COUNTY ATTORNEY SPEAKS BEFORE THE ALLIANCE

County Attorney Joseph R. Jackson delivered an address before the American Alliance for Liberty and Democracy Saturday evening, during which he declared that drastic measures should be taken against those who place any flag before the Stars and Stripes. He said that the American Alliance bill not have fulfilled its duty to this city until it has made this community safe for men who do not place the Stars and Stripes above any other emblem.

LET'S SPUDS ROT FORFEITS LICENSE

Food Administrator Hoover Brooks No Violation of Regulations.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Many big food dealers throughout the United States are in imminent danger of being put out of business by Food Administrator Hoover because they are violating the federal regulations under which they are licensed to operate. It was learned today. It was a gentle hint to these dealers, who do not think Hoover means business, that the food administrator revoked the license of the Morris Singer Commission company here for allowing two cartons of potatoes to rot on the track. The revocation order puts that firm completely out of business until such time as Hoover sees fit to grant it a new license.

The same fate and much harsher treatment, including judgments carrying heavy fines and two-year prison terms, hover near a number of marked food dealers in various parts of the country if they do not change their practices. It was authoritatively stated. To give the dealers plenty of warning, 15 of the worst offenders reported have been investigated by official agents of the food administration legal department. Each case was selected and handled on the basis of that selection would know exactly what had occurred. All were given a recital of their sins and a final warning.

have done and how we have done it must wait until it is permissible to spread them upon public record, this summary may be given to our people.

The Navy's Work.

"In the navy we have prepared for, and have met the duties of the present, and we are preparing for and are confident we will be able to meet and call for greater duties, for more exacting responsibilities. The best way to secure enduring peace is to prepare unceasingly, night and day, for the winning of the war, whether it be long or short. This we have done, this we are doing and this we will continue to do." For the coming year, Mr. Daniels proposes a naval budget of $1,039,660,562 which is not itemized in his report. In various ways, he says, it will be necessary to ask for additional funds as the session of congress proceeds. He points out, however, that appropriations for the last fiscal year totalled $1,542,732,579 for the navy and for a 12 month period $1,995,410,939. Congress provided liberally, he says, and legislated for the navy with vision and wisdom.

Navy's Expansion.

Striking figures contained in the report showing the war expansion of the navy include the following: Since Jan. 1, 1917, the naval force has increased from 4,500 officers and 68,000 men to 15,000 officers and 254,099 men; the number of stations of all kinds operated by the navy has increased from 130 to 363; the number of civil employes from 35,000 to 69,000; strength of the naval reserve from a few hundreds to 49,246 men; the average monthly expenditure from $8,900,000 to $60,000,000; the number of ships in commission from a little more than 200 to more than 1,000; the regular corps from 1,600 to 7,800; the national naval volunteers from zero to 156,000 men; the marine corps from 344 officers and 9,221 men to 1,197 officers and 50,969 men. In addition to this and to the vast orders for material placed, the expansion of the navy and the many wholly new activities developing from war conditions, training facilities have been provided for 113,550 men exclusive of the Naval academy and other regular service schools.

Confidential Work.

For the first time, the secretary does not make public the report of the general board of the navy. His synopsis and to the vast orders for material placed, the expansion of the navy and the many wholly new activities developing from war conditions, training facilities have been provided for 113,550 men exclusive of the Naval academy and other regular service schools.

Promotion by Merit.

Mr. Daniels again emphasizes his feeling that promotion should be made on the basis of merit throughout the navy and that the "fetish" of seniority be abandoned. He recommends that the selective system now be extended to the staff as well as the line. He also expresses the conviction that every candidate for admission to the Naval academy should be compelled to serve a year before entering the school. The report declares that the interchanges between the naval services of the allied powers and the navy have been "particularly frank and free," adding that this partnership of democratic nations will yet "insure a

ANNOYING SYMPTOMS

How Heat Flashes, Dizzy Spells and other Bad Feelings at Change of Life may be Relieved.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2512 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dizziness, impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness.

lasting peace." It says that when the call came the navy supplied gunners and guns for merchant craft without an hour's delay.

The report touches on the various naval conferences attended by American officers but adds nothing to what is known of the questions taken up or decisions reached. Throughout the lengthy document the secretary is careful to avoid any statement that might be of service to an enemy.

The secretary pays tribute to the marine corps which has lived up to its best traditions, he says, as will be shown when the war is over. The marine regiment in France, he says, will soon be considerably augmented in its service with General Pershing's army.

Development of naval aircraft has been remarkable, the secretary says, due largely to the success of the Liberty motor.

A Flying Boat.

"It may be stated with confidence," he says, "that at the present moment we have an American flying boat actually flying with an American engine which is unexcelled by any foreign craft of the type."

The secretary discloses the fact that American coast patrol stations have been authorized abroad and will be in operation next year, but gives no details. In conclusion, Mr. Daniels pictures the possibility of an international navy to keep the world peace. Such an agreement cannot be cherished now, he says, but all the world is at war.

An International Navy.

