

A GREAT OVATION WAR IN FULL SWING

MARKS THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP THROUGH THE NORTHWEST.

North Dakota's Volunteers, Recently Returned From the Philippines. Receive a Cordial Word of Greeting From the Chief Magistrate of the Nation—Short Stops Made at Minnesota Towns Where the Whole Population Turned Out to Do Honor to the President.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 15.—Over ten thousand people greeted President McKinley and party when they arrived here last night at 7:35 o'clock. Entering carriages, the party was driven to a reviewing stand through lines of the First North Dakota volunteers who recently returned from the Philippines. The president was received with wild demonstrations. In his address he referred repeatedly to the situation in the Philippines. When he declared that the United States government would send 65,000 men to the Philippines to uphold the United States flag where the volunteers had placed it, the crowd approved the declaration with wild applause.

Attorney General Griggs, Secretary Long, Secretary Gage, Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Wilson, and Senators Hansbrough and McComber spoke briefly. The exercises were limited to speaking and the review of the First North Dakota volunteers, owing to the lateness of the train. At 9:30 o'clock the presidential train transferred from the Northern Pacific line to the Milwaukee railway and left for Aberdeen, S. D.

The journey of the presidential party across Minnesota from the head of the lakes was a continuation of the ovation which has been rendered the president everywhere he has appeared during his trip through the Northwest. Short stops were made at Aitkin, Brainerd, Staples, Wadena and other towns along the line. At each place the entire population turned out to do homage to the nation's chief executive, and at each place he acknowledged these greetings in a short address. The members of the cabinet also made short speeches at several of the towns.

The President Greeted by a Throng at the Zenith City.

Duluth, Oct. 15.—A noisy welcome was given the presidential party on its arrival in this city. Hundreds of tug boats and grain steamers were anchored under the bridge across the St. Louis river, and as the special train passed overhead the screaming sirens beneath the bridge produced a hair-raising sensation to those aboard the cars.

An escort committee of prominent Duluthians, headed by Mayor Trueson and Congressman Page Morris, boarded the train at West Superior. Entering carriages at the Great Northern depot the presidential party was driven through blocks of cheering humanity to the high school building. At the head of the procession marched a battalion of Minnesota volunteers.

The square around the high school was packed with people, who cheered wildly as president McKinley entered the speakers' stand. The president made a short speech, in which he expressed his appreciation of the splendid welcome tendered him.

London, Oct. 14.—When the cabinet meets at noon it is evident the Boer advance will be in full swing. Judging from present appearances the Boers are preparing for a simultaneous invasion at five separate points. Ladysmith, Kimberley, Vreyburg, Mafeking and Lobatse. Therefore, it is almost impossible to guess the plan of campaign.

Cape Town, Oct. 14.—The reply of the imperial government to the Transvaal's ultimatum is published here. It was accompanied by instructions to Conyngham Greene, British diplomatic agent at Pretoria, to ask for his passports. The reply was publicly read by a magistrate at the evening parade of the town guard here and evoked loyal and enthusiastic demonstrations.

Cecil Rhodes has arrived at Kimberley. A panic has broken out at Kimberley and a hurried exodus has begun owing to British refugees from the Transvaal declaring that a large force of Boers was advancing on the town. The rumor that Newcastle has been occupied by the Boers is without confirmation.

London, Oct. 14.—A Pretoria dispatch says: "Conyngham Greene yesterday afternoon said good by to President Steyn and his officials in his private capacity. He and his staff will leave today by two special trains. Martial law has been proclaimed and British residents without permits must leave the Transvaal within eight days."

BATTLE IS FOUGHT

BRITISH FORCES AND BOERS CLASH IN NATAL.

War Office Is Hourly Expecting Further Intelligence of the British Advance From Ladysmith—Gen. White Sanguine of the Success of the British Movement—Boers Reported to Be Attacking Mafeking—Generally Admitted That Vreyburg Cannot Stand a Strong Boer Attack—Report That the Boers Have Reached Newcastle.

London, Oct. 15.—An Edinburgh paper, the Scotsman, asserts that a battle has taken place between Gen. Sir Stewart White, commanding the forces in Natal, and the Boers who entered Natal by way of Van Rensselaersdorp. Gen. White, the Scotsman says, is very sanguine of the success of the British movement.

The foregoing report is considered as correct as the war office has news of a British advance from Ladysmith and was hourly expecting further intelligence.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from its correspondent at Ladysmith, dated at noon Friday, says: "A strong mobile column under Gen. Sir George Stewart White, accompanied by Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter, proceeded before daybreak this morning toward Acton Homes for the purpose of reconnoitering. Gen. White's object was to observe what was going on and also to test the mobility and efficiency of his forces. All the men are well and the weather is now fine."

According to a dispatch from Ladysmith to the Standard and the Daily Telegraph, dated Thursday, heavy storms have begun and forage is scarce on the veldt. Therefore nothing is expected to happen for a few days unless the Boers, who were reported to be advancing, should threaten the British line of defense drawn from Glencoe Junction to Ladysmith. In this case apprehension is felt as to the result. Gen. White has twelve guns and the Boers eleven.

The Daily Mail's Cape Town correspondent, telegraphing Friday evening, says: "I learn on good authority that the Boers are attacking Mafeking. They are reported to have already suffered several repulses. It is generally admitted that Vreyburg cannot stand a strong Boer attack."

