WELLMAN IN BALLOON IS CROSSING ATLANTIC

IN BALLOON AMERICA WALTER WELLMAN AND FIVE OTHERS START FOR EUROPE.

START FROM ATLANTIC CITY

Wireless Messages Received Report That the Airship is Making Great Progress.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Sailing into a thick fog that hung low over the Atlantic ocean, Walter Wellman, with a crew of five men, is believed to be on an epoch-making voyage to Europe in the huge cigar-shaped airship America.

Starting from the beach the big air craft was soon out of sight of the cheering crowd that saw the big balloon go into the air. Since then no one, with the possible exception of ships at sea, has seen the strange craft, and the only word from her came by means of the wireless telegraph.

Numerous messages have been received, and the latest indicated that Wellman is easily sailing toward Europe.

The men who are making aeronautic history in the first over-ocean flight of a nairship are Walter Wellman, commander; Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer and next in command; F. Murray Simonds, navigator; J. W. Irwin, wireless operator; John Aubert and Albert Louis Loud.

The start of the America was one of the most dramatic ever occurring in this care-free resort of frequent sensations.

Roundly criticised by people who did not believe he would ever undertake what was thought to be a foolhardy venture, Wellman startled the whole island by bringing the America out of the hanger and, without any ceremony, going into the air.

There are six men on the airship, and they are provided with provisions, mostly of the canned variety, sufficient to last them a month. The only means of cooking is with a small oil stove, but this, Mr. Wellman says, will do all the cooking they will require.

Each man is provided with two uniforms, one of which, and a much heavier one for use in case of extraordinary cold weather is encountered.

It was estimated that the two engines, which were working perfectly, were pushing the balloon through the air at the rate of 26 miles an hour.

The airship's gas bag is something of the shape of a cigar, and is 228 feet long. Its width is about 52 feet, and is said to be capable of lifting about twelve tons. The envelope carrying the gas weighs more than two tons.

Attached to the big gas bag is a car 15 feet long. The floor of the car is really a large flat tank in which the gasoline is stored for the motors. The America carries three gasoline engines, one of which is a donkey and the other two are used for motive power. They are in the center of the car, and are of about eighty-horse power.

Beneath the car hangs a lifeboat 27 feet long, to be used in case the balloon is wrecked.

Strung beneath the car is a 330-foot long equilibrator, which takes the place of a drag rope used on balloons. The equilibrator consists of a steel cable to which are attached 30 small steel tanks, each carrying 75 pounds of gasoline and forty wooden blocks. The blocks are about 20 inches long. The equilibrator makes it unnecessary to carry ballast. It is intended that the balloon shall fly at a height of about 200 feet.

If it settles close to the water the wind blocks and the tanks will float, thus relieving the balloons of some of its weight. As the gasoline is required the steel cables will be pulled up into the car of the balloon and a tank emptied.

Altogether the America carries 2,000 pounds of gasoline. The craft is as thoroughly equipped with sextants, compasses and other instruments for locating positions as are the big ocean liners.

Paris to London in Balloon.

London, England.—Another chapter was added to the history of aviation when the French dirigible balloon Clement-Bayard made the voyage from Compiègne to London in the remarkable time of six hours, a journey requiring seven hours by the fastest express trains and boats. Compiègne is 45 miles northwest of Paris and 195 miles from London. This is the first occasion on which a dirigible balloon has crossed the English channel. The cross-water route occupied 45 minutes.

Assassin of Empress Crazy.

Geneva, Switzerland.—The report is current that Luigi Luccheni, who assassinated the empress of Austria in 1898, has gone violently insane. Luccheni smashed everything in his cell and was put in a strait-jacket to prevent self-injury.

$5,000,000 Bank Fails.

London, England.—The Charing Cross bank, with headquarters in London and forty country branches, closed its doors. The deposits amount to $5,000,000.

SENATOR DOLLIVER IS DEAD.

Iowa Insurgent Leader Succumbs to Dilation of the Heart at His Home in Fort Dodge.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—United States Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver died of dilation of the heart, caused by an attack of acute indigestion, at his residence while being rubbed by an osteopath physician.

Senator Dolliver's death was unexpected by his relatives and close friends, who thought that he had almost entirely recovered from the attack of indigestion with which he had been suffering for a week.

