MAYOR OF SEATTLE FAILS TO SUSPEND LOCAL NEWSPAPER

Publisher of Times Secures Injunction and City Edition Comes Out on Schedule.

GUARD AT PLANT WITHDRAWN

Incendiary Articles Printed in Journal, as Alleged.

RULING OF JUDGE OBEYED

Executive Says City Would Do So, but Under Protest.

SALOONS OPEN, DESPITE UKASE

Officials Enjoined from Shutting Down Fourteen Prominent Bars, and Thirst Joints Run as Usual.

SEATTLE, July 20.—The day passed without disorder in the downtown streets of Seattle, which Saturday night were filled with rioting naval men and civilians intent upon the destruction of Industrial Workers of the World and socialist meeting places, and as night drew near the police felt hopeful of maintaining the peace, although Judge Humphries of the superior court had set aside Mayor Cotterill's order closing the saloons. There was much patronage of the saloons during the afternoon and night, and the police looked on this as the feature of danger.

Public interest, after the debris of the socialist and industrial work wreckage had been swept away, centered in the unsuccessful effort of Mayor Cotterill to prevent the publication of the Seattle Times, the mayor alleging that incendiary articles in the Times were responsible for the night's rioting.

Paper Comes Out.

Judge Humphries came to the rescue of the Times with an injunction and the city edition of the paper came out on time at 7 o'clock when the police guard which had been put over the mailing room was withdrawn.

When the restraining order was served on Mayor Cotterill and Chief of Police Bannick, they appeared before Judge Humphries with Assistant Corporation Counsel Ralph Florsheim and protested against the issuance of separate restraining orders, contending that the city was entitled to notice and opportunity to defend the action.

They asked that the court hear them in opposition to the orders and were refused by the court. The mayor then announced that the city would obey the court's order, though under protest, and Chief of Police Bannick telephoned to Department Dolbier, who was in charge of the guard at the Times plant, to release papers which were already in the hands of newboys held under police guard in the mailing room.

The attorneys who obtained the restraining order for the Times were followed by a delegation of lawyers representing saloon keepers, who obtained orders restraining the police from closing fourteen prominent bars in the city. During the remainder of the afternoon Judge Humphries remained in his court room granting restraining orders, and by evening all the saloons were doing business as usual.

Real Sea Lion is Taken in Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 20.—Cambridge had a real sea lion hunt last night. The animal came up out of the Charles river basin and invaded East Cambridge street, where it flooded about, barking loudly, and frightening a crowd which retreated before it. Attracted by the light of a store, it leaped four feet through the window, smashing the heavy plate glass.

A small squad of police reserves tried to confine it in a packing box and in a big sheet of canvas, but it swam one and ate its way through the other. Finally men from the Boston aquarium lassoed it and sent it to that institution.

There it was said to be a good specimen of a California sea lion about three years old and weighing more than 200 pounds.

Balkan War May Be Boon to Pie Hunters

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, heading an Illinois delegation, today asked Secretary Bryan to appoint Charles J. Vopicka of Chicago minister to Rumania, Serbia and Bulgaria. In view of the hostilities existing among the Balkan states it has been suggested that it may not be possible to accredit one minister to all three as has been the custom.

COLD STORAGE LAW IN EFFECT

Proprietors of Cold Storage Plants Endeavor to Comply with Change.

TAKING OUT STATE LICENSE

New Law Puts Heavy Penalty on Those Who Do Not Comply with Its Provisions to Safeguard the Public.

Although the cold storage people did not like the cold storage law passed by the legislature last winter, they have thus far been complying with the immediate requirements of the law in that they have been busy getting their licenses from the food, drug and dairy commissioner of the state. License cost them $5 a year. Henceforth they may not hold turkey in cold storage eleven years and then offer the bird for sale for a tempting Thanksgiving dinner. Henceforth they will not be allowed to keep produce in unsanitary cold storage rooms.

Beginning last week when the new law went into effect it is no longer permissible to store in the cold storage rooms any article not intended for human consumption. This is intended to prevent contamination of foodstuffs by odors of any matter that might be offensive.

Must Make Reports.

The new law provides that the storage people make quarterly reports to the food commissioner as to the amount of produce in storage at their plant, the condition it is in, and the length of time it has been in storage. This will enable the food commissioner to keep some tab on the condition of the foodstuffs that will be likely to be offered for sale to the public. The commissioner will also make inspections of the plants.

Another interesting feature of the law is that it will be possible every three months to tell how much of foodstuff is being held in cold storage. This is a phase of the cold storage business that has been neglected in the past and the fact that the public never knew how much butter and eggs were stored at any one time has in the past caused much conjecture as to the possibility of some influence being brought to bear by the storage houses in an effort to boost the price of eggs or other commodities.