London, Oct. 15.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Dundee, Natal, says: "Reports are circulated here that the Boers have reached Newcastle, but no confirmation of either this or of reports of fighting at Mafeking or Ladysmith are yet arriving."

Kimberley, Oct. 15.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The telegraph line between Kararapann and Meritzan, south of Mafeking, has been cut and a strong command of Boers has occupied the Kraatan sidings.

Glencoe, Oct. 14.—(Delayed in transmission.)—It is reported that the Boers have crossed the border at Ingogo, and that the Free State government has taken possession of the railway to Van Rensselaersdorp and seized a Natal government train.

HAIL TO THE CHIEF

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY IN THE HANDS OF THE TWINS.

Enthusiastically Greeted in Minneapolis. Where He Participated in the Exercises of Welcoming the Thirtieth Minnesota—Addresses a Multitude in the Exposition Building—In the Evening He Is Tendered a Reception at St. Paul and Makes a Short Address.

St. Paul, Oct. 14.—Yesterday was a busy day for the Twin Cities. They were obliged to divide their attention between the returning volunteers and the president of the United States. And although it seemed that their enthusiasm must wear out in the ovation they extended to the volunteers, they still had a sufficient reserve supply for the president. Everywhere he appeared he was greeted by the cheers of the admiring thousands. The presidential train reached St. Paul about 10 o'clock, only a short stop was made here in order to switch the train which then proceeded to Minneapolis. It was 11:08 when the Mill City was reached. A big crowd had collected around Third and Washington and people almost fought for places. As the train pulled into the depot the president's salute of twenty-one guns was fired and the chiming from the tower of the county building pealed forth a patriotic air. The jam was intense around the Third street entrance of the depot, and a favored few succeeded in getting inside the train sheds, while thousands looked on with anxious eyes with their faces pressed against the gratings that protected the train from assault.

The appearance of President McKinley at Twenty-sixth and Park avenue, where he joined the parade, gave the first opportunity for popular welcome, and all along the line of march he was greeted with the wildest applause. In addition to welcoming the volunteers officially, as the head of the nation, the president delivered an address in the exposition building. He was introduced by President Cyrus Northrop, and when he arose to speak he was given an ovation which continued for several minutes, and frequently during his address he was interrupted by the cheers of the audience. Secretary Long and Attorney General Griggs also made short addresses and were each given a warm greeting.

While in Minneapolis the president was the guest of Thomas Lowry, and after the Minneapolis exercises had been concluded he was taken to St. Paul on Mr. Lowry's private trolley car.

Greeted by St. Paul.

The reception at the Auditorium last night to President McKinley and the members of his cabinet by the citizens of St. Paul was a fitting climax of a day filled with patriotic enthusiasm. Never was the president and the members of his official family greeted with a heartier reception or more enthusiasm in the same time and space. More than 10,000 people were present, and the building was filled to its utmost limit with citizens eager to shake the distinguished guests by the hand or at least to see and to hear them. "Acres upon acres of citizens," as Attorney General Griggs expressed it, surged about the entrances unable to gain admission to the building, and waiting to see the president.

Shortly after the guests' had been greeted by the members of the reception committee they were stationed along the front of the platform to shake hands with the throng that had been in line on Eighth street waiting for that opportunity. Gen. Moses E. Clapp presided over the exercises which followed. President McKinley received a tremendous ovation when he was introduced. He said:

"I have discovered in the twelve or fifteen hours I have been in Minneapolis and St. Paul the secret of success of these two great cities. They work themselves and they work every body else (laughter and applause). I have been more than gratified in meeting the people of the State of Minnesota. It is a peculiar pleasure to meet with my friends and fellow citizens of the great city of St. Paul. I have been gratified with the splendid demonstration of patriotism I have seen on every hand as I have journeyed throughout the East and the West into your state. I never look into the faces of a great American audience that I do not feel that the free institutions of the United States are safe and forever safe in their hands. (Applause). The patriotism of the American people takes the place of large standing armies. We don't need them in the United States. (Applause). We can have an army on any notice if the nation is in peril or the flag is menaced. Eager is every American citizen to answer the call to arms and just as eager to get back to the paths of peace when the emergency has passed. (Applause). I was glad to-day to join in your welcome to the Thirtieth Minnesota volunteers. (Applause). I was glad they didn't want to come home until the government of the United States was ready to dispense with their services. (Long-continued applause). I was glad that no matter who advised otherwise they didn't propose to beat retreat. (Applause). And to-day every man, woman and child in the state is glad they stand. The American soldier never slinks away from duty—even if his time is up. (Applause). Why, the other day that gallant Tennessee regiment embarked on the good ship Sherman for their homeward voyage, disembarked again when our interests were threatened and shed their blood until the flag was safe from attack. We don't need standing armies, I say, because we have the purpose in our hearts to do and die if necessary. (Applause). You all look as if you liked it—and you all act as if you liked it. I hope it has come to stay. I have with me to-night a number of cabinet officers who are themselves overworked, but I have no doubt that they will be glad to meet you and to be greeted by you. (Applause)."

Secretaries Long, Gage, Wilson and Hitchcock and Attorney General Griggs were each in turn introduced and each made short addresses. The presidential party left at 11:30 for Duluth.
