Fishing Notes.

The shad fishing season closes this Saturday, 15th. Most of the fishermen quit last week. Several were out on Monday and caught from 80 on down. C. Rodger Pedrick got 56, Reuben Pedrick 76, David Paulin 65, Henry Munyan 39 and a buck sturgeon.

C. Rodger Pedrick got 44 on Tuesday and 29 on one on Wednesday.

The season has been a good one with nearly all shad fishermen, in fact, the best for some years. The best nets caught from 4,500 to 8,000 shad and cashed from $600 to $1,000. The average price is between $12 and $13 this year, a higher average than has been for years.

The sturgeon fishermen have returned from the bay. While a few made a little money, as was lost money and most of them did not more than pay expenses at sturgeon fishing. But for helping out by fishing for shad at the beginning of the season, they would be had behind.

The suit of Clark C. Turner against Harry S. Barber to recover $181 wharfage paid by Mr. Turner to a U. S. Marshall was decided in Mr. Barber's favor on Monday by the State Supreme Court.

Mr. Turner brought suit before Benj. F. Wood Esq. to recover the money. Wood decided in Turner's favor. Barber appealed to the County Court and Judge Simmekson decided in Turner's favor. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court which decided that when Mr. Turner paid the wharfage for his barge and took a receipt that settled the case. That throws all Court costs on Mr. Turner.

There is a Court of Errors and Appeals it can be taken to. D. V. Summerill, Jr., was Mr. Barber's attorney.