The quarterly reports will show whether or not millions of dollars of eggs are being held off the market when the price of eggs is so high as to be almost prohibitive.

Dates Are Stamped.

A careful system of labeling is now installed in the cold storage plants to comply with the new law. The receptacles containing the articles stored are marked with serial numbers and each container is dated with the true date of entry and withdrawal from cold storage. No article may be held in cold storage more than twelve months unless by special consent of the food commissioner for good reasons.

Cold storage products may no longer be offered for sale on the market without the buyer being apprised of the fact that it is a cold storage product. It is also a misdemeanor for any man to represent as fresh to a customer any article that has been in cold storage. An article once held in cold storage for a time and then placed on the market for sale cannot again be placed in cold storage if it is not sold.

The first offense for a violation of any of the provisions of the law will cost the offender $500. The second may cost him $1,000 and even a jail sentence.

Carries Person He Gave Bond for Into Court Over Shoulder

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Martin T. Clinkscale, an attorney, sat in his cell in the district jail today convinced that he was the worst treated practitioner who ever appeared before the local courts. His last appearance, incidentally, was dramatic and uncomfortable in the extreme. As the result of it he is waiting for some friend with a $1,000 bail bond.

Clinkscale already was under bond for $500 in one case when he was indicted in a second case on a charge of embezzlement. His surety in the first case, Frank Johnson, learned of the second indictment and started on a hunt for him. The two men met in the corridors of the city hall. Heated language was followed by blows and Johnson, a big man, threw the lawyer over his shoulders and carried him into the criminal court, where Justice Gould was hearing an important case.

"I just thought I'd tote him in, judge," said Johnson as he deposited his indignant and ruffled burden none too gently before the bar.

Justice Gould demanded a $1,000 bail bond, which Clinkscale could not produce.

Norris in New Move to Beat Coffee Trust

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Norris has taken a new tack in his program of dissolving the coffee trust and has adopted a method similar to that chosen by Senator Hitchcock in his attack on the tobacco trust. Senator Norris has introduced an amendment to the tariff bill giving the president the right to impose an ad valorem tax of 25 per cent against the product of any country which is a party to a conspiracy to monopolize that product as it is alleged Brazil has done with its coffee crop.

Henceforth Senator Norris has been trying to have the senate investigate the disloyalty of the government but against Brazilian monopolists in the coffee trade believing that if all the facts were known deception would be discovered and that the parties to the transaction would be subject to legal proceedings.

Although the senator has not fully given up that idea, it will be held in abeyance for a trial of his new plan.

LOBBY COMMITTEE RESTS; MULHALL IS OUT OF TOWN

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The senate lobby committee rested Sunday with less than one-third of Martin M. Mulhall's correspondence thus far identified. Mulhall had left the city to return for the reopening of the hearings Monday.

DROPS TO HIS DEATH FROM AN AEROPLANE

Parachute Jumper Drowns in Puget Sound While Making Descent at Seattle Celebration.

FALL OF SIX HUNDRED FEET

PARACHUTE OPENS PRETTILY

SNAP BREAKS; HE LETS GO

Rolls Himself Into a Compact Ball as He Approaches Water, Striking on His Face and Left Shoulder.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—Francis L. Thayer, aged 47 years, a parachute jumper, known throughout the west, was drowned here today while making a parachute descent from an aeroplane as part of the Golden Potlach celebration air sports.

Thayer went up in an aeroplane with Johnny Bryant. At a height of 900 feet he dropped from the aeroplane, his parachute spreading above him and the descent began. Almost immediately Thayer broke loose from the parachute, falling into Puget sound.

Thayer did not rise to the surface after plunging into the water. He had been giving parachute exhibitions twenty-five years. He called Chicago his home.

Parachute Opens Prettily.
Bryant, with Thayer hanging to his parachute beneath the aeroplane, had made a pretty flight of ten minutes over the sound, circling above the warships of the Pacific reserve fleet before Thayer signalled that he was ready to let go. The parachute, with Thayer hanging to the iron ring at the end of the ropes, opened prettily and for a minute it looked as if the drop was to be a perfect exhibition. Then Thayer was seen to let his body turn over as he left the parachute. He rolled himself into a compact ball as he approached the water, striking on his face and left shoulder.

Mrs. Thayer was in a launch, which was to have picked Thayer up. It made with all speed toward the spot where he went down, but his body did not reappear.

Thayer rode the parachute with one leg through a loose rope and one wrist fastened with a strong strap and iron snap to the parachute ring. Examination of the parachute after the accident showed that this snap had broken when the parachute jerked as it opened.

This was the first time Thayer had ever made a leap from an aeroplane.

