Utilizing the Reindeer.

When an Esquimaux hunter kills a reindeer the first thing he does is to skin it; then he eats some of the warm, quivering flesh. This is a very important part of his task. He cuts it open and removes the entrails, and making a sack of the reticulated stomach, fills it with the blood that is found in the cavity of the body. He then regales himself with some of the spinach-like contents of the pouch, and by way of filling in his stomach, cuts off and eats such little portions of fat as are exposed in the process of butchering. He then looks around for a stony place and deposits the carcass conveniently near it, together with the entrails and the bag of blood. Before cutting the body open it is turned back up and the strip of muscles along each side of the backbone is removed, together with the sinew that covers it. Over this also lies the layer of tallow (tood-noon) when the animal is fat, as is usually the case in the summer and fall. The head is then severed from the body and placed on top of the rest of the meat, so that when the entire mass is covered with about a ton weight of large stones it is considered secure from the ravages of foxes and wolves. Not so, however, from the wolverine and bear. They can open any newly-made cache, but after the snows have fallen and the stones and meat are frozen in one compact mass it requires the ingenuity of man to remove it. This is done by loosening as large a stone as possible with the foot, and with this stone as a battering ram another and larger one is loosened, which in turn serves as the battering ram to loosen the others. Often it is found necessary to use a narrow, wedge-like stone as a lever or bear to force the other stones apart. The cache is always made more conspicuous by leaving the antlers to protrude above the stones.

After his meat has been secured and he has refreshed himself with a pipe the hunter makes a bundle of the skin and the meat attached to the sinew and tallow, and wends his way to his tupic, where his wife or wives await him. His favorite wife takes the meat (oo-le-oo-she-nee) and strips the sinew (oo-le-oo-tic) from it by holding the meat in her teeth while she cuts the sinew from it with her knife, which is shaped like a currier's knife. She then chews off the meat that still adheres to the sinew until it is perfectly clean, and hangs it up to dry, when it is separated into its fibres and becomes thread (ever-look). In the meantime the other wife, with her teeth, cleans the fleshy side of the skin of the meat and fat that may still adhere to it, and if the sun is still shining, stretches the skin upon the ground to dry, holding it in place by small stones placed around the edge. At night the skins are brought into the tent to keep them away from the dogs, and they are again put out in the sun every day until thoroughly dried. They should be dried as soon after killing as possible, in order that they may be in the best condition to preserve the fur.

Our Dinners.

English people are quite impressed by the abundance of viands set upon the American table, and rather criticize the custom. They say that in providing for their table the mass of Americans rarely consider what goes with what (of course there are the epicurean few who do). Except the Yankee "pork and beans," there seems to be no viand so wedded to vegetables as to be spoken of together, like the English "duck and green peas," "mutton and turnips," etc. Generally speaking, vegetables are chosen haphazard, and so carrots, or dried beans or turnips, are as often served with poultry as not; no question of the "eternal fitness" of things seems to trouble the average housekeeper. Then, not only is the unfittness of certain vegetables for certain meats unthought of, but the vegetables themselves are served with sublime disregard to harmony, and so peas and asparagus, and summer squash and potatoes, often find themselves cheek by jowl on one plate. From four to six vegetables are often served at once, and two merely are considered by any but very fashionable people to be a very mean sort of a dinner. Tomatoes, in some form or other, are invariably on the table when in season, and more often than not canned, even in winter. Many of the methods in which potatoes are prepared are quite unknown to English people.

[Rockford (Ill.) Register.]

Fell Against a Sharp Edge.

This is furnished by Mr. Wm. Will, 1613 Frankford ave., Philadelphia, Pa.: "Some time since I received a severe injury to my back, by falling against the sharp edge of a marble step, the stone penetrating it at least a half-inch, and leaving a very painful wound. After suffering for a time I concluded to apply St. Jacobs Oil, and am pleased to say that the results exceeded my expectations. It speedily allayed all pain and swelling, and by continued use made a perfect cure. I really think it the most efficacious liniment I ever used."

The bush of Australia is so overfed by the multiplying of wild horses that they have to be shot down in common with rabbits and kangaroos. In one district an Arab stallion got away some thirty years ago and he was never recaptured. He was a chestnut, and took a couple of thoroughbred colts with him, and it has been remarked that a large portion of the wild horses of the district are of his color. Horses believed to be very old are occasionally seen far away in distant ranges. One man has shot 3,000 horses in two years.

[Chambersburgh (Pa.) Herald.]

After vainly spending five hundred dollars for other remedies to relieve my wife, I have no hesitation in declaring that St. Jacobs Oil will cure Neuralgia, says M. V. B. Hersom, Esq., (of Pinkham & Hersom), Boston, Mass., an enthusiastic indorser of its merits.