Each naval power should assign units to the international force in proportion to its wealth and population, the secretary suggests, adding: "To such a police of the sea this country will be ready to make full contribution, and to that end the expansion that now crowds all the old and new shipbuilding resources will soon place this country in a position to furnish as many and as powerful ships as will come from any other country. It would be a lasting calamity if, when the war ends, there should linger as a burden upon a people, already heavily taxed by war, a competitive program of costly naval construction. This country will, no doubt, take its proper place in bringing about such provisions in the peace treaties as will never again constrain any nation to adapt its naval program to the program of some other nation from which it is the compelling menace of possible and unprovoked attack. Such compulsion, is the very negative of natural and orderly naval development. It means the curbing rather than the free choice of standard suggested by the compelling needs and supported by national ideals. An international navy, on the contrary, will make possible such naval development as each nation deems fitting for its own people. It will also serve the partnership of man" by providing a naval force amply enough to give validity to international decrees and strong enough to keep inviolate the peace of the world."

TARIFF BOARD TO ADVISE CONGRESS

Commission Studies Commercial Treaties and Economic Alliances.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Entrance of the United States into the European war has brought the activities of the United States tariff commission into closer relation to war problems and conditions. Both our allies and our enemies are considering the possibility of commercial warfare, commercial neutrality and commercial alliance. The central powers are considering the arrangement of an economic union for central Europe. Imperial preference has been actively discussed in England and in her self-governing colonies. Far-reaching possibilities are suggested by the resumption of the Paris economic conference which met in June, 1916, and which provided for a differential treatment between allied countries, neutral countries and enemy countries. In the act creating the tariff commission, the commission was specifically empowered to investigate this Paris economic pact and similar organizations and arrangements in Europe. The commission is preparing an extensive report on bargaining tariffs, commercial treaties and economic alliances. The United States has never had a consistent policy with reference to bargaining tariffs, where the countries of Europe have worked out several different systems. The tariff commission's report will provide the facts upon which congress may find a method for using the bargaining power in American tariffs, and also upon which American commercial treaties may be adjusted to meet the conditions of the modern world. In all that it has undertaken the commission is working in harmony with other departments of the government, thereby avoiding duplication of effort.

CABARET PATRONS TO HELP PAY WAR BILLS

Treasury Department Will Announce Tax Plan Within Coming Week.

The war tax has hit the cabarets and within the next week the United States treasury department will announce the plan whereby patrons of such places are to pay war revenue. Concerning the tax the revenue department has issued the following warning:

"Diners at cabarets will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that they are contributing toward the support of the boys in the trenches. Rules governing the collection of war revenue tax on cabaret admission probably will be issued by the treasury department next week.

Regarding 20 per cent of the bill for refreshments as the cost of admission, where no admission fee is charged, the proposed tax is 1 cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof of such 20 per cent of the total charge. If, for instance, the check handed to you by the waiter is for $5, you will find at the bottom an additional 10 cents for war revenues.

"The term 'cabaret' is held to include every hotel, restaurant, bar or other public place at or in which, in connection with the service, or sale of food or other refreshments or merchandise, there is conducted any vaudeville, or other performance, or diversion in the way of acting, singing, declamation or dancing, either with or without instrumental or other music."

"Where there is only instrumental music by an orchestra, as in the case of many hotels, the tax does not apply. It does apply, however, if dancing is permitted.

"The tax is paid by the person paying for the refreshment. "The proposed rules require every person, corporation, partnership or association conducting any public performance for profit at any cabaret, or other similar establishment, to file with the collector of taxes in the district in which the cabaret is located on or before the tenth of each month, beginning with December, a return, under oath in duplicate, of the amount of tax collected during the preceding month."

DRASTIC ACTION BY FEDERAL TRADE BOARD

Washington, Dec. 10.—The first summary complaint ever issued by the federal trade commission was entered today against the Chicago Line-Tabler company, which was ordered to appear here Feb. 4 and answer charges of having violated a voluntary agreement to cease alleged unfair trade practices. Summary issuance of the complaint constitutes a precedent for drastic action by the commission.

Penny Pinching Not Always True Economy

I have learned that the intelligent housewife—the woman schooled in really scientific domestic economy—no longer throws away a nickel to save a penny.

A good way to illustrate this point would be through comparison of baking powders.

Experience has taught me—and millions of other women that it doesn't pay to buy cheap baking powders. They cost a few cents less, but in the long run they are decidedly the most expensive. Because of the low grade materials employed in their manufacture they cause many bake day failures—and great loss of expensive ingredients. The housewife throws out, in wasted materials many times the amount saved on the cost of the baking powder. This is not economy, but extravagance.

True economy in baking powder demands the highest quality at the lowest price. Only baking powders that meet these demands should be used. Only baking powder that is made of the highest class ingredients so perfectly proportioned that it not only produces maximum leavening power but also preserves it.

Besides, the baking powder that meets the modern demand for economy should be economical in use—full strength—economical in cost—secured at a moderate price. The housewife should be able to effect a saving when buying—and another saving when using—and she should save materials it is used with.

That is economy in its highest form. Complete economy. The only kind of economy the housewife should attempt.

I have proved positively by exhaustive experiments and comparative tests that Calumet Baking Powder is best suited to these savings. It possesses the surety, the purity and goodness that make constant employment of utmost baking economy possible.
