"The Newlyweds."

Leo Hayes and Virginia Braun impersonate "The Newlyweds" in the "Newlyweds and Their Baby", which comes to the Keith Theatre next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Hayes has succeeded beyond all expectations in making up a face naturally human in its aspect so as to resemble the classic of the McManus hero. His song, "Jig Along Mr. Jigger," in which the eight Pouter Pigeons" assist, is one of the most novel song numbers introduced for many a day. The Nurse, in the person of Beatrice Flint, and the Sister impersonated by Eualalie Young, furnish most the feminine fun. Each has a striking song number and in her own ways succeeds in delighting the audience.

An original line of comedy is contributed by D. L. Don, as a bibulous German waiter, one of the sensations of the season.

The feminine contingent is fresh and fair to look upon and is carefully assorted as to sizes. The chubby cherubs, termed "The Eight Pigeons", who make up the infant class are certainly "cute" no other adjective will suffice to describe them. The customes devised for the chorus are brilliant and fetching, while the scenes are ingeniously novel and beautiful. The company numbers 60½ people, the half of course being the baby.