Arrangements have been consummated for the consolidation of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the Texas and International and Great Northern Railways, and the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern and the Texas Pacific.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it. A Workingman."

The kind of books that are most read now are those in which the villain always has a cold smile playing around his mouth. People like to think that there is some one, even a villain, who can always smile coldly.—Puck.

A woman pianist who plays with only one hand is just now the talk of Paris. If we remember rightly, the Italian organist invariably plays with only one hand. The Italian has a wonderful turn for music.—Boston Transcript.

Vegetine

CURED SCROFULA.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 18, 1877.

H. E. STEVENS: Dear Sir—Can cheerfully recommend your Vegetine as the "Great Blood Purifier." I have been afflicted with Scrofula for years, and was cured by your VEGETINE. I keep it constantly on hand to keep my bowels regular, and am constantly recommending it to all whom I hear needing a remedy like yours. Truly yours, JOHN McGETTIGAN.

Vegetine.

Remarkable Cure of Scrofulous Face.

WESTMINSTER, Conn., June 19, 1879.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I can testify to the good effect of your medicine. My little boy had a Scrofula sore break out on his head as large as a quarter of a dollar, and it went down his face from the ear to the other, under his neck, and was one solid mass of sores. Two bottles of your valuable VEGETINE completely cured him. Very respectfully, Mrs. G. R. THATCHER.

Druggist's Report.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6, 1877.

H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.: We have used your VEGETINE for some years past, and our customers recommend it as being the best and safest "Blood Purifier" in use. We have sold many articles of the same description, but VEGETINE gives the most universal satisfaction. We always recommend it with confidence. HANSELL, DRUGGIST, 1023 Market Street.

A Standard Article Everywhere.

It is a long way from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Maine to the Gulf of Mexico, but in all the vast area lying within those boundaries there is not a city, town, village, settlement or camp where HOPBITTERS is not well known and in great demand. It is the great household medicine of the American people, and is taken everywhere as a safeguard against epidemics and endemic ailments of the bowels, as a cure for chills and fever and rheumatic ailments, as a sedative in nervous cases, as a wholesome exhilarant in hypochondria, and as a general invigorant and restorative. To the weak and drooping it imparts strength and vitality, bracing the relaxed nerves and rousing all the latent energies of the system. For years it has been the standard tonic and corrective of the western world.

The population of the brand new kingdom of Roumania is about 5,000,000. The Catholics are said to number 115,000 and the Hebrews 400,000. The national church is independent both of Constantinople and Moscow.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, in Providence, B. I.

From B. F. Liepsner, A. M., Red Bank, N. J.: "Ely's Cream Balm Co., Owego, N. Y.: Gents—I have been troubled with Catarrh so badly for several years that it seriously affected my voice. I tried Dr. — remedy without obtaining the slightest relief, but one bottle of your CREAM BALM did the work. My voice is fully restored and my head feels better than it has for years. I feel deeply indebted to you. Very truly, B. F. Liepsner, January 23, 1881."

"My son tried Ely's Cream Balm for cold in the head. After using it twice he felt no more distress or trouble in breathing. I recommend it above all other Catarrh remedies. It sells well with me. C. C. Hagenbuch, Druggist, Mahanoy City, Pa., February 4, 1881." Druggists' price, 50 cents; or we will mail it for 50 cents.

"WILSONIA"

Triumphant!

The Downfall of Metallic Bells and Batteries and the Dangers resulting therefrom.

The "WILSONIA" MAGNETIC GARMENTS are the marvel of the world. They are dumbfounding to the scientists and physicians, and making blind the eyes of the most learned men. They are the downfall of quack nostrums, and will help every physician to become an honest man; and if drugs are to be used at all will compel every physician to write his prescription in plain English, so that the people may know what they are using. Physicians of the country who would consult their own best interests should make themselves acquainted with the "WILSONIA." Then will they become a blessing to the race, inasmuch as that which they are accused of so often, a remedy or a medicine, is not the people who feel safe in their hands, and not (as now) be constantly changing their doctors. The "WILSONIA" MAGNETIC GARMENTS will cure every form of disease known to man. Send for circulars containing price list, testimonials and other interesting memoranda of the all-conquering "WILSONIA."

Near Reading, Pa., is a youngster whose parents tell this story of him: One day, in a spirit of mischief, he took a hoe and hoed up the bed in which his father had recently planted some radish seed. Shortly after the exploit and about the time that his parent was expected home his courage failed him, and apprehensive of a severe punishment he went to his mother and confessed his transgression. She mingled reproaches with consolation until he began to whimper: "I wish, mother—I wish—I wish—" "Well, my boy," she said, affectionately, "what do you wish?" "I wish," he continued, bursting into tears, "I wish I was Charlie Ross."
