CROCODILE'S DENTIST.

Species of Plover That Removes Parasites from the Reptile's Mouth Unmolested.

"I wish we had a crocodile plover here. It would amuse the children," said John Lover, a keeper at the Zoo, according to the Philadelphia Record. "What kind of a bird is a crocodile plover?" some one asked. "It's the crocodile's dentist," Lover replied. "It keeps the crocodile's mouth in good condition."
"The crocodile," he went on, "is much annoyed by a parasitic insect that enters his mouth and breeds there, in crannies that he can't get at. The plover feeds on this insect, and will go into a crocodile's mouth fearlessly after it. The crocodile seems to recognize instinctively that the bird is his friend. He lets it hop in and out of his mouth without molestation. The children would be much amused to see such a sight. We ought to get a crocodile plover by all means."
"Crocodile plover! Humph!" remarked a bystander in a pointed manner.

WHAT KILLED HIM.
Wife (with newspaper, to husband) —Here is another forcible temperance lecture: (Reads) "Young Spillers got into a boat and shoved out into the river, and as he was intoxicated he upset the boat, fell into the river and was drowned." Now, sir, (addressing her husband), if he had not drunk whisky he would not have lost his life.
Husband—Let me see. He fell into the river, didn't he?
Wife—Of course he did.
"Didn't die until he fell in?"
"James, you are positively silly. Of course, he didn't die until he was drowned."
"Then it was the water that killed him."—Stray Stories.

More Practical.
He (ardently)—If I had you to encourage me, I feel confident that, some day, my name would be recorded on the tablet of fame.
She (lightly)—What's the matter with the financial register!—Brooklyn Life.

A Marvel.
"What do you think is the most extraordinary invention of the age?" "The phonograph," answered Mr. Meekton, promptly; "the way that machine stands and talks back to Henrietta positively takes my breath away."—Washington Star.

Raw Or Inflamed Lungs.
Yield rapidly to the wonderful active and healing qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. It prevents pneumonia and consumption from a hard settled on the lungs. "My daughter had a terrible cough which settled her lungs," says N. Jackson, Danville, Ill. "We tried a great many remedies without relief, until we gave her Foley's Honey and Tar, which cured her." Sold at Sexton's Pharmacy.

Foley's Honey and Tar
Cures coughs and colds. Cures bronchitis and asthma. Cures croup and whooping cough. Cures hoarseness and bronchitis troubles. Cures pneumonia and la grippe. Sold at Sexton's Pharmacy.

The Growler.
Nothin's good enough for him; Weather bright, he wants it dim; Winter comes, with frosty rime, Swears he'll freeze 'fore summer time. Summer comes—its heat is felt—Swears that he's a-goin' to melt! Can't half please him, if you try, So, don't mind him—pass him by! —Atlanta Constitution.

"They've formed the 'soap trust'." "Well, it won't hurt us."—Chicago Chronicle.

Criss-Cross.
She would not show her love, ah, no! Though in her eyes 'twas half revealed And he was dull at puzzles—so One romance still is well concealed.

Danger of Pneumonia.
A cold at this time if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heat and strength in the lungs and prevent pneumonia. La grippe coughs yield quickly to the wonderful curative qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. There is nothing else. "Just as good." Sold at Sexton's Pharmacy.

Extra Hazardous.
"I don't believe we can accept the application for life insurance," said the inspector who had been out to investigate.
"Why not?" asked the manager.
"Because I have just discovered that the applicant is such a reckless fellow that he has made his ten-year-old son a present of a revolver. I should say that there is a practical certainty a death in that family soon, and it is just as likely to be the father as the son."—Chicago Post.

Burton—Talk about talent! I have you to know, sir, that I am a born painter.
Stumkins—Of course, you are not to be blamed for being born a painter; but I really think you are capable in sticking to the business.
Boston Transcript.

After La Grippe—What?
Usually a hacking cough and a general feeling of weakness, often leading to fatal results after the patient supposed to have passed the dangerous point. Foley's Honey and Tar guaranteed to cure the grippe cough and make you strong and well. never fails to stop a cough if taken in time. Take no substitutes. On sale at Sexton's drug store.

Up-to-Date Disappointment.
Crawford—Why is the congress dissatisfied with the new minister Crabsaw—Although they pay him almost twice as much he turns out to be nearly as orthodox as the old one.—Town Topics.

Pneumonia Follows a Cold
but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and affords perfect security from an attack of pneumonia. Refuse substitutes. Sold at Sexton's Pharmacy.

A Comforting Assurance.
"Do you think that I am content to fill this government position?" said the conscientious man.
"Don't have a moment's doubt," answered the friend, who is rich worldly experience. "Anybody is smart enough to get a position nowadays is smart enough to fill it."—Washington Star.

Foley's Kidney Cure medicine and bladder rights nothing injurious. Sold at Sexton's Pharmacy.