Senator Dolliver had been up all day, and had made a trip from his residence down town. He told several of the men whom he met that he believed he had completely recovered from the indigestion which followed his trip through Wisconsin on a speech-making tour.

While working over Senator Dolliver the osteopath physician was using an instrument to listen to the senator's heart action. The physician unexpectedly discovered that he was no longer hearing the heart beats. He at first thought his instrument was faulty. An examination revealed that his patient was dead.

CAUSE OF CIVIL WAR.

General Grosvenor Says War Was the Fault of the Constitution.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio delivered the annual oration before the Society of the Army of the Cumberland here.

The general told his hearers it was high time to quit waving the "bloody shirt"; that the war is over, and that we are all Americans now. The Southern soldier fought for the principle he thought to be right, said the speaker, and he did the best he could. In studying the history of the Civil war one should not stop at Appomattox, he said, but should follow the Southern soldier as he builded up a nation from desolation and ruin.

"An indissoluble union of indissoluble states," was the omission from the constitution of the United States which caused the war of the sixties, was the declaration of General Grosvenor.

TILLMAN MAY MAKE RACE.

All Will Depend on How He Stands the Work in December.

Trenton, S. C.—"If my health continues to improve, I expect to be a candidate for the United States senate in 1912, otherwise not. All will depend on how I stand the work in Washington when I go there in December."

This statement by United States Senator B. R. Tillman, disposes of the recent persistent rumors that because of failing health the senior South Carolina senator had decided to retire from public life at the conclusion of his present term in the senate.

SUNDAY FUNERALS TABOOED.

Cemetery Guardians Are Not Willing to Work on Sunday.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of Cemetery Superintendents closed. The convention passed a resolution agreeing to use their earnest efforts to abolish Sunday funerals except where the nature of the disease of the corpse rendered immediate interment necessary. The committee on location recommended that Philadelphia be the scene of the next convention and the Quaker City was unanimously agreed upon for the convention of 1911.

SOUTH SEA TRAMPS' WHARF

Strange Sights That May Be Seen on the Old Meigg Pier in San Francisco.

"When old Henry Meigg built the long pier that juts out from the foot of Telegraph Hill in San Francisco," remarked the Californian, "he probably didn't guess that it was destined to become the most picturesque wharf in the country. He intended it to accommodate his own line of steamers, but in later years he settled in Peru and the wharf fell into other hands."

"While retaining his name, it began to take on a peculiar character. It is nearer to the Golden Gate than any other pier in San Francisco harbor, and the South Sea tramps found it convenient to dock there. Their patronage became so important that in time it was entirely given over to them and to the other rovers of the sea that drift into San Francisco from the ports of all the world."

"And so it is that you can go down to Meigg's Wharf any afternoon, when the trade wind is blowing from the Pacific, and watch brown Kanaka sailors loafing on the decks of boats that reek of coconut oil and strange spice odors. And you can see copra being unloaded, and 'shell' and other products of Polynesia. Or you may chance to find an old-fashioned square rigger in port that has been three months or more coming from New York, by way of the Horn. These boats have no schedules. No one knows when they will drift in through the Golden Gate and pause for a short while under the lee of Telegraph Hill."

"Meigg's Wharf also has the reputation of being the starting point for filibustering expeditions to the Latin American republics, and is always closely watched for smugglers."

Too Honest for a Lawyer.

A noted Philadelphia attorney tells one of himself. He left his native town in Tennessee years ago, and came to this city to practise law. He has been uniformly successful. His brother, upon the other hand, remained behind at the family homestead.

Returning to his native town some time ago, the attorney met an old dorky in the road.

"Hello, uncle," he said, but the old man did not recognize the boy he used to know in the prosperous looking citizen who addressed him.

"Well," asked the lawyer, "how are the Blank family?"

"Oh, they're all right," said the old dorky. "Jim Blank has gone to Philadelphia, and done made a lot of money. He's a lawyer, sah."

"Is that so," answered the attorney. "And his brother Tom, how is he, has he made a fortune, too?"

"Lawdy, no," answered the old dorky, shaking his head, "he ain't no lawyer. Mars Tom wouldn't take a dishonest penny from nobody."
