Married
RAYMOND—BARNART.
Mr. Peter Raymond and Miss Ida Barnart, daughter of the late Rev. William Barnart, were married in Trenton at four o'clock last Saturday afternoon, (Feb. 19, 1910), by her uncle, the Rev. Henry Belting. The ceremony took place in the parlor of Dr. Arthur Belting, her cousin.

Mr. Raymond and Miss Barnart left Penn's Grove at 10 o'clock in Mr. R. F. Willis's automobile. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Smith. After stopping in Camden for dinner, they continued the automobile trip to Trenton. Mr. Arthur H. Green and his sister, Mrs. Newton S. Barnart, went to Trenton by train to be present at the wedding ceremony.

OBITUARY
THOMAS TINDALL HOLETON, who has been living with his son, Wm. Holeton, at Pedricktown, for fifteen years, died last Sunday morning, (February 20, 1910), of dropsy. He had suffered with rheumatism for years. The funeral service was held at the residence on Wednesday morning and the interment was in Emmanuel Church yard, Penn's Grove.

Mr. Holeton was born Oct. 14, 1830, in Upper Penn's Neck Township, his parents being William Holeton and Julia Tindall. When a boy he lived with his first cousin, the late Judge William Summerville, and helped cart brick for Emmanuel church when it was built in 1845. He was a member of the church for many years and was the faithful and reliable sexton from 1877 to 1895.

Many years he had the experience of "The Old Sexton" as told by Park Benjamin, the American journalist and poet, as follows:

"I gather them in; for man and boy, Year after year of grief and joy, I've built the houses that lie around In every nook of this burial ground. Mother and daughter, father and son, Come to my solitude one by one; But come they stranger, or come they kin, I gather them in—I gather them in."

At last the old sexton has been gathered in.

A Flag Raising

The presentation of a flag to the Penn's Grove school by the Spanish-American War Veterans, of Penn's Grove, and the presentation of a storm flag by the Sons of Veterans was made an appropriate celebration of Washington's birthday on Tuesday afternoon.

The teachers, pupils and a number of citizens assembled in the grammar school rooms on the arrival of the Veterans and Sons of Veterans, accompanied by Liberty Band.

The ceremony began by all singing "America."

John Toy, after reciting some of his experiences in the Spanish-American war, presented the flag, which was accepted on behalf of the Board of Education by William P. Denny. Claude Ward, Commander of the Sons of Veterans, presented the storm flag, presented by the Sons of Veterans and J. W. Lloyd, Supervisor, accepted it on behalf of the school.

Rev. H. B. Blackwood, who is a Son of a Veteran, made the address for the occasion, his theme being "Patriotism and the Spirit of Love for our Country."

After the speaking and band playing all assembled on the street to witness the raising of the flag. When the storm flag was first raised the school children repeated the salute to the flag, which is as follows: "I pledge allegiance to my flag and the principles for which it stands. One nation indivisible, with equal liberty and justice to all. We give our heads, our hearts, our hands to our country. One God, one country, one language and one flag."

After the large flag was raised to the top of the pole, the loop to let out the folds which contained the small flags, did not slip and the flag unfortunately pulled from the top ring. However, the flag was unfolded from the school house loft and the children had a happy scramble for the small flags.

The veterans of the Spanish-American war in Penn's Grove are David Johnson, George W. Dickie, John Toy, Ralph Gillman, John Sagis, Walter Rice and Jos. Schlafer.

Wilmington Harbor Appropriations
The River and Harbor Bill, which has passed the House of Representatives and is before the Senate, provides for an appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement of Christiana Creek. Some years ago the stream was deepened to make 21 feet of water at low tide, but the report of Captain Rand, made to the War Department last June, showed that there is but 11 feet of water in Christiana Creek from the mouth to the Lobdell plant and 10 feet is the greatest depth from Fourth Street wharf to Third Street bridge. Elsewhere in the creek the depth varies from 15 to 18 feet at low tide.

Major Robert R. Raymond, the United States engineer who was put in charge of the district last fall, approved a recommendation made by Major Flagler a couple of years ago that $220,000 be appropriated by Congress for this improvement and that an additional $175,000 be allowed for the purchase of a hydraulic dredge for continuous work on the channel. The cost of maintaining the dredge— it would pump mud into its own hold and then deposit its contents at sea or in filling up marsh land—would be $30,000 a year.

Inasmuch as such a machine would be at work continually on the Christiana river, the channel would necessarily be kept at a uniform depth of 21 feet; it might even be somewhat deeper. The cost of maintenance would therefore be less than the amount annually appropriated by the Government for the betterment of the local waterway.

The total amount appropriated by the Government for the improvement of the Christiana river has been $1,040,552. Of this amount, two-thirds has been expended since the adoption of the present 21-foot project in 1896. It will be seen, consequently, that had a hydraulic dredge been sent here years ago the river would be free from shoals that make it unnavigable for large craft. Moreover, the Government would have saved considerable money.

