FAMOUS BATTLESHIP DELAWARE, WHICH WILL REPRESENT UNITED STATES AT CORONATION, AND SCENES ABOARD HER

London, June 17.—The United States battleship Delaware, which will represent the United States in the naval ceremonies at the coronation of King George V, is the largest vessel in the international fleet that is assembled in English waters to honor King George's birthday and coronation.

The Delaware, accompanied by other American ships, will be present at the coronation ceremony, which is scheduled for June 26. The ship will participate in the parade of vessels, and will also be part of the fleet that will be anchored off the coast of England.

The Delaware is a dreadnought class battleship, and is one of the largest ships in the world. It is armed with 14-inch guns and is capable of reaching a speed of 25 knots. The ship is named after the Delaware River, and is the second battleship to bear the name.

The Delaware was built at the Kaiser Shipyard in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and was commissioned in 1911. It has served in both World Wars, and was modernized and reclassified as a battlecruiser in 1943. The ship was decommissioned in 1948 and is now a museum ship at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

The Delaware's presence at the coronation ceremony is significant, as it is a symbol of the strong relationship between the United States and the United Kingdom.

The Delaware is commanded by Captain John W. Carpenter, USN, and is underway on its way to England. The ship's crew is preparing for the coronation ceremony, and will participate in various events and activities during the week.

The Delaware is a symbol of American power and strength, and its presence at the coronation ceremony is a testament to the enduring friendship between the United States and the United Kingdom.

London, June 17.—The United States battleship Delaware, which will represent the United States in the naval coronation at the coronation of King George V, will be present at the ceremony.

The Delaware is the largest vessel in the international fleet that is assembled in English waters to honor King George's birthday and coronation. The ship will participate in the parade of vessels, and will also be part of the fleet that will be anchored off the coast of England.

The Delaware is a dreadnought class battleship, and is one of the largest ships in the world. It is armed with 14-inch guns and is capable of reaching a speed of 25 knots. The ship is named after the Delaware River, and is one of the oldest ships in the United States Navy.

The Delaware was built at the Kaiser Shipyard in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and was commissioned in 1911. It has served in both World Wars, and was modernized and reclassified as a battlecruiser in 1943. The ship was decommissioned in 1948 and is now a museum ship at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

The Delaware's presence at the coronation ceremony is significant, as it is a symbol of the strong relationship between the United States and the United Kingdom.

The Delaware is commanded by Captain John W. Carpenter, USN, and is underway on its way to England. The ship's crew is preparing for the coronation ceremony, and will participate in various events and activities during the week.

The Delaware is a symbol of American power and strength, and its presence at the coronation ceremony is a testament to the enduring friendship between the United States and the United Kingdom.