RAIN HINDERS AND HELPS

Makes Trouble for Railroads, but Quenches Ferest Firez.

FRESHENS RANGES, ASSURING GRAZING

of Union Pacific and Burlington, Causing Some Delay of Traffic.

LINCOLN, Sept. 21 .- (Special Telegram.) -Traffic on both the Colorado and Montana lines of the Burlington has been practically at a standstill today. A sudden freshet last night in a stream flowing into the Republican river near Trenton, washed away a bridge and several rods of roadbed, blocking the main line to Colorado, twenty four hours before the damage was mended. Trains were sent by a circuitous route, via Brush and Holyoke, Colo., causing twelve hours delay.

Trains from Montana are reported thirty hours late due to a wreck on the Northern Pacific west of the Burlington connection at Billings. All passenger trains out of Billings today were annulled.

DENVER, Sept. 21.-Reports of Interruption to rallroad traffic, due to washouts, are being received at railroad headquarters in this city. A washout on the Union Pacific delayed traffic / both ways several hours. The tracks of the Burlington near Juleaburg, Colo., are submerged for a distance of 2,000 feet, necessitating the use of the Union tracks in that neighborhood. Nearly every line of railroad in eastern Colorado is experiencing difficulty in operating trains because of washouts or weakened roadbeds. No trains on the Colorado & Southern have been running afternoon drive. Captain Guyman, in police to Boulder today. Several washouts are uniform, had the reins, and as the presireported between Denver and Boulder on that line.

Continuous rainfall over the entire Montana to New Mexico has saved late rang with cheers as the horses started up water. The ranges have been freshened so that grasing will be good during the early winter. Forcet fires that have raged city. This was followed to its intersection for a month have been quenched.

ENCAMPMENT, Wyo., Sept. 21.—Heavy rain has extinguished the forest fires to southern Wyoming and northern Colorado.

Refuses to Remit Taxes.

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 21 .- (Special.) --The county board yesterday afternoon passed a resolution refusing to consider any more petitions of persons who owe taxes on real estate to have either principal or interest remitted unless they were made strictly in compliance with the terms of the statute. The board has been literally swamped with such petitions during the present session, one of them being to cancel the interest on one of the lots purchased by the Union Pacific Railroad company for a new depot. The hunting up of delinquent taxes by Treasurer Coddington will therefore result in bringing considerable money into the county treasury.

stantially the same as five or six years ago, when many railroads were bankrupt and in the hands of receivers. While conceding this, the respondents argue that the same is true of other property, the values of which for taxation purposes remain as before. We can only inquire into the matter for the purpose of determining whether respondents have expressed an honest judgment or whether the method pursued was in such wanton and reckless disregard of their duties as to warrant the conclusion that they acted fraudulently.

If they have acted as it was their duty to do and in such a manner that it cannot be said they have acted fraudulently in that which they have done, the court is powerless to correct the error, even though it be conceded that the assessment as made is lower than in justice it should have been. By the laws of the state these respondents are constituted a special tribunal charged with the duty of assessing railroad and other corporate properties over which they are given exclusive jurisdiction. It has the right, as a board, to exercise a fair discretion in expressing its judgment as to valuations, acting in a quasi-judicial capacity.

Prefers to Let Peary Talk First Concerning Differences Between Them.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Dr. Thomas L. Dederick of Washington, N. J., who had disagreements with Lieutenant Peary, the Arctic explorer, and left the latter's expedition on August 27, 1901, arrived in New York today after an absence of four years in the far north. Concerning the criticisms of his actions in the Arctic regions he was inclined to be reticent.

"I will not discuss in any way," he said with Lieutenant Peary and that may or may not have been the cause of my leaving the ship."

"What about the intimation that the reason you left the party was because you were not exactly in a sound state mentally at the time?" he was asked.

"The report that I was mentally unsound," he replied, "is a malicious lie."

"Are you going to make a statement in regard to the affair?"

"Cencerning my trouble with Lieutenant Peary and my experiences while living among the Eskimos and the denial of food to me by Lieutenant Peary, even a little coffee without sugar, I shall say nothing at this time. The reason I staid in the Arctic was purely one of duty to the expedition and was not for any monetary purposes. When I was a member of the expedition I contracted not to publish articles and I shall not act otherwise now. There has not been a single day since I left the expedition over a year ago that I have respected the stop I saw fit to take, and the knowledge that I acted in an honorable manner has done much to mitigate the unpleasant experiences 'I had and the attacks made on me."

