RESOLUTION.

Parsons, Lincoln Co., N. M.
Aug. 23rd., '88.

It is unanimously resolved by the members of the Parsons Miners Association after duly investigating the causes that have brought about the untimely and violent death of R. C. Parsons, the discoverer of the Hopeful mine in Bonito mining district, that the death of said R. C. Parsons was indirectly caused by the false representations and swindling of certain speculators negotiating with him for the sale of said mine, and that we consider them detrimental to the welfare of any country they may infest.

The gentlemen are all interesting themselves in the tournament, sufficient financial aid has already been guaranteed and all the arrangements will be fully completed this week. A full and interesting progamme will be arranged and one of the most interesting and enjoyable affairs that has ever come off in Lincoln county may be looked for. The date fixed is Sept. 20th and 21st. Full particulars will be published in our next issue. Everybody prepare yourselves for an old fashioned good time, bring along your cousins and your aunts and all the family, and enjoy yourselves.

IT is agreeable to note the many new and handsome residences that are springing up in the Kempton Addition, north of town. In fact this favored locality seems to be monopolizing about all the fine residences this summer. This addition was thrown open but little over a year ago, at which time it contained but two houses—that of the proprietor and the one erected by the Comrey brothers several years ago, and since occupied by them. The first to avail themselves of these fine building sites were Goodman, Ziegler & Co. Then followed the cosy residence of L. H. Rudisille, which had hardly appeared above the tops of the wide spreading cedars until that of his neighbor, Grove, sprang up in the back ground. Early in the present season El Paso parties, with an eye to the beauties of its location and availability, have become extensive investors in lots, one purchaser taking sixteen in a body and our own citizens have not been at all backward in securing sites for future houses. Charlie Buford and Albert Ziegler, within the last ten days, have each completed their dwellings and Charlie says he now has a roof over him that turns the water outside instead of in and doesn't have to pay rent for it either, while Albert will probably occupy his with a hired family until picnics can furnish more girls than married women. Other houses are said to be under contract which will set the north side ahead.

AND still White Oaks has no cemetary. We learn that the Masons are looking about for a lot which they can consecrate for their dead. This, to our view, is selfish, especially when it is considered that not one of them would be willing to start the population of their "city of the dead." Rather let a few acres be secured for the public benefit, and then, arrangements for disassociation with the vulgar herd can be secured by such as desire it. The day cannot be far distant when this subject will demand attention and it should not be permitted to sleep until then.
