FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 17, 1896

THE Las Vegas street fair! What is being done in the matter? Tempest Fugit.

MOSES made his mistakes and so does Catron. He wouldn't be human if he didn't.

THE democratic papers of New Mexico are kept on the defensive by the republican press.

JUDGE H. L. WARREN, of Albuquerque, is said to be in the field as a candidate for delegate to the Chicago convention. Why not?

IT is not unlikely that Judge L. Bradford Prince may be induced to visit Las Vegas and give us a talk on the newer phase of the silver question.

IF a resident of Santa Fe can be believed, the narrow streets over there are so dark since the electric circuit has been turned off, that it isn't safe for the average citizen to come down town at night.

ANY man who is foolish enough to believe that he can throw the vote of the New Mexico delegation in the national republican convention to any particular presidential candidate, with one single exception, would seem to be a fit subject for a lunatic asylum.

IT is perhaps but meet and proper, under the circumstances, to state that "a Santa Fe lawyer-politician" did not furnish the data in regard to the manner in which the city election at Santa Fe was carried by the democrats, the facts furnished at the instance of this paper being incorporated into an editorial. And it may just as well be stated as not that material allegations therein contained have not even been so much as denied. It was left to a republican over there to take exceptions to certain statements made and actually thought to be true when they were reduced to writing and hung on the "copy" hook for the printers.

COMPTROLLER JAMES H. ECKELS will speak in Cincinnati, to-night, and endeavor to set the bankers and business men of that city aright on the financial question, as it is seen from the administration point of view. A number of unsuccessful attempts were made to get Mr. Eckels to deliver an address in Cincinnati, but not until the invitation was sent in the names of the chamber of commerce, the commercial club, of Cincinnati, and the clearing-house association, and subscribed by scores of prominent citizens, could he be induced to go. In accepting the invitation, Mr. Eckels wrote that he desired it to be understood that his visit was entirely without political significance.

OWING to the activity of S. M. Inglis, state superintendent of public instruction, to-day's observance of arbor day is more general throughout the state of Illinois than ever before. Previous to the election of Governor Altgeld, very little attention had been paid to arbor day in that commonwealth. The present state executive, however, is something of a stickler in the matter of the day and its celebration, and accordingly he directed Mr. Inglis, last year, to prepare a circular calling attention to the day and treating of the proper manner of its observance. This year the circular was enlarged into a pamphlet and was carefully distributed in all the public schools throughout the state, with the result that it gave a decided impetus to the movement. The governor now prides himself on the fact that next to the distinguished Nebraskan having charge of the agricultural portfolio in the present cabinet, no one has done more to foster the idea of tree-planting and the preservation of the forests than himself.

OUR MURDER RECORD.

Some remarkable statistics were recently compiled by the Chicago Tribune, showing the record of murders in the United States for a series of years. The figures for 1895 are indeed startling, and almost justify one in asking whether this can consistently be called a civilized country. The following is the story of blood for the ten years ended with 1895, the figures showing the record for each year:

1886	1,449
1887	2,335
1888	2,184
1889	3,567
1890	4,290
1891	5,906
1892	6,791
1893	6,615
1894	9,809
1895	10,500

Americans hold up their hands in horror when they read about slaughters in half-civilized countries, but here is a statement showing that within the limits of our own country there were no less than 10,500 murders during the past year. What explanation can be given for this extraordinary and shameful record? The prohibitionists will, of course, claim that most of the murders are due to drink. Undoubtedly, that has had much to do with the awful story of crime, but the explanation is not sufficient. Probably, if the facts were carefully collected and examined, it would be found that much of this rapid increase in crime is directly traceable to the unrest, dissatisfaction and despair engendered by the ever-increasing struggle for wealth, the pace of which becomes more trying every year, resulting in filling our jails and insane asylums to overflowing.

The American nation is becoming a nation of discontented people, struggling to emulate the small army of millionaires who themselves are not content, but are trying to become billionaires in their turn.

