THE KANSAS REPUBLICANS.

State Convention of the Republican Party Opened at Topeka, Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kans., August 11.—The republican state convention was called to order shortly before noon by Hon. Cyrus Lehman, jr. The committee on credentials reported the presence of 880 delegates.

Among the numerous papers submitted to the committee on platform was one asking for the incorporation of a plank favoring good roads.

"The republican party, always first in the suggestion and advocacy of all great measures promotive of the public welfare, favors the permanent improvement of our highways, believing that thereby the cost of transportation of agricultural products to the market will be enormously lessened, business and social communication between country and city facilitated and increased, values of farm lands augmented and farm life rendered more attractive, with the result that the exodus of labor from farm to city and town now going on and yearly increasing, will be checked, existing unnatural competition destroyed, and industrial distress relieved."

TOPEKA, Kans., August 11.—The republican state convention opened here to-day, in true Methodist camp meeting style, 3,000 delegates and visitors uniting in singing a new version of the popular hymn, "Throw Out the Old Line," led by Rev. John A. Bright, of Topeka.
