The report of the comptroller of the currency, made up from the returns to his recent call upon the national banks for a showing of their standing, shows that the business of those institutions continues to expand and that their number is rapidly increasing. The gain in the latter for the fiscal year was 219 banks. The grand aggregate of capital stock paid in was $989,567,114, surplus fund $644,857,482, undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid $216,546,125, national bank notes outstanding $675,632,565 and individual deposits $5,287,216,312. The total loans and discounts were $5,430,159,187, United States bonds to secure circulation $683,990,000, bonds, securities, etc., $849,631,719 and lawful money reserve, in bank $820,772,893. All of which makes manifest that the national banking system is prosperous and progressive, and that the fears of the currency tinkers are without foundation.

The United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the aid of the United States Dispensary, has figured out that two hundred and more medicinal preparations contain a little more alcohol than they should, and therefore are liable to a special tax. Stomach bitters, cough cures, nerve tonics and kidney cures largely preponderate in the list, and the addition of the special tax is likely to cause an advance in their price. But that is not all. It is said that local excise authorities may take into consideration the propriety of requiring druggists and those who sell the preparations to take out liquor licenses. Such a proceeding would be apt to put an end to the manufacture of the patent panaceas.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT announced Wednesday that he had been misunderstood when he was quoted as favoring the adoption by State Republican conventions this fall of "progressive platforms." He had meant to limit his expressed desire, he explained, to Ohio. "What I intended to say was I cannot support any candidate for any nomination. I am of the hope that the progressive platform will be adopted in Ohio. I desire to make it perfectly clear that I mean Ohio only in what I said. Progressive platforms in other states have a different significance." This lets out New Jersey, perhaps.

THERE seems to be great faith in the wisdom of the postal savings bank scheme, even among the banks which were bitterly opposing its establishment. Banks to the number of 535 in forty-four different states have applied to the postoffice department for designation as postal bank depositories, and 240 postmasters in thirty-six different states want the saving banks established in their offices. There is no question about the new saving system, once it gets into full swing, proving a great benefit and convenience to the humble masses, whose savings are too small for bank deposits. But the great lesson it will teach is economy, as the saving habit is the best means to reach it.

BELIEVING that the record made by ormer Senator Barton B. Hutchinson, of Mercer county, since he entered politics nineteen years ago has demonstrated him to be the type of man desired in public life, many of the friends of Mr. Hutchinson have urged him to become a candidate for Senator this fall. Others, feeling that he would acceptably fill a larger place in the state government, would like to see him the Republican candidate for Governor. Mr. Hutchinson himself, although taking a keen interest in the political happenings of the day, has thus far refrained from entering the lists as a candidate for either office.

SENATOR JOSEPH S. FREELINGHUYSEN on Saturday night was formally entered in the race for governor by the republican county committee of Somerset. This was accompanied by an intimation that the proceeding was not prompted merely by local loyalty, but meant serious business. But such a statement is a matter of course. Senator Freelinghuyesen is a man whom his county may well be proud of. But this is not his bearing year. His turn will come later.—Paterson Press.

The Trenton "Times" says: "A great many persons will feel a sense of relief over Chancellor Pitney's announcement that he does not care to become Governor, preferring his present position. But the party has lost a splendid campaigner, and if the Chancellor is in the executive office the people would know they had a Governor."

The statement of Chancellor Pitney in regard to the gubernatorial nomination would seem to definitely settle the matter. While his friends would have been pleased to work and vote for him they cannot but commend his judgment in preferring his present high office to the uncertain honor of the gubernatorial contest.

Who will be the next Governor? Senator E. W. Wakelee or former Governor Stokes.

IN THE NAME OF THE PROPHET, BOSH!

Why, even on a day of boiling exasperation like Saturday, should our Baltimore namesake degrade innocent white paper with this cant:

"The retirement of Cannon, Aldrich and Hale will mark the end of that old regime, in which the protected interests entrenched themselves behind party regularity and used congress, legislatures, state and national governments for their own financial advantage."

Our knees are not dusty with adoration of the present or any other heaven-born high protective tariff, but what is the use of blinking patent facts? The democratic party will protect the protected interests if it comes into power. It flicks up greedily and gratefully such crumbs of protection as fall to it from the republican table. Why not? What is tariff for? For "the financial advantage" of the people, democrats or republicans, whose senators and representatives can get their states or districts on the premium list. As for "party regularity," who is bossed and bound by it more than the democrats? Insurgency is convenient and laudable only when it occurs among your opponents.