Trial of Mrs. Eaton for Spouse's Murder is Set for October

GREENFIELD, Mass., July 20.—Chief Justice Albone has ordered that the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, be called at Plymouth on October 11.

Mrs. Eaton was arrested twelve days after the admiral died from poisoning at their home in Assinippi on March 8. Arrangements for the trial were made at a conference which District Attorney A. F. Barker and William A. Morse, the latter chief counsel for Mrs. Eaton, had with the chief justice.

Mrs. Eaton is accused of having placed poison in coffee and other food prepared for the admiral. A post mortem examination revealed the presence of a deadly drug in the stomach, but so far as known the authorities have never been able to trace the purchase of the poison.

The question of Mrs. Eaton's sanity has been raised and after her indictment District Attorney Barker announced that he would ask that this point be determined by a medical commission. No action in the matter has been taken by the courts.

Fireworks Plant Goes Up in Blast; Man Blown a Mile

WINCHESTER, Mass., July 20.—The factory of the New England Fireworks company went up in a puff of smoke, the result of an explosion late today, carrying with it Manager Ernest Borell and three workmen.

Borell was thought to have been killed when portions of his clothing, his eye glass case and some coils were found in the vicinity. But a searching party late tonight discovered him in a clump of bushes a mile from the scene of the explosion unable to remember what had happened. He was taken to the hospital.

Debris was scattered for several miles and the detonation was felt for a great distance. The building was of flimsy construction and the monetary loss was not great.

The men were packing rockets when the explosion occurred. Just what caused it is not known.

CALIFORNIA JAPS SEEK TO BE AUTO DRIVERS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 20.—Japanese in California are turning their attention to a new field of endeavor. In the last month more than fifty chauffeurs' licenses have been issued to them from the office of the secretary of state, where it is noted that heretofore the number of Japanese applying for such licenses has been insignificant.

AMERICANS ARE IN DANGER

Armed Bandits Threaten Lives of Those in Lumber Camp.

BUTCHER LOSES ONE OF EARS

Trevino Travels Over Northern Mexico Trying to Gain Rebel Chiefs' Support in Campaign for Presidency.

EL PASO, Tex., July 20.—Armed Mexican bandits, headed by El Mocho Martinez, who were repulsed with the loss of nine men by American cowboys on the Baboosa ranch of William B. Travis near Madera, Chihuahua, two weeks ago, now threaten the lives of the few Americans remaining in the Madera lumber camp according to information brought here by an American cattleman from western Chihuahua.

All foreigners and Mexicans in Madera have armed themselves in anticipation of an attack. Martinez is said to be the man who took the initiative in the mortuary of Juarez federal garriton in January, 1912, which was the beginning of the Orozco rebellion.

Butcher Loses Ear.
John Parks, an American butcher of Madera, was slashed across the face with a sword by "El Mocho" and lost one ear a few days ago, when Martinez's band held him up for money at his slaughter house, five miles from the lumber town.

According to C. S. Smith, partner of Ben Griffin, the American rancher who was killed by El Mocho's band on July 5, near the Mormon town of Chichupia, the taking of Griffin's life was deliberate. The two Americans were ranchers. They were stripped of everything they owned, including poultry and the seed for their planting. Griffin was shot by a firing squad, Smith says, after the bandits had failed to get money from him.

Smith reached El Paso today in a pitiable condition, having walked most of the distance from Madera.

Aspires to Presidency.
DOUGLASS, Ariz., July 20.—General Germino Trevino is the latest aspirant to the presidency of Mexico, according to an announcement made today at the constitutional junta here. Members of the junta said they had received this information in confidential advices direct from their secret service men.

It was stated that General Trevino is making a trip through the northern part of Mexico in an effort to gain the confidence and support of rebel leaders before proclaiming himself president of Mexico to supersede Provisional President Huerta and thwart the aspirations of Governor Carranza.

Bryan Meets Senators.
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Secretary Bryan had an executive conference with the senate foreign relations committee at the capitol today and while the Mexican situation was touched upon, it was said the primary object of the meeting was to consider renewals of arbitration treaties with Great Britain, France and other countries.

Senator Fall, who has been a critic of the government's Mexican policy, sprung a mild sensation in the senate by asking the adoption of a resolution defining a policy of the government regarding foreign relations. It said every American citizen and his property everywhere must be protected by the United States.

The resolution went over because of objections by Senator Kern and other democrats.

NICARAGUA UNDER U. S. WING

Bryan Outlines New Policy Toward Central American State.

REVISION OF TAFT TREATY

This Country Given Exclusive Canal Rights Across Republic and New Naval Base in Trade for Three Millions.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A new policy toward Nicaragua, involving the virtual control of the affairs of that republic by the United States protectorate, similar to that now exercised over Cuba, was outlined yesterday by Secretary Bryan at a conference with members of the senate foreign relations committee.