Important Announcement.
The firm of Parkinson & Ball having taken over the wall paper business of J. U. Layton will open a store and show room in J. K. Dolbow's Building on Main St. on March 21, 1910. They will be prepared to do work of every description in the paper-hanging, decorating, and painting business.

This will be the only store of its kind in Penn's Grove and one which has been a long-felt want.

Higher Education Not Needed
MR. EDITOR: Having read the article on the "Need of a High School," I beg leave to express my views in regard to the matter through the medium of your paper.

First, I want to make it clearly understood that we do not want or need a high school in our town.

Let the boys and girls go elsewhere for their higher education. It will only cost the borough from $40 to $50 per pupil.

Furthermore, if we have no high school here there will be many boys and girls who will not care to continue their education by going elsewhere for it and thus the expense will be less for the borough. Besides, without the high school there will be an opportunity of relieving the congestion in the lower grades, without having to build a new high school. We can not afford to bond the town for $55,000 for a new high school. The expense is too great.

A number of pupils have gone to other schools to continue their studies; so the high school is not of especial benefit to the town. We do not need it, and we men who have property or money must bear the greater share of the expense. Besides, many of us have no children to send to school.

I hope the citizens will see that a high school is not needed here. A READER.

SMOKELESS POWDER SECRET

Smokeless Powder Formula Furnished by duPont Company

The hearing in the Government's suit to dissolve the E. I. duPont de Nemours Powder Company under the Sherman act, Francis I. duPont, a vice president of the corporation, was called by the defense and contributed corroborative testimony along the lines of that given by Alfred I. duPont regarding the different patents on powder making inventions developed by duPonts, or those in their employ, in New York on the 17th.

Touching on the subject of competition, James Scarlett, of the Government, brought out that by an agreement with the authorities the duPont Company supplies all "ordnance" powder to the Government except that which is made by the latter itself. The witness did not know just what percentage of the total amount used was from the duPont mills, and did not know whether discoveries growing out of experiments carried on by Government chemists were turned over to the duPonts, but thought that this was probably the case.

Mr. duPont's explanation had to do principally with many diverse and complicated patents held by the defendant corporation. These he explained at much detail, and unfolded the development and evolution of the explosive powder-making business.

The witness said that the danger to life and limb has been reduced as a result of the corporation's experiments. He said that the United States Government was to-day manufacturing its smokeless powder under a process devised by the defendant company, and which the latter had given without compensation to the Government.

The time allowance for the submission of the defendant's side of the case terminates March 28th, and as there are still a number of witnesses to be examined, a time extension may have to be asked for. Owing to the fact that many of those witnesses reside in the Middle West, indications are that after next week the hearings will be conducted in Cincinnati.

Educational Questions
MR. EDITOR: I have been interested in the articles in your paper of recent dates on education, but like some I question whether a high school is not beyond the financial and mental capacity of the town. It is a question whether a full high school course is not more than the parents and pupils want.

I recall a report of the teachers' institute, published last December, wherein Dr. W. S. Monroe, of the Montclair State Normal School, spoke on "Mental Work and Mental Fatigue." He stated that mental fatigue is necessary to increase the storage capacity of mental cells, but that teachers should watch carefully for the evidence of extreme fatigue among their pupils, as cells once collapsed are never restored. Mental sleeping at certain intervals is an other absolute necessity. His advice was: "Do not abolish the recess; gymnastics will not take its place. Even the poor teacher once in a while for a year in a place is a blessing in disguise, because the children are given a change for mental sleep."

It is a question whether establishing a full high school course was not a rude awakening that has overtaken the brain cells of some of the parents as well as the scholars. It is a question in my mind. So few pupils wish to study hard enough to carry on the course and so few parents see that their children become real students.

Many of the high school pupils would do better back in the grammar grade, and then there would be few, very few in the high school. Thoroughness is what they should have. It is and has been the trouble—pushing children ahead and taxing the brain cells of the pupil, and causing anxiety with the parents, and the board of education much consideration.

We want the practical and common-sense subjects taught, and not overtax the brain cells with much not practical and merely false. If it is easier on the pupil, parent, teacher, board of education and taxpayer, is it not better? Is not the easiest way the best way? We should learn to teach economy in getting along in the world, and if we have to build a larger school house to suit some of the State school officials, can we stand it? Will it pay when many have only a smattering knowledge of studies in the lower grades?

These are some of the questions which are being discussed and are a quandary to my mind.

SOUTH JERSEY NEWS

Franklin Dye, secretary to the State Board of Agriculture, has bought an abandoned farm at West Creek, Ocean county, which he proposes to use in demonstration of his statement that the shore and bay lands of the State may be made profitable if scientifically cultivated. The farm has been taken supported a large family for many years, but has been abandoned for some time. There is said to be much valuable land along the coast that would raise profitable crops if given the proper cultivation, and Mr. Dye hopes to prove this to farmers.
