and by letters from the Fargo Iron Works to the two men, the letters being addressed to J. M. Winston and Mike Corkin, two names that the government held were used by Williams and Jones as aliases.

Tracing Them Down.

The postmaster at Melstone stated that the men received the mail addressed in the names of Corkin and Winston. The shipment of stolen copper was made under the name of

 TWO REELS OF KEYSTONE GLEE

Concerning Miss Marguerite Clark Who Appears at the American Theater Starting Saturday in "Bab's Diary"

It has never been necessary for Marguerite Clark to make an appeal for popularity, either through publicity or otherwise. Her popularity has come because of her singularly appealing personality. People believe in her just the same as they did in Peter Pan's fairies, because everything she ever did was so real! Like many another photoplay star of today, she started her histrionic career on the stage, where she appeared in most every form of entertainment. She was a prime footlight favorite when motion pictures first ascended to the heights of popularity, and she became one of the pioneer exponents of the new silent art. Miss Clark is possibly the smallest matured star on the screen today, she standing less than the average "five-foot-three" of the American womanhood. She is more nearly the universal French size of "five-foot-one." In weight, too, she is under the standard American size, but oh what an abundance of ability and versatility does this little queen possess! She is undoubtedly one of the most petite and most winsome of stars, and she is abundantly blessed with histrionic technique comprehending with wonderful alertness every little "twist and turn" of characterization. Truly, Miss Clark does not have to depend on her cuteness to win her favor, because she has all the requisite artistry besides, and she knows how to act as few other artists do. Naturally Miss Clark is going to continue to be a universal favorite for a long time to come. Providence permitting, for she is still young.

D. J. DUGAN, Wade's only connection with the case was evidence that he cashed a check made out to J. M. Winston by the Fargo Iron Works. The court held that the cashing of the check may have been done innocently, and ordered the man declared not guilty because of lack of incriminating evidence.

The copper held stolen by the two men amounted in value to more than $3,000 and consists of 195 ingot bars. It was the property of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. and was billed to an Atlantic port for shipment to the British government. The stolen copper was identified as part of the shipment from the Blackeagle smelter.

Attorneys Donald Campbell of Forsyth and Carl Thompson of Roundup appeared for the defense. District Attorney Wheeler and Assistant District Attorney Baldwin appeared for the government.

DIRECTOR OF EXPLOSIVES FOR STATE TO BE CHOSEN

Appointment for Montana Will Be Made This Week—New Law in Effect.

The Post's Washington Bureau.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Secretary Lamm will this week select the state director of explosives for Montana. His selections are subject to ratification by the president but it is presumed no changes will be made in the list.

Under the war measure passed at the last session of congress, the state director of explosives will have charge of strict regulations for the manufacture, sale and use of explosives.

The explosives director of Montana will have a salary of $2,400 a year. The law became operative yesterday.

Under the new law, no explosive of any sort can be manufactured, sold, used or handled in this state without following the regulations of the new act, which are tended to provide for safety and for the prevention of mysterious explosions that have wrecked government war-order plants this year throughout the country.

There is no intimation as to the Montana man to be named by the secretary.