There is yet another cause for this increase of violent crimes, which we cannot afford to overlook. It is told in the simple statement that of the 10,500 murders in 1895, only 132 of the murderers were hung. It has got so far in this country that it is the great exception when a man who has killed another forfeits his life to justice. If it were reasonably certain that the old Mosaic law of "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" would be rigidly enforced, without fear or favor, there is no doubt that a large proportion of these 10,500 murderers would have hesitated before committing the deed.

THE coarse personalities now running through certain New Mexico papers are of a character to give outsiders a mighty poor opinion of the journalism of the Territory, and of the people who will support such journalism. If what these warring editors say of each other is true, they should all be either in the penitentiary or the asylum for imbeciles, or at least debarred the society of reputable, self-respecting people. When two editors reach the point of hostility that calls for the use of the most insulting and vituperative epithets, the time has come when they should throw down the pen and go at it vi et armis. The readers of those papers feel nothing but disgust for the valor that expends itself in mere mouthings and ferocious gesticulations, but they would prick up their ears and take a mighty lively interest in any real preparations for war, and abandon their several occupations to be present and witness the settlement of these feuds by wager of battle.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other Sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

Quite a number of Odd Fellows met at Dr. Bearup's office in Eddy, and after some preliminary work looking to the organizing of a lodge in Eddy, adjourned to meet again, Monday evening, April 20th, at B. A. Nymeyer's office in the court house. The order is represented by about twenty members in Eddy and vicinity.

The Good Qualities

Possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla are almost beyond mention. Best of all, it purifies the blood, thus strengthening the nerves. It regulates the digestive organs, invigorates the kidneys and liver, tones and builds up the entire system. It cures dyspepsia, scrofula, catarrh and rheumatism. Remember, Hood's Cures.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and effectively, on the liver and bowels. 25c.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. Every atom of the "Discovery" is like a ferret, wherever it is sent. It is as sure as the needle of the compass. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging ones self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Political Situation in Colorado and Something About the Mines.

To the Editor of the Optic.

COTOPAXI, Colo., April 14th, 1896.—Politics are beginning to interest the average voter of this state. From present appearances, the political cauldron will contain as pretty a devil's tooth, as one could wish for. We are at sea, just now, and no amount of study seems to help us sight a safe harbor, in which to cast our vote, when the ides of November come around.

We became a convert to republican principles when Lincoln ran for the presidency in 1860, and we have never, in all these years, voted for anyone not a republican. This year, however, we are in a quandary. The republican party seems hopelessly split on the silver question, the eastern wing being "gold bugs," while "we uns" of the wild and woolly west have a firm conviction that silver, and lots of it, is what we want, in addition to the yellow metal, and the greenbacks.

Now, it seems to us, that the republican party cannot successfully straddle the gold and silver question; any more than it could consistently advocate protection and free trade in the same breath, yet that is about what the party evidently expects to do, by its advocacy of the gold standard in the eastern states, and declaring for free silver, west and south.

Ordinarily, the republican party would win this fall, not only in the national contest, but also in the state elections, but divided against itself on the money question, there is a reasonable doubt of republican success, if the democrats and populists fuse, as there seems a strong probability that they will.

In this state, there is a likelihood of a fusion between populists and democrats. There are also large numbers of republicans who do not favor the free coinage of silver, and hence they would hardly care to vote for a free silver candidate; while, on the other hand, the free coinage wing would certainly not vote for the "gold bug" nominee. To add fuel to the flame, it is said to be an open secret that the free coinage issue is not popular with the rank and file composing the different parties in this state, but that only the political bosses and party leaders really favor it, and solely for selfish ends, and that when election day comes round the "bosses" will be given a black-eye at the ballot box. So here we are virtually singing:

"How happy could we be with either,
If tother dear charmer were gone."

