RICHARD BENNETT IN "DAMAGED GOODS"
A MUTUAL SPECIAL FEATURE IN SEVEN PARTS
MADE BY AMERICAN

"Damaged Goods" pictures the terrible consequences of vice and the physical ruin that follows abuse of the moral law. It is a stirring plea for a pure life before marriage, in order to make impossible the transmission of hereditary taints to future generations.

This 7 reel picture will make mother, father, daughter and son think and beware. It has played return engagements in all the large cities. This is a guarantee.

M. W. Mills Pinched

(Springer Times)

Deputy Sheriff Cunningham arrested M. W. Mills, a local attorney last Saturday on a warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon. Mills was taken before the justice of the peace after spending a short time in jail and was granted a continuance of his hearing until Monday morning. A further continuance was granted Monday morning and in the meantime the state lost its star witnesses, who left town as a result of a report that the local attorney was about to serve a warrant on him for assault and battery. Being minus the necessary funds with which to defend himself the star witness fitted hence. It is reported that the gun play occurred as a result of the demands of a former employe of the local attorney for the sum which was due him for work. The state laws prohibit any person from drawing a six shooter without discharging it, and it is said that the defendant was given ample time to shoot before the gun was taken from him by Inspector M. G. Keenan. The attorney attempted to dissuade Deputy Cunningham from throwing him into the city bastille but his arguments were of little avail; he was led to the cage in the presence of a large audience. The performance reminded the spectators of a common scene in a branding corral where the husky calf sets back at the end of a saddle rope and is lead along by leaps and bounds. The local attorney is obliged to two Raton citizens who were present during the show, for his release from the carcel. It was necessary that the attorney be present at a stockholders' meeting which came to an abrupt conclusion when their counsel was taken into custody.

Miss Maize a Clever Trapper

Miss Edith Maize, whose ranch is located under the rim rock on the slope of the Bartlett Mesa, just north of the city, brought down Wednesday two lynx pelts taken from animals recently caught by her in traps set near the ranch house.

During the past winter, Miss Edith has been sufficiently clever in setting her traps to catch 3 lynx and nine coyotes, upon which she secures from the county a bounty of $2 for each scalp. The three lynx pelts, which are unusually nice ones, are being made into rugs to adorn the floor of her bedroom. According to tell-tale tracks left in the snow there are four lynx that have made their homes in the vicinity of Raton Peak during the winter. Three of these have fallen victims to the traps set by Miss Maize, and the fourth she expects to bag before summer. The riddance of the neighborhood of these night prowlers is the best insurance the ranchmen can have against frequent raids on barnyard flocks. To trap these crafty animals requires considerable knowledge of the game, at which Miss Maize seems to be an adept.—Raton Range.

Advantage of Home School

An advertisement of the New Mexico State University, now running in the Citizen, brings forward a new and very impressive view of the value of attendance upon New Mexico educational institutions by young men and young women of this state who expect to make their homes in New Mexico after college education has been completed. This is the matter of acquaintances, friendships and personal relations formed during college days; and the knowledge acquired during these days of resources, conditions and opportunities existing in the region wherein the educational institution is located.

The New Mexico boy, for instance, whose parents live in New Mexico, and whose future home is likely to be in this state after college days are over, will, if he attends New Mexico educational institutions, be able to absorb during his college days a vast fund of practical information about the state's conditions, resources and business and development opportunities which may reasonably be expected to prove of enormous practical value to him when everyday working years begin. He gets this information if he is alert, as a matter of course, during his college work, and without extra effort.

If, on the other hand, the New Mexico boy goes to an eastern institution and then returns to this state to make his living, the acquaintances formed in the eastern school are lost for all practical utility and he must spend a few years at least in learning the practically useless things about his working environment. It means that the eastern school, no matter how well it may have finished him in theory, has cost him loss of valuable time and double effort.

For the young man who expects to live his life in New Mexico, theory and practical information come in a single operation and with a single effort at the New Mexico institution.

The University might have pointed out the added fact that the theoretical part of the education can be had in the New Mexico educational institution just as thoroughly and at about half the cost involved in attending an eastern college, which from a practical standpoint, clinches the argument for our home institution.

Dear Sir:

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the advertisement of sale of state land. For general information regarding same, part of section ten, of the Enabling Act is quoted and reads as follows:

Said lands shall not be sold or leased, in whole or in part, except to the highest bidder at a public auction to be held at the county seat of a county wherein the lands to be affected or the major portion thereof, shall lie, notice of which public auction shall first have been duly given by advertisement, which shall set forth the nature, time, and place of the transaction to be had, with a full description of the lands to be offered, and to be published once each week for not less than ten successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published regularly at the state capital, and in that newspaper of like circulation which shall then be regularly published nearest to the location of the lands so offered; nor shall any sale or contract for the sale of any timber or other natural product of such lands be made, save at the place, in the manner, and after the notice by publication thus provided for sales and leases of the lands themselves; PROVIDED, That nothing herein contained shall prevent said proposed State from leasing any of said lands referred to in this section for a term of five years or less without advertisement herein required."

The State Land Office has designated the STATE RECORD as the paper located at the capital for such notices and has, in practically every instance, designated a paper nearest to the land for such local advertisements.

When parties make inquiry as to where they can find land sale notices published, it is difficult to tell them the county paper in which the notice is to be placed until the land is ready for sale, as the land may be in varying sized tracts. Therefore, such parties are informed that the notices will always be found in the State Record.

Yours respectfully,
Robt. P. Ervien,
Commissioner.

HENRY FOR THE SENATE

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Henry Ford today declared the result of last Monday's presidential preference primary, in which he defeated United States Senator W. was a victory for peace rather A. Smith by more than 5,000 votes than for himself. He interpreted it as meaning that a majority of Michigan voters endorsed his views on preparedness. He also reiterated his assertion that he is not in politics.

"I am glad," said Mr. Ford, "because I interpret the honor as an expression of a majority of the voters that they believe as I do against military preparedness and the exploitation of the working man by the moneyed munitions interests. I believe that, if the people urging us to prepare, get us into the state of preparation that they desire, they will find us in a war in a very short time. The primary vote leads me to believe that the majority of the voters in Michigan feel the same way.

In the Race to Stay

Washington, April 8.—Secretary Baker stated most emphatically late today that there was "absolutely no basis of any kind for reports that preparations are under way for withdrawing American troops from Mexico. He said the American troops were moving rapidly south and that the orders to General Funston following the Columbus massacre had been unchanged.

Secretary Baker made the following statement:

"The object of the expedition was stated when it was undertaken. It has never been changed. No other orders have been given and the expedition is busily pursuing it now with what I hope is a fair chance of early success."

Dairy Has Jitney

D. Pembleton, proprietor of the Pure Food Dairy, has annexed a jitney delivery car which he is utilizing in making his daily rounds over the milk route. He purchased the Dean Ford and this enables Mr. Pembleton to make the rounds in far less time than when Dobbin pulled the cart.