Mr. Bryan's proposal, coming as a surprise to most of the members of the committee, has been taken by many senators as the first pronouncement of a general policy on the part of the administration to extend American control over the countries surrounding the Panama canal to assure the stability of Central American republics and the domination by the United States of their relations with other great powers.

Secretary Bryan went before the committee with a revised draft of the proposed Nicaraguan treaty, introduced first in the Taft administration, by which the United States would secure exclusive canal rights across Nicaragua and a new naval base in exchange for a $3,000,000 gold payment.

As a new feature of the treaty, however, the secretary of state proposed that language similar, if not identical with the so-called "Platt amendment," relating to Cuba, be injected into the treaty, giving the United States sweeping control of Nicaraguan affairs and the power to regulate foreign relations and its finances.

CHAMPION GIRL BREAD MAKER GIVEN INDIAN NAME

SHENANDOAH, Ia., July 20.—(Special.)—Miss Lois Edmonds of Clarinda, received a unique honor Wednesday evening. Miss Edmonds, 12 years old, won the state championship in bread-making a year ago, and as reward was given a free trip to Washington to call on President Taft. Miss Edmonds is one of five small guests at a chautauqua house party given by Mrs. Fred Fischer of Shenandoah this week. When Ernest Thompson Beton, the famous naturalist and author, spoke at the chautauqua Wednesday he met Miss Lois, and proposed an Indian council in her honor.

The party gathered after the evening program in a dark wood, a camp fire was lit, Indian fashion, without the use of matches, and after elaborate ceremonial rites, Mr. Beton christened the little miss "Pepushigan," which means "magic bread maker." All her past names were written with a brand of a chip and thrown into the fire to go up in smoke, signifying that only her new name is to be remembered.

The ceremony concluded with Indian dances and songs, led by the famous author and Miss Talcott, who has charge of the folk dances at the chautauqua. The weird yelps emitted during the ceremony terrified the residents near the program till they were on the point of appealing to the police for protection.

WORLDWIDE HEALTH CAMPAIGN PLANNED WITH OIL MILLIONS

International Work Referred to by Ambassador Page to Be Conducted by Foundation.

ADMITTED BY STARR J. MURPHY

No New Gift of $100,000,000, as Had Been Reported.

STUDY OF HOOKWORM FIRST

Disease to Be Investigated Throughout the World.

MOVEMENT TO BE UNIVERSAL

This Probably Would Be Followed by Probe Into Other Conditions Along the Same Line.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The international health campaign referred to by Ambassador Page in a recent speech in England is to be conducted by the Rockefeller foundation.

This was admitted today by Starr J. Murphy, who has charge of the charities of John D. Rockefeller, Mr. Murphy said that there was no new gift of $100,000,000 involved in the campaign as reported and explained that Ambassador Page in referring to that sum probably had in mind the fact that Mr. Rockefeller had donated the income of $100,000,000 to the Rockefeller foundation at the time it was incorporated.

The foundation, Mr. Murphy explained, planned specifically to make a study of the hook worm disease throughout the world similar to that already instituted in the United States. This would probably be followed, he said, by investigation into other health conditions.

Biennial Election Taken to Court for Opinion on New Law

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, July 20.—(Special Telegram.)—The biennial election law is the next one that will have to be tested in the courts, action having been started in Lancaster county district court today to compel County Treasurer Sommerlad to accept a $5 filing fee from Louis Fulhaber, who wants to run for sheriff on the democratic ticket this fall.

This is the last day on which filings for a primary election could be made, as under the old law the primary would have to be held August 19 and the law requires filings twenty days before the primary. If the court should decide in favor of Fulhaber he would be the only man filing for the primaries in the time allowed.

Judge Stewart issued an alternative writ of mandamus directing the treasurer and clerk to show cause why they should not accept the filing fee. The case will be heard at once.

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—That his wife has refused to bear his name, has attempted to appear as a single woman and introduced him to her friends as her nephew and has given two sons by a former marriage, four nephews, a niece, a grandniece and three unrelated persons a higher education at his expense—these are among the allegations made by James E. Ellis, a locomotive engineer of Kansas City, Kan., in a divorce suit filed yesterday in the Wyandotte county court against Mrs. Emma A. Ellis, a high school teacher of Parsons, Kan.

Moreover, the petitioner states, Mrs. Ellis has refused to mend, darn, cook or wash for him and has made his home "absolutely cold." It is alleged she has "absolutely cold." It is alleged she has changed the name of her former husband and appeared as Mrs. Emma A. Sackett.