The majority of the American people are protectionists, however sound or agreeable the contrary theory is. A protectionist insures when the duty is too high on something that his people must have, or not high enough on something that they produce. That is the brutal fact behind much romantic contemporary eloquence.

Mr. Cannon, by the way, has not yet retired. Whatever becomes of him or the other republican seniors, the intrenchments of the protected interests don't look like caving in at present. "Greed" knows what it wants. Too many of the persons rosiest against it love their little rakeoff and percentage; and some of them are greedy protectionists without knowing it.—New York Sun.

AUTO DISCRIMINATION.

This automobile discrimination between such great states as Massachusetts and Pennsylvania toward New Jersey looks like pretty small business. The action of the authorities at Springfield, Mass., backed by the Massachusetts Highway Commission, in punishing the New Jersey doctor who visited the city mentioned, looks cheap. Whether New Jersey is right or wrong in its position as regards touring automobilists, there is no denying the fact that if the spirit of retaliation, which has appeared so offensively in Massachusetts last week, should spread from one thing to another, a dangerous state of affairs would soon exist in the United States.

Some of the prominent state newspapers are advising New Jersey to retaliate. The commissioner of motor vehicles, Mr. Smith, seems to work himself up to that point of view. Let us have no retaliation. New Jersey is too big for that. If the automobile law is wrong, let us have it changed without delay; if it is just and equitable, let us stick to it, whether other states boycott New Jersey or not. To sanction the principle of retaliation between the states would be unfortunate, to say the least.—Elizabeth Journal.

FRANK S. KATZENBACK, JR., removed all doubt as to his attitude toward the democratic nomination for governor Monday by declaring his willingness to run again if called upon to do so.

MR. PINCHOT's claim to be a silent man is restricted to one letter in his name. Uncle Joe and Pinchot rhyme, but do not harmonize on running a party.

Destroyed Boy's Base Ball.

The annoyance of residents of Harrison street by boys of the neighborhood playing ball in the street culminated in the police court Wednesday night when Charles Miller was fined $2 and costs by Justice Patrick J. Howard for disorderly conduct. While playing with a ball belonging to Russell Brown one of the lads threw the sphere wild and it struck Miller's horse which was standing in front of his home. Miller picked up the ball and tore off the cover, throwing it away and pocketing the remainder of the ball. Charles Brown, a letter carrier, father of Russell Brown, complained to Prosecutor Charles A. Rathbun and Miller's arrest followed. Justice Howard remitted the fine and collected the $1.25 costs because it was Miller's first offense.

Unavailing Search for Fire.

Caretakers of "Oscar Court," Otto H. Kahn's mansion on Normandy heights, imagined they smelled smoke in one of the rooms Saturday night and finding there was no fire in any of the heating appliances of the building telephoned to Morristown for the firemen. Chief Wilbur F. Day, Jr., with Foreman Fred M. Day and several members of Independent Hose company, went to "Oscar Court," with the automobile chemical engine. The firemen tore off large sections of the walls of several rooms in an effort to locate a supposed cross of electric wires but could find nothing.

PLAYGROUND AIDS KIDDIES

Mrs. Vasta has as her particular flock the Bee Hive Sewing club, to the members of which she teaches stocking darn and other mending. The officers have not yet been chosen, being competed for, the best stocking darning getting the presidency, the second the vice-presidency and the third the secretary-treasurership. This club has become a favorite with the mothers of the youngsters, many of them having personally thanked Mrs. Vasta for her work in teaching them how to sew.

Mrs. Vasta also conducts a kindergarten class for the kiddies from two to five in years.

These classes of girls, with the exception of the two last, are in personal charge of Miss Scharendorf, and each class is given special instruction in some particular branch of athletic sports, track events, drills and dancing. On Labor day will be held a contest for a banner. The girls of any club making the best showing in whatever they undertake will be awarded the banner.

Next Thursday afternoon the Grape Vine club will give a "party" to the Columbia club, it being the idea of the instructors not to allow the club idea to generate into class or race prejudice.

Mr. Fairlamb and his assistants are making a strong effort to teach the children to be clean and how to keep clean. Hardly a day goes by that Miss Scharendorf and Mrs. Vasta do not have a group of children showing them how to wash themselves and then line the youngsters up before Mr. Fairlamb to meet with his approving eye in their unaccustomed, to many of them, cleanliness.

