THE NORTH CAROLINIAN

THE POST OFFICE REGULATIONS.

As the large number of private papers now effectual in the Post Office business, and which have been made use of by all orders and papers of every description, the Post Office Department have adopted a new system of regulations. The object of these regulations is to prevent the continuance of any private papers or pamphlets without the consent of the Post Office Department. The regulation is to be executed by an inspector of the Post Office Department, who shall have the power to examine all documents and papers delivered to him, and to direct any person or persons to whom he shall assign the office of a postmaster to deliver such documents or papers to the Post Office Department. The inspector shall have the power to require any person to deliver any documents or papers to the Post Office Department, and to prevent the continuance of any private papers or pamphlets without the consent of the Post Office Department.

A SLAVE CAPTAIN.-We learn from a recent dispatch from the Governor of the State of Georgia, that a slave captain, named Davis, who was captured in the State of South Carolina, has been sent to the State of Georgia, where he is now in confinement. The slave captain is charged with the murder of a number of negroes, and is said to have been employed in the service of the Confederate States.

A LAW OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.-A law has been passed by the Confederate States, regulating the importation of slaves into the Confederate States. The law provides that no slave shall be imported into the Confederate States without the consent of the President of the Confederate States. The law also provides that no slave shall be imported into the Confederate States after the first of January, 1865.

A LAW OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.-A law has been passed by the Confederate States, regulating the importation of slaves into the Confederate States. The law provides that no slave shall be imported into the Confederate States without the consent of the President of the Confederate States. The law also provides that no slave shall be imported into the Confederate States after the first of January, 1865.