(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, July 18.—(Special.)—Miss Winifred McKenzie, a prominent young school teacher of Hampton, Ia., filed in the district court here today a suit for $25,000 against J. B. Gray of this city for breach of promise of marriage.

Stevens took his arrest very coolly Wednesday night and declined to say anything except to deny the charge. When taken into custody at his room by Detective Weir, Stevens merely remarked, "In the toils again."

Not only was Stevens fully identified by the little girl, but also by several who saw him leading the child from the back of the Kiel hotel to Judge Snyder in police court yesterday and his preliminary hearing set for this morning. His bond was fixed at $1,500, but no attempt was made by Stevens to furnish it.

Feeling against Stevens was strong yesterday morning and a large number of men gathered at police headquarters to see his arraignment. It is not thought any attempt will be made to interfere with the law taking its course. It was on June 17 that Stevens was arrested charged with the assault on little Christine Christensen and a month later to the day he is again arrested on a similar charge. He intended to marry the alleged bride but 11 years ago.

Counsel for Stevens stated yesterday that it would be shown that Stevens was not in the vicinity of Willow avenue and Main street at the time alleged. The police, however, say they have evidence to the effect that Stevens was in that vicinity at the time. Detective Weir, who was leaving his little daughter in the wagon while he and a friend went into a nearby saloon to take a drink. Stevens was arrested on the description given by her assailant by the child.