Mr. Fairlamb and Mr. Savage are teaching some of the boys how to swim. They have constructed a small dam of stones and logs across the Whippany river, making a depth of three feet. Next season it is hoped to have a concrete dam of greater size erected and a trolley installed to hold up the youngsters while learning to make the proper strokes.

Many mothers come to the playground with their babies and to watch the older children at play. The Italian parents give the instructors a lot of trouble in that they do not know how to care for their babies. Mrs. Vasta has often taken away from babies less than a year old a half loaf of bread, a tomato or a huge piece of cheese, given by an Italian mother to the youngster to quiet the cries. These women are taught to give their babies proper nourishment, it being the experience of those in charge that the Italian children are not given proper food. No bad language is tolerated among the boys in the playground. If caught using any profanity or obscenity the culprit is banished for the day.

That all this is meeting with the approval of the parents of the children is manifested in many ways. Those in charge when going to and from their homes are greeted with pleasant words by parents of the children, many of them thanking the instructors for some special thing done to make their own children happier and healthier.

Mrs. Vasta's young son, Louis, who attends a military school in New York, is a frequent visitor at the playground and whenever he comes he has at once a band of volunteers who wish to be put through military tactics.

Thirty Days Each for Tramps.

Officers Tuesday night raided the tramps' camp near Convent and arrested Joseph Quinn, Joseph Brown, John Desmond, James Sharp, William Monahan, John McKenna and James Bailey. The seven hoboes were committed to jail by Justice Patrick J. Howard for thirty days each as disorderly persons.

The raid was the culmination of a long series of petty thefts from the truck gardens of the Sisters of St. Elizabeth at Convent. Constable Lyons, who is employed as a watchman at the St. Elizabeth college, after some detective work spotted the men who were guilty of the thieving and swore out warrants before the justice. Potatoes and other vegetables were stolen.

In the raiding party were County Detective Edward L. Brennan, Patrolman Cornelius Hally, Constables J. Paul Jamieson and William H. Lyons and Special Officer Leonard Tripp.

They Were Easy Marks.

A stranger appeared in Whippany on Tuesday and successfully worked an old game. He claimed to be a Spaniard, son of a rich Cuban planter. He gave out the story that he was a student at the University of Pennsylvania and that he was looking up an old friend of his father's. He found that this friend had moved away. He approached several leading citizens and told them confidentially that he had brought some fine Havana cigars for his father's friend, and now that he could not be found he would sell them at a sacrifice rather than take them back. Several fell for the story and gave up good money for bad cigars. They are now on the lookout for the "Spanish student."

Robert Jolley will open a restaurant in the store on Speedwell avenue now occupied by Joseph Parmigliani.

Max Mintz has been fined $50 by Judge Oliver K. Day, of the district court, for selling bob veal. The case was brought by the state board of health through its inspector, Dr. John M. Broadwell.

BUY MORE RIPARIAN LANDS

More Lands in this County for Jersey City Advised.

Whether a device for the treatment of water supplied to Jersey City with bleaching powder should be substituted for a proposed system of sewers at such danger points as Dover, Boonton and Rockaway was urged pro and con before Vice Chancellor Stevens Wednesday. The argument had for its special purpose the enlightenment of the court on the form of decree to be made in the suit brought by Jersey City against the Jersey City Water Supply company to compel such abatement from the contract price of $7,565,000, which Jersey City is to pay for the water supply system constructed by the defendant water company, as will safeguard the supply from pollution.

James B. Vredenburg, who spoke for Jersey City, argued against the substitution of the chloride of lime treatment. While the lime killed bacteria contained in the water it did not remove the dead bacteria nor any other filth that may be in the water, he said. Water in which there is filth, Mr. Vredenburg declared, cannot be drunk by anyone with impunity.

The Boonton reservoir, supplemented by this device, Mr. Vredenburg contended, is not a plant capable of preventing contamination and does not make the water, at the time it reaches Jersey City, free from pollution, and the water from it is not the water contracted for, and for that reason should not be decreed to be in lieu of the sewers required by the decree.

Mr. Vredenburg also contended that the device is dangerous, and is experimental. Vice Chancellor Stevenson in the course of Mr. Vredenburg's argument, remarked that in his opinion Jersey City ought, as a precautionary measure, to buy up as much of the riparian lands along the Rockaway river as it can. The great danger point the vice chancellor went on to say was the town of Dover and the danger there would constantly become greater as Dover became larger and Jersey City ought to acquire the land on both banks. The vice chancellor pointed out that Newark is doing this, although conditions in the Pequannock watershed were ever so much more favorable.