Municipal Assessments. In regard to the right of metropolitan cities to place their own assessed valuation on the railroads the court says:

It is contended by the relators that the board altogether failed to take into consideration, in placing the valuation on property by it assessed, the fact that under certain assessment laws with respect to municipal taxes in cities of the metropolitan class and those of the first class having a population of over 40000 a much tan class and those of the first class having a population of over 46,000, a much higher standard of valuation of property for assessment purposes prevails than the average standard obtaining under the provisions of the general revenue law.

It is in evidence that in the city of Omaha, a city of the metropolitan class, the standard of value in the valuation and assessment of property for municipal purposers. I. J. McDonald, president of the new organization, was formerly employed in Omaha, where he worked one of the leased wires of the Associated Press. He is one of the most expert operators in the business and a pleasant gentleman. He was transferred to the Chicago office in 1897, and has remained there ever since.

F. E. Gilliland of Omaha, a member of the executive board, is one of the best known members of the telegraphic fraterilty in the west. He was formerly agent of the Union Pacific at Papillion and first came into public notice by being selected as the telegraphers member of the grievance board of the Union Pacific at Papillion and first came into public notice by being selected as the telegraphers member of the grievance board of the Union Pacific at Papillion and first came into public notice by being selected as the telegraphers when the famous controvery under the receivership came up before Judge Caldwell in the federal court. He was particularly active in that conflowers and without a ruling from the court.

Not long after this Mr. Gilliland was let out and has since been connected with brokers' offices using leased wires. It has always been maintained that his discharge was due to his activity in the celebrated tout and has since been connected with brokers' offices using leased wires. It has always been maintained that his discharge was due to his activity in the celebrated controversy and that the trouble, which was over a message, was only a pretext. This was a matter not susceptible of proof, nothing was ever done by the telegraphers of the system except to protest against the company's action.

The legislation with reference to the as-The legislation with reference to the assessment of railroad and telegraph property by the State Board of Equalization was evidently enacted with the view of having all such property assessed by one assessing body at a uniform value for all

If certain municipalities under laws applying only to them assess property at a much higher ratio than that as made for all other purposes it will readily be seen that the board cannot under the law as it is at present constituted conform to such valuation without violating the rule of uniformity as to all other property assessed for general revenue purposes. If these higher valuations obtaining in the municipalities mentioned were taken into account in the assessment of railroad properties by the State Board of Equalization and a higher valuation placed on such property it would be distributed over every mile of road within the state and but little would therefore be added to the valuation of the property situated in such municipalities and subject to municipal taxes. We know of no rule by which the State Board of Equalization under the present law can value railroad and telegraph properties in municipalities having taxing laws of their own at a uniform valuation with other property therein when the standard of valuation is different from that prevailing under the general revenue laws. Section of the constitution deother property therein when the standard of valuation is different from that prevailing under the general revenue laws. Section 8 of article ix of the constitution declares that "all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes, but such taxes shall be uniform with respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same." The observance of this rule of uniformity in the assessment of property for muncipal purposes is as obligatory on the lawmaking body and the taxing authorities as are the provisions of law requiring that the assessment, as made by the State Board of Equalization, shall be taken and accepted as the correct assessed valuation for taxes for municipal purposes when a different standard of valuation prevails as to all other property is in contravention with the section of the constitution quoted we should not in this action and do not decide. It is sufficient to say that for the purpose of this case and in determining the Issues before us we can consider only the assessment of all other property throughout the state for general revenue purposes in determining whether the fundamental law requiring uniformity in the valuation of property is violated.

The officers looked closely at Cunningham's companion and the resemblance to a photograph of Young which they had seen was so startling that they had no doubt as to his identity. To capture him it was necessary to proceed carefully, for the suspected man kept his right hand in his coat pocket and the officers feared that he carried a weapon. Several attempts were made to throw the man off his guard and the officers were finally successful. Pierce produced a bottle of whisky and asked the man to have a drink. The man withdrew his hand from his pocket and took the bottle. In an instant he was covered with two revolvers. He dropped the bottle and was about to put his hand back into the pocket, when warned that they would shoot to kill if he attempted to draw i weapon.

The officers then closed in on the man and Knapp slipped a handcuff on his right hand. The supposed murderer fought viclously and it was with difficulty that he was subdued. # Nervous?

Easily discouraged? Things look dark? Can't sleep well? Restless and worn out? "Nervous exhaustion," your doctor says. Ask him if he knows of a better nerve-tonic than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Sixty years of success. All druggists. One great cause of nervousness is constipation. Impurities that should be removed from the system are ab-sorbed into it. One of Ayer's Pills each night, just one, will keep the liver and bowels in a healthy condition. J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.
