Ordered to Leave.

A special from Tuskegee, Ala., last Thursday says: About twenty of the best citizens of that town gave one Rev. Mr. Kelly, a white man from Ohio, a "surprise party" at 7 o'clock that night by calling on him and informing him, through their spokesman Dr. W. J. Gautier, that his presence there was obnoxious and disgusting to the white people of Macon county, and especially so to the citizens of Tuskegee, and that he must leave Tuskegee and Macon county on the first train which passed Chehaw, the railroad station, at 1 a. m. or abide the consequences. Kelly is pretending to be a minister. He claims that he was "called" to preach to the negroes of the south. He had been holding a protracted meeting there in the negro church for the past ten days, making headquarters with one Thomas Harris, who he was found by the committee that waited on him. He is teaching and practicing social equality which will never be submitted to by the people of that section.

Take Your Choice.

There were two notable conventions held yesterday—the Illinois Democratic convention and the Kentucky Republican convention. We find one thing to commend in the action of each of these conventions, and that is the fact that there was no straddling. The Democratic and Republican parties have records and histories in the interest of the masses. The Democratic party has professed friendship, and legislated in the interest of the masses. The Republican party has always legislated in the interest of the favored few and at the expense of the masses.

This is the position of these parties as substantiated by their histories. It is further substantiated by their action in yesterday's convention. Here is what the Democrats of Illinois did. They adopted the following resolutions: "Whereas, silver and gold have been the principal money metals of the world for thousands of years and silver money recognized and used as honest money between nations notwithstanding the varying ratios between silver and gold, and, Whereas, The demonization of silver has deprived the people of the free use and benefits of an invaluable and original money metal, and has increased debts and added to the burdens of the people by lowering the value of labor products, and, Whereas, The constitution of the United States prohibits the use of anything but gold and silver coin as legal tender for the payment of debts, thereby recognizing that coin composed of silver and gold is honest money and fit to be used as a legal tender; therefore, by the Democracy of Illinois, in convention assembled, be it,

"Resolved, That we are in favor of the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the United States, and demand the free and unlimited coinage of both metals at the ratio of 16 to 1 with out waiting for the action of any other nation, and that such coins shall be a legal tender for all debts, both public and private, and that all contracts hereafter executed for the payment of money, whether in gold, silver or coin, may be disregarded by any money which is by law a legal tender."

The Republicans, of Kentucky, adopted a resolution favoring so-called sound money and declaring against the free coinage of silver at any ratio. As first intended the resolution, called for the gold standard in so many words, but these words were stricken out.

This is the position of the two parties put in striking contrast. The people are called upon to say which they will take. As for our position, we shall continue to advocate what is and always has been Democratic doctrine, and that is bimetalism—the free coinage of both gold and silver.

Briggs—You say the phenologist who examined your head was not very complimentary? Griggs—Hardly; he told me I was fitted to be a leader in society.—Life.

A Legened of Moses.

All the Year Round.

Bathia, the daughter of Pharaoh was not satisfied with merely having saved the child Moses; she determined to make him her adopted son, and took him to live with her in the palace. On one occasion, while he was still a toddling child, he narrowly escaped being put to death. The Princess brought him to the Presence Chamber, where Pharaoh sat in friendly, informal council with the malevolent Balcan, and took her seat by her royal father, placing the child upon her knee.

Attracted by the glitter of the crown, the infant Moses stretched out his arms for it, and the great king, taking it from his own head, placed it on the baby brow of the future lawgiver. The child toyed with it for a time and then threw it on the ground and stamped upon it. The royal circle was seized with consternation. It was the age of portents and auguries; of what might not such an act be ominous! From Balaam, malignant in mind as distorted in body, came counsel prompt and grim.

The act, he said, was, despite the child's tender age, fraught with significant intent. If Pharaoh would reign in peace, he must slay the sacrilegious infant. Fortunately for Moses, Pharaoh—to employ the language of the law reports of our own day—"took time to consider his decision," and to assist him thereto convened a full council. At this council Jethro successfully defended the unconscious child who was fated to become his son-in-law.

The Eulogy.

The eulogy of Senator Voorhees on the late Secretary Gresham, although compressed into a short telegram, sent to Sergeant at Arms Bright of the Senate, will hardly be surpassed by any of the many longer ones written or spoken. Mr. Voorhees said: "Indiana is in mourning for her most distinguished native-born son. Of commanding ability, stainless honor and undaunted courage, Walter Q. Gresham lived and died the great soldier, the great jurist, and the great Secretary. No manlier spirit was ever called from earth, no truer or more patriotic heart ever ceased to beat. He loved his neighbor as himself and his country more than himself. His name and fame will continue to live on the best pages of American history as long as that history itself endures. You and I will never look upon his like again. The public service loses a statesman, you and I lose a friend beloved. May God bless the bereaved ones in his darkened home."

Facts About It.

The current issue of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, provides a realizing sense of the revolution now in possession of the cotton industry of the country, and as this revolution is located in the South the cause of the change is markedly due to the material development of that section.

The South no longer simply grows cotton to send away. The cotton is spun and woven into goods right at home. Figures presented by the Manufacturers' Record show that of the 85,000,000 cotton spindles in the world half are in Great Britain and about 16,000,000 are in this country. In 1880 there were 180 mills with 667,000 spindles in the South; in 1890 there were 255 mills and 1,700,000 spindles, and on December 31, 1894, there were 425 mills and 3,000,000 spindles, with mills now building that will add 500,000 more spindles.