JUDGE SWAYZE'S OPINION.

He Thinks the Exhibitors of Fight Pictures Should Be Indicted.

Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze charged the Hudson county grand jury last week that if any attempt was made to exhibit the Nevada fight pictures in Hudson county he would ask for an indictment. He said pictures of prizefights were unlawful because they had a natural tendency "to pandering to vicious and disorderly members of society." Here is the charge in part:

There seems to be some doubt about the law in other States. There can be none in New Jersey. The law is thus stated by a legal writer of repute: "A public exhibition of any kind that tends to the corruption of morals, to a disturbance of the peace, or of the general good order and welfare of society is a public nuisance. Under this head are included all puppet shows, legerdemain, obscene pictures, and any and all exhibitions of a pandering tendency of which is to pandering to vicious and disorderly members of society."

In considering the question what tends to corrupt public morals, we ought to look to the declarations of the Legislature, the official declarations of the State. Our Legislature has not only made prizefighting a crime, but has enacted that any person who is present at such a fight for the purpose of witnessing the same is guilty of a misdemeanor. With such a declaration on the part of our Legislature, it cannot be questioned that an exhibition of moving pictures of such a fight, which are well calculated to encourage practices denounced by the act, tends to the corruption of morals, and is a public nuisance.

Strikes and Put Outs

ON LOCAL DIAMONDS

Manager John J. Todd was so well pleased with the showing the Orange B. C. made against his Morristown A. A. team on Saturday at Speedwell field that he has booked the Essex county league champions for another game next Saturday afternoon. The diamond at Speedwell field has been much improved, it having been leveled off and filled in around third base as well as "skinned" back of shortstop and between first and second bases.

With the close of the base ball season at the Morristown Field club on Saturday Walter Swenson will go to Bethlehem, in the White mountains and will play on the Bethlehem team.

The Morristown Field club will play the Caldwell Field club on the James street grounds Saturday afternoon. This will be the last game of the season at the field club.

Vincent Roache has resigned as manager of the Alert A. C. and has been succeeded by Joseph White. The team will go to Mendham Saturday and meet the Mendham Field club.

Madison to Have Fire Districts. Chairman Waters, of the fire committee of the Madison common council, has had the new fire whistle placed in position at the pumping station. It is similar to the one in use at Summit. It is the plan of the fire committee to mark the borough off in districts and each one numbered so that when a fire occurs it may be known at once in what locality the firemen are to go. The fire whistle can be heard in Morristown.

A WORD TO GAS CONSUMERS

When Public Service Gas Company assumed charge of the gas business in Morristown we announced that we intended to give first-class service.

We Mean to Do Just That.

But to carry out our intentions it is necessary that we should have the co-operation of our customers and this co-operation is respectfully solicited.

We have employed competent men to canvass the local field with the idea of learning the gas needs of our patrons and determining where improvements can be made so that better results might be obtained by them.

These men have found a number of cases where slight alterations to house piping or fixtures will lead to more efficient and more economical service.

Has our Representative Called on You?

If not and if your service is not just to your liking, send word to our office, 43 South Street, at once.

Complaints will not only receive prompt consideration, but we will thank you for calling our attention to any deficiency which might exist.

We want to remove the source of all complaints that have a reasonable basis. We want satisfied customers.

Dead in Her Bed.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Testman was found dead in her bed in the rooming house, No. 15 High street, Tuesday noon. Coroner George L. Johnson, M. D., was called and after an examination said the woman had died from natural causes and had been dead for twenty hours.

Miss Testman, who was sixty-seven years old, did not appear Tuesday at meal times and as no response was made to repeated knocking at her door an employee looked over the transom and saw her lying on the bed.

The woman had been a resident of Morristown for several years, coming here from New York where she was for many years a dressmaker. She had many friends here who have taken charge of the funeral arrangements. Her nearest relative is Thomas W. Smith, of Bloomfield, a cousin. Miss Testman was a member of the First Baptist church and was active in the Sunday school, the missionary and other societies of the church. She was also a teacher in the industrial school.

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church on Thursday and interment was in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

It will cost about $1,500, of which Mr. Bliss has agreed to pay two-thirds. This road has two steep hills, which have been the cause of several accidents in the past and it is reported that the grades on these hills are to be reduced.