The democrats are in the same fix, and the belief seems to be growing that this difference on the money question in both the great parties will lead to the formation of a new party in this state, that will be for free silver, and which will not only carry the state ticket, but will also defeat the national republican ticket in this state.

Now, this being the case, and other western states being similarly situated, would follow Colorado's example by forming a third, or free silver party, the success of the republican party, on national issues, would be rather problematical, to say the least. Whether oil can be poured upon the troubled waters, and harmony restored, is a question that cannot now be settled by argument, but time will tell.

How does an offer of $9,000,000 for a Cripple Creek mine strike you? That is a sum which fairly takes one's breath away, yet it is the amount Mr. Stratton was offered for his famous mine. He promptly declined the offer, because he now has about $9,000,000 worth of ore in sight, and can therefore feel as independent as the traditional hog on ice.

Stratton, who, until recently, followed the business of carpentering, now bids fair to make John W. Mackay's wonderful record for luck seems insignificant. With his $9,000,000 mine, and numerous other valuable claims that he owns, he will soon be the richest man in the mining world. He can now sit down to his breakfast and order two extra eggs on the side, without a fear that such unheard of extravagance will leave him a "busted community."

Stratton's phenomenal luck is, of course, the one case in ten thousand. Rich as Cripple Creek is in gold, one can find many prospectors there, today, who find it up-hill work to raise a needed "grub-stake." What an anomaly. In the midst of populous wealth, want and misery hold high carnival.

* * *

We have just been thinking what a pity it is that ex-governor and blood-to-the-bridle-bit Waite, has transplanted himself to the more congenial soil of Illinois. What fun the old warrior loses in not being in Colorado during a convention time and what a hornet's nest he could stir up if he would only be there to take part in the august deliberations. Waite is a first-class crank and a pronounced demagogue. Yet strange to say, I have found in my nosing around for news and information, that Waite is a prime favorite with the average wage earner. The miners, whose cause the governor espoused during the riots, are for him to a man, because he stayed with them, when they needed help, and if the governor's renomination and election depended on the votes of the miners, Waite would make a clean sweep over all competitors. However, Waite is happy! He and Gov. Altgeld are chums, and co-religionists, politically.

When we came to this place, last fall, we expected to catch our death of cold, and get frozen up "promiskus." We were mistaken and found the winter in this mountain region nearly as warm as it is in southern New Mexico. Colorado seems to be all right on climate and weather, even if she is rather "unsettled" in politics.

Harper's Bazar

IN 1896.

The twenty-ninth year of HARPER'S BAZAR, beginning in January, 1896, finds it maintaining its deserved reputation both as a Fashion Journal and a weekly periodical for home reading.

Every week the BAZAR presents beautiful toilettes for various occasions, SANDOZ, BAUDE, and CHAPUIS illustrate and engrave the newest designs from the finest models in Paris and Berlin. New York Fashions epitomize current styles in New York. A fortnightly pattern-sheet supplement with diagrams and directions enables women to cut and make their own gowns, and is of great value to the professional modiste as well as to the amateur dressmaker. Children's Clothing receives constant attention. Fashions for Men are described in full detail by a man-about-town. Our Paris Letter, by KATHARINE DE FOREST, is a sprightly weekly recital of fashion, gossip, and social doings in Paris, given by a clever woman in an entertaining way.

Both the serials for 1896 are the work of American women. Mrs. Gerald, by MARIA LOUISE POOL, is a striking story of New England life. MARY E. WILKINS, in Jerome, a Poor Man, discusses the always interesting problem of the relations between labor and capital. Short stories will be written by the best authors.

Special Departments. Music, The Outdoor Woman, Personals, What We Are Doing, Women and Men, report and discuss themes of immediate interest.

Answers to Correspondents. Questions receive the personal attention of the editor, and are answered at the earliest practicable date after their receipt.

The Volumes of the BAZAR begin with the first Number for January, of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of Order.