In the remainder of the country the increase was from 9,986,000 spindles in 1880 to 12,777,000 in 1893. This is an exhibit of gain in the South of 270 per cent. in thirteen years and in the rest of the country of only 28 per cent. The New South is forging ahead, and the best thing about it is that Southern capital is finding its way into the various industries, notably that of cotton.—Phila. Times.

Getting There.

The Fall River mills, which recently advanced the wages of all the operatives, paid dividends during the past three months, amounting to $375,375 on a capital stock of $22,000,000. This important fact has entirely escaped the attention of the organs. So large a sum of money earned and paid to stockholders right on top of a very material increase in wages, coupled with the trade announcement that "prospects are good for an increase of business," is worthy of some notice, if no other way than as news, but the organs are silent.

The better times, however, are here. The wire and nail mills of Pennsylvania and Illinois, says the Philadelphia Times, controlled by a syndicate, gave a ten per cent. advance in wages June 1; the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, of Michigan, has restored the rate paid in October, 1893; the price of copper enables the operators to pay laborers in the mills as good wages as skilled miners make on the ranges. These samples of the returning tide all are all to the credit of the past week.

By and by the demagogues and the organs will recognize the truth of returning prosperity and then the truth will be all the harder to tell.

Cast a Line for Yourself.

A young man stood listlessly watching some anglers on a bridge. He was poor and dejected. At last, approaching a basket filled with wholesome-looking fish, he sighed: "If, now, I had these I would be happy; I could sell them at a fair price, and buy me food and lodgings."

"I will give you as many, and just as good fish," said the owner, who had chanced to overhear his words, "if you will do me a trifling favor."

"And what is that?" asked the other.

"Only to tend this line till I come back. I wish to go on a short errand."

The proposal was gladly accepted. The old man was gone so long that the young man began to be impatient. Meanwhile the hungry fish snapped greedily at the baited hook, and the young man lost all his depression in the excitement of pulling them in; and when the owner of the line returned he had caught a large number. Counting out from them as many as were in the basket, and presenting them to the young man, the old fisherman said: "I fulfill my promise from the fish you have caught, to teach you, whenever you see others earning what you need, waste no time in fruitless wishing, but cast a line for yourself!"

How Silver is Growing.

The New York World, with its usual enterprise and industry, sent out last week to all members of the next Congress telegraphic inquiries as to their views upon the three prominent questions as follows: Do you favor a single gold standard or free coinage? Do you favor further tariff changes? Do you favor the principle of income tax?

In reply to these inquiries the World received responses from 116 members, but a number of the members are supposed to be absent from their homes, the post-offices of others are not known, and some, perhaps, may not want to commit themselves at all. Out of the 116 who give positive replies 55 are for free silver, 44 for bimetalism and 17 for the gold standard. That means that 89 of them are for silver only 17 for gold monometalism. It is fair to presume that the other members of the new Congress stand in about the same proportion, so that the next Congress, though largely Republican, may be considered as overwhelmingly in favor of the free coinage of silver and against the administration's "sound money" idea of gold monometalism.

A few details by States, as the World says, will be interesting. It appears that Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming are solid for silver so far as heard from. The bimetalists are chiefly in Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Virginia have the gold advocates.

Only two members from Tennessee have yet responded, one of whom is for the "unlimited free coinage of silver at 16 to 1," and the other for "bimetalism." All the members from that State except Cuckoo Patterson, are supposed to be strong for silver. It will be seen that the goldbugs flock only around New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont, all under the shadow and influence of Wall Street and its money power. The masses of the people are for silver everywhere else.

Republicans Divided.

St. Louis Republican.

The division in the Republican party on the silver question promises to be much more serious than the party press is willing to admit. Tom Carter, Senator Cameron and a number of other stalwarts are sanguine that the silver men will control the Republican National Convention next year. That the gold-bugs will not have a walk-over is as certain as anything in politics can be.

Even the Westliche Post concedes a minority of over a third of the delegates to the free silverites in the convention. It gives them 23 States with 304 delegates and all the Territories with 18 more. Alaska and the District of Columbia are included among the latter, as is also Utah, which will probably be a State at the time of the convention. Delegates from Territories and the District of Columbia will vote the same as those representing States. So it matters little whether Utah is represented as a State or a Territory.

Here, then, are 322 votes virtually conceded to the 16 to 1 free coinage Republicans, and the total vote of the convention will be only 906. Their strength will in all probability be even greater. In the Westliche Post's table the delegations from Arkansas, Iowa, Louisiana, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, North Carolina, West Virginia and Texas are all set down as sure for an out-and-out gold standard. The truth is, however, that some of them are likely to favor free silver coinage and the others may be considered doubtful. Even Illinois, Indiana and Ohio might be put in the same class, for not one of them is certain to indorse gold monometalism.

The doubtful States, including Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, will have 312 delegates in the convention, and if only half of them side with the free coinage silverites from the States practically given up by the Westliche Post, the Cameron-Carter wing of the party will control the convention. With only half of the delegates from the doubtful States, the silver Republicans will make the platform and elect the party's candidates for President and Vice-President. They can do all this and have 24 votes to spare.

Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Missouri may all vote with the goldbugs in the Republican Convention and enough votes will be left among them classed as doubtful to defeat the platform and candidates under the convention for free coinage. The Republican organs have been having a good deal of amusement over the divisions in the Democratic party on the currency question, but the laugh will be on our side before the summer is over.
