Heaven Knows.

December 3. — The coroner's committee has just completed its investigations and presented his report on the shooting of Wells, Nevada, on one Christmas morning. It appears that there is nothing in the evidence to support the statement that the murder was committed by some one of the members of the Wells family, or that any of their relatives were concerned. The coroner's verdict is that the murder was committed by a third person, and that the evidence does not warrant an accusation against any of the members of the Wells family, or any of their relatives.
