Mrs. McGinley's Tip to Mrs. Fitzpatrick

Mrs. McGinley.—You always was a kind neighbor. Mrs. Fitzpatrick indeed, so now let me tell you my experience of my Xmas shopping where by you will save a good many dollars on your Xmas gifts as well as I did. Yesterday while I was down town I walked into one of the stores just to look around, did not intend to buy a blessed thing when I first stepped into the store, but let me tell you there was so many useful gifts on display and on SALE now marked down so reasonable that I just could not resist the temptation and bought all I need and I am well pleased and satisfied that I saved just about half the price that I spent for my Xmas gifts a year ago this time.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick—Why, Mrs. McGinley, whose store was it, did you say where you done so well?

Mrs. McGinley—Why you may know at BLOCK'S of course!

Mrs. Ida Walker Dies.

Mrs. Ida Walker, wife of George A. Walker, 408 South Walnut street, died Sunday afternoon at one-thirty at her home. Deceased was forty-nine years, two months and six days old at the time of her death which was due to tuberculosis from which she had been suffering for over twelve years.

Rachel Ida Kinkaid was born in Clarinda, Ia., October 14, 1865. She moved with her parents to Davenport, Nebraska where she was married to George A. Walker in 1884. To this union were born three children none of whom are now living.

In 1890 Mr and Mrs. Walker moved to Lincoln county where they lived on a farm until six years ago when they moved into this city. Twelve years ago she was stricken with the white plague and it gradually sapped her life away. During all these years of suffering she has been kind and gentle and bore up well, remembering always her duties to her Lord and to her fellow beings. On August 2nd last she was taken to her bed and she had been confined there since that time. All her life she was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church and as long as her health permitted she was an ardent worker in that church. She has a large number of friends in this city who will be sorrowed by the news of her demise. She was also a member of the Maccabees.

The funeral was held from the home yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. J. C. Christie officiating. It was largely attended and the floral tributes were profuse and beautiful, a tribute of the esteem in which she was held by her friends. The remains were shipped from here to Davenport for burial.

Dies as Result of Exposure.

As result of exposure while lying in a haystack in the Hershey vicinity Tom Bighiri died yesterday morning about seven o'clock at the home of Mrs. Emma Pulver. He had been confined there for six weeks with paralysis which finally killed him.

It is related that he leaves a wife and three children in Russian Poland. He came here a few years ago, as near as can be ascertained to seek his fortune. He speaks very little English and got along poorly.

After coming to this country he was stricken with tuberculosis and was attempting to get home when he lodged in the hay stack on account of trouble in his feet which proved to be rheumatism and later developed into paralysis causing his death. He was positively destitute of money and the body was turned over to the coroner for burial.

Bighiri was found in the haystack about six weeks ago by Sheriff Salisbury and Mayor Evans and brought to this city. He is a man of about forty years of age. At the time he was found he complained of being "sick in the feet." He was taken to Mrs. Pulver's residence where he was kept until he died.

CLINTON, THE JEWELER.

The case of Schlimmer & Thomas, a co-partnership, vs. P. K. Huffman was argued by the attorneys yesterday morning in the district court and was taken under advisement by the court. This suit was in the county court about a year ago under the name of Schlimmer & Thomas vs. P. K. Huffman and Clay Robinson and involves about three thousand dollars worth of cattle. At that time a verdict was given by a jury for the defendants and the same case was brought against Huffman. The attorneys for the defendant attempted to prove, a judicata.

Brazil's Name.

Long before the Portuguese colonized the coast of Brazil adventurous Bristol merchants had equipped expeditions in a vain search for the supposed island of Brasylla. Who gave Brazil her present name is unknown to fame—the early Portuguese called it Terra da Vera Cruz—but whoever baptized the country took the name from the East Indies. For many years before the discovery of Brazil merchants had brought from the east for the use of dyers a wood which yielded a beautiful red color—brasil or brasilly. The West Indies have trees of the same sort, but Brazil contains them in more abundance than any other country. So that Brazil wood is not called so after the country. The country is named so because of its red dye trees.—London Chronicle.

Travels of Roots.

Roots travel amazing distances in search of their requirements. A timber merchant, excavating for a sewer in England, found an elm root one and a quarter inches in diameter and sixty-three feet long, running through a bed of sawdust from the tree to the nearest water.

The aggregate length of root thrown out by some plants is almost incredible. A cucumber will, within its short life of about half a year, throw out from ten to fifteen miles of roots.

Clover roots will go straight down to a depth of six to nine feet in search of moisture, and coltsfoot, one of the most powerful and persistent of weeds, sends its suckers down to an even greater depth.—London Stray Stories.

Lost the Point.

The Teacher—Now, children, listen to this. Thomas Campbell, the famous poet, once walked six miles to a printing office to have a comma in one of his poems changed to a semi-colon. Why did he take all that trouble? Bright Boy—'Cause he didn't have no telephone.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Miss Mabel Denter left yesterday for the eastern part of the state where she will visit relatives for some time. She was formerly a nurse at the P. & S. hospital.
